Russian Charge Fired Back

U.S. Declares Soviets Trying To Wreck Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States fired Monday a double-barreled rejection of Soviet charges of air space violation and said Moscow, not Washington, is dimming chances of success at the coming Geneva talks on Germany.

State Department press officer Lincoln White denied "as strongly as I possibly can" Moscow's accusation Sunday that the United States deliberately flouted Berlin's air corridor rules by a high altitude plane flight March 27. The Soviets said this was done to wreck prospects at the Geneva parley starting May 11.

"The question of who is trying to wreck what is determined, it seems to me, by the actions of the Soviet Union and not of the United States," White said. He issued two American versions of air plane incidents in different parts of the world.

Complaint Turned Down

In the first, he released a State Department note turning down a Soviet complaint of March 5 that U. S. Air Force planes had violated Soviet airspace last November.

The U. S. note, dated March 25, repeated earlier protests that Soviet fighters had fired on an American plane over the Baltic Sea and had simulated attacks on a U. S. plane over the Sea of Japan.

It said the U. S. craft—which were not hit—were in international space more than 60 miles from the nearest Soviet territory.

Washington's note said the Soviets were the ones straining relations between the two countries. White said this note was finally made public because of Moscow's drumfire of accusations that America is provoking a bad international atmosphere.

Secondly, White denounced as groundless Moscow's renewed claim Sunday that the March 27 flight into Berlin by a C130 transport at 20,000 feet violated air corridor rules.

Plane Buzzed By Jets

Soviet jets buzzed the unarmed plane. The Reds said flights must not top 10,000 feet.

White said the United States has never recognized a ceiling on the corridor, but flew its planes at heights determined by weather conditions and aircraft efficiency. He said planes have flown into Berlin in the past at above 10,000 feet.

He declined to say whether more such flights are in the offing, but reported no pleas have come in from the Allies to keep U. S. planes below 10,000 feet pending the May 11 foreign ministers conference.

White described Moscow's linking the C130 flight-corridor incident to the forthcoming talks on the German crisis as a gimmick by the Soviets.

Reds Charge SEATO Preparing For War

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union asserted Monday the western allies hope to convert Thailand, Pakistan and the Philippines "into bases for an eventual missile-nuclear war, which is fraught with mortal danger to them."

In a commentary on the meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization in Wellington, New Zealand, the official Soviet news agency Tass described SEATO as "an aggressive bloc created as a tool for preparing war in Southeast Asia."

The statement declared a main purpose of the meeting is to unify SEATO, the Baghdad Pact, and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

State Rests In Connie Nicholas Murder Trial

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The state rested its case Monday in the murder trial of Minnie B. (Connie) Nicholas after a nerve surgeon testified her right arm was paralyzed in a suicide attempt.

The defense contends it occurred from an injury in a struggle with her lover of 15 years.

Defense lawyers were granted a recess when the afternoon session began and will start presenting witnesses Tuesday morning.

Charles W. Symmes, one of the 44-year-old divorcee's three attorneys, indicated Mrs. Nicholas may take the stand Wednesday to tell her version of the long romance that ended in the death of Forrest Teel, 54, a drug company executive.

The prosecution climaxed its case with testimony from Dr. John A. Hetherington, a leading Indianapolis neurosurgeon. The doctor said partial paralysis of Mrs. Nicholas' right arm probably resulted from her 19-hour coma in a nearly successful suicide attempt following the July 31 shooting.

Dr. Hetherington denied defense contentions the arm injury may have been inflicted in a struggle with Teel in his car over the pearl-handled revolver that killed him.

Woman's Body Found

BALTIMORE (AP) — The body of a woman believed to be about 25 years old washed ashore Monday in Curtis Bay near the Sinclair Oil Co. piers at Wagner's Point. A dock worker found the body.

Police said the body appeared to have been in the water about three weeks. They were unable to determine the race of the victim.

Intercontinental Snark Fired In Full-Dress Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Strategic Air Command missile men fired their first combat-type intercontinental Snark Monday night in a full-dress, 5,000 - mile test of the ocean-hopping weapon.

The swept-wing Snark, the nation's first and only operational intercontinental missile, shot out over the dark Atlantic with a twin flash of flame. Its two solid - fuel boosters dropped off at the tip of the cape and apparently were the the cause of a brush fire which was ignited seconds later.

Using its self - contained, extremely accurate guidance system, the air-breathing weapon headed for Ascension Island, halfway between the coasts of Brazil and Africa. The flight was expected to take about eight hours.

President Flies To Augusta, Ga.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower flies to Augusta, Ga., Tuesday for an extended vacation and some exercise in the Southland's warm sunshine.

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, was scheduled to leave at 10:30 a.m., e.s.t., arriving in Augusta about two hours later. He may remain until the middle of the month or later.

Eisenhower has not had an extended absence from his office since late November when he was in Augusta. His physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, and members of the White House staff have been urging him to spend several weeks in a warm climate.

The President will be accompanied by a relatively small staff, but there may be visits by administration officials during his stay. A group of Republican leaders may fly to Augusta later this week to discuss selection of a new GOP national chairman.

Four Patuxent Fugitives Still Free, 30 Nabbed

JESSUPS, Md. (AP) — A State Police trooper won a three-quarter mile footrace Monday night and captured two young escaped prisoners from the Patuxent Institution for mental delinquents.

That left only four still at large of the 34 who escaped Sunday night after ringleaders had pounded on two unarmed guards, seized their keys and opened six doors.

Trooper Wilbur Lawrence spotted the two fugitives on a railroad trestle at Elkridge and gave chase. He was joined in the chase by citizens who helped subdue the pair, Edward Combs, 22, of Fallstown, Md., and Robert C. Cannon, 21, of Washington, D. C.

It was the largest prison break in Maryland history.

In ones and twos, sometimes more, the fugitives were picked up by an estimated 300 state troopers, county police, National Guardsmen and U.S. Marines making a massive air - ground search under the direction of Maj. William H. Weber, state police executive officer.

Guardsmen ringed the area and Maj. Weber said his men were contacting residents in an attempt to get leads on the remainder of the men.

The institution for defective delinquents, 15 miles southwest of Baltimore, has no walls. The men seized the guards' keys Sunday night and unlocked six doors between them and freedom.

This was the third successful break from Patuxent since it was established four years ago. A kind of model reform school, it aims at rehabilitating inmates described by the superintendent as mentally and emotionally defective.

There are 331 inmates. Those who escaped, mostly in their 20s, were serving time for robbery, larceny or burglary.

Four men picked up after they were spotted by low-flying police airplanes gave authorities trouble when they were returned to Patuxent. They broke loose as guards attempted to put them in cells, breaking furniture and swinging clubs, but police moved in and quelled the outbreak.

The first prisoner captured was taken about a mile from Patuxent. He had broken his ankle. Three were captured in Baltimore City when a passer-by saw three men in a station wagon changing from prison garb to civilian clothes. A companion was picked up a block away.

Begin Leaving Iraq

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The withdrawal of 300 British airmen and their 60 dependents from Habbaniya Airbase in Iraq began Monday.

A chartered Middle East Airlines plane brought 50 Britons, including 15 wives and 26 children, here. Most of them left for Britain after a short rest.

Contestant On TV Stunt Show Accidentally Burned

NEW YORK (AP)—A burst of flames enveloped a contestant on a television stunt show Monday, throwing the studio into momentary uproar. It was not determined immediately how badly the victim was burned.

The National Broadcasting Co. declined to answer questions about the incident on its "County Fair" show, beyond issuing a statement which read:

"In a stunt on County Fair, for a reason not yet clear, there was an accident in which burns were sustained by a Mr. Manfred Weber of 8 Laurel Place, Tuckahoe, N.Y.

"He was given first aid on the scene. He then went to the NBC aid room where he declined further treatment and stated that he would go to his own doctor and hospital.

"A complete investigation is underway."

A spokesman for the show said the fire occurred while Weber was participating in an act where a match was touched to a fake firecracker fuse. His wife, blindfolded, was also taking part in the stunt.

At that moment, flour was dropped from above onto Weber's head. The match ignited the flour. The spokesman said Weber's clothing didn't catch fire although it appeared to the audience to have done so.

An ambulance was sent for after the incident.

The show was on the air from 4:30 to 5 p.m.

Egypt Says Armed Reds Iraq-Bound

Report, If True, Could Bring New Mideast Crisis

(By The Associated Press)

Egyptian authorities in Port Said reported a Soviet ship with 855 fully armed men of Kurdish origin sailed through the Suez Canal Monday night, bound for turbulent Iraq. Such a landing would raise a new and significant Communist threat in the sensitive oil producing areas of the Middle East.

The report passed through the censorship of Egypt, now engaged in a violent propaganda war with Iraq. The sketchy account provided few details. But if the report is true, it could foretoken a new cold war explosion over the Middle East.

Observers in Port Said described the armed men aboard the Soviet ship Gruzia (Georgia) as Soviet subjects of Kurdish origin. There are many Kurds in the southernmost regions of the Soviet Union.

Repatriation Pretext?

The same sources said they believed the Kurds were being shipped to Basra, Iraq's main Persian Gulf port, under a pretext of being repatriated to their country of origin. They would be given Iraqi nationality immediately upon their arrival, possibly for use as soldiers in the armed forces of leftist Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, the sources added.

This report follows accounts in the press of the United Arab Republic (Egypt and Syria) that Iraq's Premier Kassem had formed foreign legion units to enroll non-Iraqis for a fight against pan-Arab nationalist followers of the U.A.R.'s leader, President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Such a force also could be used as the nucleus of a Communist-controlled army for an autonomous Kurdistan inside Iraq. The Kurds, a non - Arab people who make up a sixth of Iraq's population of 6 million, are led by a Communist - trained mullah (priest) named Sheik Mustafa Barzani. He led an abortive 1946 attempt to set up an autonomous Kurdistan for the Kurdish people inhabiting northern Iraq, western Iran and eastern Turkey. Barzani returned only last summer, after the Iraqi revolution from 13 years of exile in Moscow.

The 1,030-ton Soviet ship came from the Ukrainian port of Odessa, Port Said authorities said. It is bound for Basra by way of the Red Sea, Gulf of Aden, Arabian Sea, Gulf of Aden, Arabian Sea, Gulf of Oman and the Persian Gulf.

That would be the only feasible way to infiltrate armed Soviet legionnaires. Air and land routes are blocked by the West's northern defense tier which links Turkey and Iran (and Pakistan and Britain) in the Baghdad Pact.

Couple Has Twins Again To Win Bet

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP)—High school teacher David Murray II and his wife won their 10-1 bet and will collect $1,000. They had twins — again.

Mrs. Murray gave birth to twin sons Sunday. Lloyds of London had insured the Murrays against such a happening for a $100 premium last November.

The Murrays have two other sets of twins, all four of them boys, aged 3½ and 4½.

Christopher Howell weighed in at 5 pounds 8½ ounces and Evan Douglas at 5 pounds 4½ ounches.

Susan Hayward, Niven, "Gigi" Capture Oscars

SUSAN HAYWARD

DAVID NIVEN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Red-haired Susan Hayward, a four-time loser, Monday night was crowned queen of Hollywood's actresses in winning the Academy Award for best actress of 1958. David Niven, an ex-British Army officer, reached the peak of his career with the award for best actor.

"Gigi," which won nine awards in all, was selected the top picture of 1958.

Miss Hayward, who literally ran to the stage to accept the statute, won the award for her performance in "I Want to Live"—the tragic story of Barbara Graham who was executed in the California gas chamber.

Niven's portrayal of a fraudulent British Army major in "Separate Tables" earned him the coveted Oscar. It is also the first time he had been so honored in a long film career.

"Thank you very much for making me so happy," Miss Hayward told a jam-packed, star-studded crowd in Hollywood Pantages Theater.

"Gigi," was the first musical to win the award since "American in Paris" in 1951. "Gigi" fell one Oscar short of the all time record of 10 set "Gone With the Wind" in 1939.

A special ovation was accorded Ingrid Bergman, who presented the Oscar for the best picture to producer Arthur Freed. Miss Bergman's appearance on the Pantages Stage before the packed house of 2,800 ended her 10-year-Hollywood exile which followed her love affair and marriage to Italian Director - Producer Roberto Rossellini.

Niven, who like Miss Hayward and "Gigi," had been tabbed to win, received a tremendous ovation when he trotted to the stage.

There were no surprises. All six of the top awards had been predicted earlier in the week.

Best supporting award for an actress went to English actress Wendy Hiller for her portrayal of a frustrated English hotel keeper in "Separate Tables." Bearded Burl Ives captured best supporting acting honors for his role of a tyrannical father in "The Big Country."

It was the first time also that either had won an award.

Director Vincente Minnelli, swept up in the "Gigi" avalanche, came away with the honor of best director of the year.

Best song honors also went to "Gigi," sung on the telecast by Tony Martin.

A flurry of excitement ran through the crowd with the announcement for the best screenplay, won by Nathan E. Douglas. Douglas, also known as Ned Young, once invoked the Fifth Amendment when questioned by a congressional committee regarding his political beliefs.

After receiving the award for "The Defiant Ones," Douglas said:

"I felt it means vindication in a larger sense—not for myself, but in relation to all the talent that is not being used because of the blacklist in Hollywood."

Tibetan Insurgents Reported Spreading Revolt To Red China

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Tibetan rebels, cheered by the freedom flight of their Dalai Lama god-king, have consolidated their grip on strategic territory and have carried the revolt into border provinces of Red China, reports said Monday.

The Peiping regime indirectly admitted continued fighting in a broadcast which said a number of Tibetans stranded in the capital of Lhasa have been unable to return home because of rebel activity.

While the Dalai Lama rested in the Indian Buddhist monastery at Towang after his 20-day flight to freedom from the Communist overlords in Lhasa, reports from the Indian border area of Gauhati and from Nationalist China said insurgents were spreading their revolt.

Nationalist Chinese intelligence sources at Taipei, Formosa, reported rebels had seized three towns in Chinghai province and still were fighting there as of last Saturday.

Dispatches from Gauhati in India's Assam state, said it appeared the Khamba rebel tribesmen were well-entrenched in vast stretches of Tibet where the terrain is suited to their brand of hit-and-run warfare.

The Chinese Communist campaign against the rebels and attacks on the Dalai Lama were generating anti-Communist sentiment in officially neutral India.

Radio Peiping broadcasts charged the Dali Lama was under the spell of reactionary elements—a propaganda offensive that was expected to strain Indian-Chinese relations further.

Five Dead In Mass Murder And Suicide

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—Five members of a family were found dead Monday in a blazing two - family house and police termed it "apparent mass murder and suicide."

The victims included Kirt R. Kraus his sister, and his three children.

His wife was reported safe at a neighbor's home.

Police said Kraus apparently set fire to his home after slaying the children and his sister — then took his own life.

One of the children, Kraus and his sister were found hanged, said police. Another child was strangled and another was killed by a blow from an ax, according to police.

Seven Young Men Chosen As Mercury Astronauts, U.S. Space Contest Team

WASHINGTON (AP)—Seven superb young Americans will make up the team which will represent the United States in the drive to put a man into orbit around the earth.

This fact came out Monday. Their names were still kept secret but may be made public soon, possibly later this week.

The seven will be called Mercury Astronauts, just as America's first manned satellite venture is known as Project Mercury. They're the pick from a squad of 110 carefully selected men, all of them military test pilots.

It had been planned to have a team of 12. It was decided to hold the number to seven, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Monday, to make sure that each man will have a full part in every phase of the task.

These phases include the engineering and scientific development of the space vehicle, test flights at moderate speeds and altitudes building up toward the full scale missions, and the 18-000-mile-an-hour orbiting itself, 100 miles or more above the earth.

The Mercury Astronauts will report to Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va., within a few days to start orbital flight training. The training program probably will last two years.

NASA also disclosed that so many of the 110 first-chosen pilots volunteered that the agency never got through its full list of candidates.

"It was found unnecessary to contact all," it said.

"Of the first 69 called to Washington to hear Project Mercury outlined, 80 per cent volunteered. All were of such high caliber that selection was difficult.

"Through individual interviews and suitability discussions to determine motivation, experience and technical background, a group of 32 was selected to proceed further in the program. The seven Mercury Astronauts will come from this group of 32."

All were graduates of military test pilot training schools, had at least 1,500 hours of flying time, and held the equivalent of bachelor's degrees in engineering or the physical sciences.

All were under 40 years of age, and none was taller than 5 feet 11 inches. The space capsule in which the Astronauts will venture out beyond the earth's atmosphere will have cramped quarters for pilots.

Improvement Last Month Best In Years

Eisenhower Leads Parade Of Glowing Economic Forecasts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government said Monday night that March improvement in the nation's job picture was the best in years. The over-all economy was reported to have registered a new high during the first quarter of 1959.

President Eisenhower and his Commerce and Labor cabinet members issued a series of glowing predictions promising that data to be issued in a day or two will demonstrate business is even better than had been anticipated.

Eisenhower started out the round of happy predictions. He promised a new jobs report Tuesday will be gratifying and hinted at a substantial cut in unemployment.

Then, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell arranged for the Labor Department to put out the job data Tuesday at an unprecedented news conference.

More Than Seasonal Drop

Finally, Secretary of Commerce Lewis Strauss issued a statement saying the job figures "will show a more than seasonal drop in unemployment and a substantial rise in employment—actually the best improvement figures between February and March in years."

The guessing was that employment will increase by about 500,000 jobs with unemployment declining around 300,000 to 400,000. This would still leave unemployment well above the four-million mark.

The latest previous unemployment figure was 4,749,000 for February when 62,722,000 were employed.

The history of changes in unemployment between February and March for the past decade has been as follows: Down 93,000 in 1949, down 486,000 in 1950, down 22,000 in 1951, down 320,000 in 1952, down 134,000 in 1953, up 58,000 in 1954, down 257,000 in 1955, down 11,000 in 1956, down 239,000 in 1957, and up 25,000 in 1958.

An unemployment cut of 300,000 would be the biggest since 1952 and one of 325,000 the biggest since 1950.

Bright Picture Drawn

Strauss made these other observations:

1. Latest department statistics, most of them as yet unannounced, "make it apparent that business is good, in fact much better than was anticipated at the start of the year."

2. National income has hit a new peak.

3. Business plant and equipment spending is increasing more than expected.

4. The value of all goods and services produced — a statistic called the gross national product —hit a record annual rate of close o 465 billion dollars in the first quarter. This compares with 453 billion in the 1958 final quarter.

5. With income up and prices taying stable, purchasing power now is at the highest point ever reached in the United States.

"The signs indicate that the current spring vigor in the economy should increase in the coming months," Strauss said.

Hunt Pressed For Boy's Killer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Police searched Wisconsin for a blood-stained station wagon Monday in their manhunt for the bushy-haired killer who kidnaped 5 year-old Ben Wagner and stabbed him to death.

Lawmen of Milwaukee and neighboring Ozaukee county also looked for roadside restaurants where the kidnaper might have tried to soothe his victim's cries with a last meal.

Ben was lured into a car in his Milwaukee neighborhood Saturday night by a man described as young and bushy-haired. Sunday morning, a newspaper deliverer found the little boy's body, stabbed five times, dumped in a ditch in the town of Grafton, Wis., 16 miles north of Milwaukee.

Police had two major leads to work on — a motorist who apparently saw the killer's station wagon, with Ben waving frantically in the front seat, and evidence of food in the murdered boy's stomach.

It was the largest prison break in Maryland history.

In ones and twos, sometimes more, the fugitives were picked up by an estimated 300 state troopers, county police, National Guardsmen and U.S. Marines making a massive air-ground search under the direction of Maj. William H. Weber, state police executive officer.

Guardsmen ringed the area and Maj. Weber said his men were contacting residents in an attempt to get leads on the remainder of the men.

The institution for defective delinquents, 15 miles southwest of Baltimore, has no walls. The men seized the guards' keys Sunday night and unlocked six doors between them and freedom.

This was the third successful break from Patuxent since it was established four years ago. A kind of model reform school, it aims at rehabilitating inmates described by the superintendent as mentally and emotionally defective.

There are 331 inmates. Those who escaped, mostly in their 20s, were serving time for robbery, larceny or burglary.

Four men picked up after they were spotted by low-flying police airplanes gave authorities trouble when they were returned to Patuxent. They broke loose as guards attempted to put them in cells, breaking furniture and swinging clubs, but police moved in and quelled the outbreak.

The first prisoner captured was taken about a mile from Patuxent. He had broken his ankle. Three were captured in Baltimore City when a passer-by saw three men in a station wagon changing from prison garb to civilian clothes. A companion was picked up a block away.

Begin Leaving Iraq

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The withdrawal of 300 British airmen and their 60 dependents from Habbaniya Airbase in Iraq began Monday.

A chartered Middle East Airlines plane brought 50 Britons, including 15 wives and 26 children, here. Most of them left for Britain after a short rest.

Egypt Says Armed Reds Iraq-Bound

Report, If True, Could Bring New Mideast Crisis

(By The Associated Press)

Egyptian authorities in Port Said reported a Soviet ship with 855 fully armed men of Kurdish origin sailed through the Suez Canal Monday night, bound for turbulent Iraq. Such a landing would raise a new and significant Communist threat in the sensitive oil producing areas of the Middle East.

The report passed through the censorship of Egypt, now engaged in a violent propaganda war with Iraq. The sketchy account provided few details. But if the report is true, it could foretoken a new cold war explosion over the Middle East.

Observers in Port Said described the armed men aboard the Soviet ship Gruzia (Georgia) as Soviet subjects of Kurdish origin. There are many Kurds in the southernmost regions of the Soviet Union.

Repatriation Pretext?

The same sources said they believed the Kurds were being shipped to Basra, Iraq's main Persian Gulf port, under a pretext of being repatriated to their country of origin. They would be given Iraqi nationality immediately upon their arrival, possibly for use as soldiers in the armed forces of leftist Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, the sources added.

This report follows accounts in the press of the United Arab Republic (Egypt and Syria) that Iraq's Premier Kassem had formed foreign legion units to enroll non-Iraqis for a fight against pan-Arab nationalist followers of the U.A.R.'s leader, President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Such a force also could be used as the nucleus of a Communist-controlled army for an autonomous Kurdistan inside Iraq. The Kurds, a non-Arab people who make up a sixth of Iraq's population of 6 million, are led by a Communist-trained mullah (priest) named Sheik Mustafa Barzani. He led an abortive 1946 attempt to set up an autonomous Kurdistan for the Kurdish people inhabiting northern Iraq, western Iran and eastern Turkey. Barzani returned only last summer, after the Iraqi revolution from 13 years of exile in Moscow.

The 1,030-ton Soviet ship came from the Ukrainian port of Odessa, Port Said authorities said. It is bound for Basra by way of the Red Sea, Gulf of Aden, Arabian Sea, Gulf of Aden, Arabian Sea, Gulf of Oman and the Persian Gulf.

That would be the only feasible way to infiltrate armed Soviet legionnaires. Air and land routes are blocked by the West's northern defense tier which links Turkey and Iran (and Pakistan and Britain) in the Baghdad Pact.

Couple Has Twins Again To Win Bet

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) —High school teacher David Murray II and his wife won their 10-1 bet and will collect $1,000. They had twins — again.

Mrs. Murray gave birth to twin sons Sunday. Lloyds of London had insured the Murrays against such a happening for a $100 premium last November.

The Murrays have two other sets of twins, all four of them boys, aged 3½ and 4½.

Christopher Howell weighed in at 5 pounds 8½ ounces and Evan Douglas at 5 pounds 4½ ounches.

DAVID NIVEN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Red-haired Susan Hayward, a four-time loser, Monday night was crowned queen of Hollywood's actresses in winning the Academy Award for best actress of 1958. David Niven, an ex-British Army officer, reached the peak of his career with the award for best actor.

"Gigi," which won nine awards in all, was selected the top picture of 1958.

Miss Hayward, who literally ran to the stage to accept the statute, won the award for her performance in "I Want to Live"—the tragic story of Barbara Graham who was executed in the California gas chamber.

Niven's portrayal of a fraudulent British Army major in "Separate Tables" earned him the coveted Oscar. It is also the first time he had been so honored in a long film career.

"Thank you very much for making me so happy," Miss Hayward told a jam-packed, star-studded crowd in Hollywood Pantages Theater.

"Gigi," was the first musical to win the award since "American in Paris" in 1951. "Gigi" fell one Oscar short of the all time record of 10 set "Gone With the Wind" in 1939.

A special ovation was accorded Ingrid Bergman, who presented the Oscar for the best picture to producer Arthur Freed. Miss Bergman's appearance on the Pantages Stage before the packed house of 2,800 ended her 10-year-Hollywood exile which followed her love affair and marriage to Italian Director-Producer Roberto Rossellini.

Niven, who like Miss Hayward and "Gigi," had been tabbed to win, received a tremendous ovation when he trotted to the stage.

There were no surprises. All six of the top awards had been predicted earlier in the week.

Best supporting award for an actress went to English actress Wendy Hiller for her portrayal of a frustrated English hotel keeper in "Separate Tables." Bearded Burl Ives captured best supporting acting honors for his role of a tyrannical father in "The Big Country."

It was the first time also that either had won an award.

Director Vincente Minnelli, swept up in the "Gigi" avalanche, came away with the honor of best director of the year.

Best song honors also went to "Gigi," sung on the telecast by Tony Martin.

A flurry of excitement ran through the crowd with the announcement for the best screenplay, won by Nathan E. Douglas. Douglas, also known as Ned Young, once invoked the Fifth Amendment when questioned by a congressional committee regarding his political beliefs.

After receiving the award for "The Defiant Ones," Douglas said:

"I felt it means vindication in a larger sense—not for myself, but in relation to all the talent that is not being used because of the blacklist in Hollywood."

Tibetan Insurgents Reported Spreading Revolt To Red China

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Tibetan rebels, cheered by the freedom flight of their Dalai Lama god-king, have consolidated their grip on strategic territory and have carried the revolt into border provinces of Red China, reports said Monday.

The Peiping regime indirectly admitted continued fighting in a broadcast which said a number of Tibetans stranded in the capital of Lhasa have been unable to return home because of rebel activity.

While the Dalai Lama rested in the Indian Buddhist monastery at Towang after his 20-day flight to freedom from the Communist overlords in Lhasa, reports from the Indian border area of Gauhati and from Nationalist China said insurgents were spreading their revolt.

Nationalist Chinese intelligence sources at Taipei, Formosa, reported rebels had seized three towns in Chinghai province and still were fighting there as of last Saturday.

Dispatches from Gauhati in India's Assam state, said it appeared the Khamba rebel tribesmen were well-entrenched in vast stretches of Tibet where the terrain is suited to their brand of hit-and-run warfare.

The Chinese Communist campaign against the rebels and attacks on the Dalai Lama were generating anti-Communist sentiment in officially neutral India.

Radio Peiping broadcasts charged the Dali Lama was under the spell of reactionary elements—a propaganda offensive that was expected to strain Indian-Chinese relations further.

Five Dead In Mass Murder And Suicide

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—Five members of a family were found dead Monday in a blazing two-family house and police termed it "apparent mass murder and suicide."

The victims included Kirt R. Kraus his sister, and his three children.

His wife was reported safe at a neighbor's home.

Police said Kraus apparently set fire to his home after slaying the children and his sister — then took his own life.

One of the children, Kraus and his sister were found hanged, said police. Another child was strangled and another was killed by a blow from an ax, according to police.

Seven Young Men Chosen As Mercury Astronauts, U.S. Space Contest Team

WASHINGTON (AP)—Seven superb young Americans will make up the team which will represent the United States in the drive to put a man into orbit around the earth.

This fact came out Monday. Their names were still kept secret but may be made public soon, possibly later this week.

The seven will be called Mercury Astronauts, just as America's first manned satellite venture is known as Project Mercury. They're the pick from a squad of 110 carefully selected men, all of them military test pilots.

It had been planned to have a team of 12. It was decided to hold the number to seven, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Monday, to make sure that each man will have a full part in every phase of the task.

These phases include the engineering and scientific development of the space vehicle, test flights at moderate speeds and altitudes building up toward the full scale missions, and the 18-000-mile-an-hour orbiting itself, 100 miles or more above the earth.

The Mercury Astronauts will report to Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va., within a few days to start orbital flight training. The training program probably will last two years.

NASA also disclosed that so many of the 110 first-chosen pilots volunteered that the agency never got through its full list of candidates.

"It was found unnecessary to contact all," it said.

"Of the first 69 called to Washington to hear Project Mercury outlined, 80 per cent volunteered. All were of such high caliber that selection was difficult.

"Through individual interviews and suitability discussions to determine motivation, experience and technical background, a group of 32 was selected to proceed further in the program. The seven Mercury Astronauts will come from this group of 32."

All were graduates of military test pilot training schools, had at least 1,500 hours of flying time, and held the equivalent of bachelor's degrees in engineering or the physical sciences.

All were under 40 years of age, and none was taller than 5 feet 11 inches. The space capsule in which the Astronauts will venture out beyond the earth's atmosphere will have cramped quarters for pilots.

Improvement Last Month Best In Years

Eisenhower Leads Parade Of Glowing Economic Forecasts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government said Monday night that March improvement in the nation's job picture was the best in years. The over-all economy was reported to have registered a new high during the first quarter of 1959.

President Eisenhower and his Commerce and Labor cabinet members issued a series of glowing predictions promising that data to be issued in a day or two will demonstrate business is even better than had been anticipated.

Eisenhower started out the round of happy predictions. He promised a new jobs report Tuesday will be gratifying and hinted at a substantial cut in unemployment.

Then, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell arranged for the Labor Department to put out the job data Tuesday at an unprecedented news conference.

More Than Seasonal Drop

Finally, Secretary of Commerce Lewis Strauss issued a statement saying the job figures "will show a more than seasonal drop in unemployment and a substantial rise in employment—actually the best improvement figures between February and March in years."

The guessing was that employment will increase by about 500,000 jobs with unemployment declining around 300,000 to 400,000. This would still leave unemployment well above the four-million mark.

The latest previous unemployment figure was 4,749,000 for February when 62,722,000 were employed.

The history of changes in unemployment between February and March for the past decade has been as follows: Down 93,000 in 1949, down 486,000 in 1950, down 22,000 in 1951, down 320,000 in 1952, down 134,000 in 1953, up 58,000 in 1954, down 257,000 in 1955, down 11,000 in 1956, down 239,000 in 1957, and up 25,000 in 1958.

An unemployment cut of 300,000 would be the biggest since 1952 and one of 325,000 the biggest since 1950.

Bright Picture Drawn

Strauss made these other observations:

1. Latest department statistics, most of them as yet unannounced, "make it apparent that business is good, in fact much better than was anticipated at the start of the year."
2. National income has hit a new peak.
3. Business plant and equipment spending is increasing more than expected.
4. The value of all goods and services produced — a statistic called the gross national product —hit a record annual rate of close o 465 billion dollars in the first quarter. This compares with 453 billion in the 1958 final quarter.
5. With income up and prices taying stable, purchasing power now is at the highest point ever reached in the United States.

"The signs indicate that the current spring vigor in the economy should increase in the coming months," Strauss said.

Hunt Pressed For Boy's Killer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Police searched Wisconsin for a blood-stained station wagon Monday in their manhunt for the bushy-haired killer who kidnaped 5 year-old Ben Wagner and stabbed him to death.

Lawmen of Milwaukee and neighboring Ozaukee county also looked for roadside restaurants where the kidnaper might have tried to soothe his victim's cries with a last meal.

Ben was lured into a car in his Milwaukee neighborhood Saturday night by a man described as young and bushy-haired. Sunday morning, a newspaper deliverer found the little boy's body, stabbed five times, dumped in a ditch in the town of Grafton, Wis., 16 miles north of Milwaukee.

Police had two major leads to work on — a motorist who apparently saw the killer's station wagon, with Ben waving frantically in the front seat,and evidence of food in the murdered boy's stomach.

Charge Of Child Stealing Against Pair Dismissed

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Charges of child stealing were dismissed Monday against two men caught in an attempt to abduct the children of a West Virginia steel company executive.

Municipal Judge Eugene Theriau dismissed the charges against private detective Ray G. Moulton, 49, of San Jose, Calif., and railroad conductor Charles S. Lewis, 33, of Warm Springs, Calif.

Dist. Atty. William O. Mackey explained that there were no grounds for prosecution because steelman Richard Raese, Morgantown, W. Va., had left the state with his three sons.

Moulton and Lewis were released.

The two men bungled an attempt March 29 to carry off Raese's sons, Richard, 10, John, I, and David 6, from the home of orchestra leader Eddie Le Baron where they were vacationing.

The private detective said he had been offered $5,000 and given a $500 down payment to take the children to their mother, Mrs. James Kelley, who claimed she won custody of the children in a Dade County, Fla., hearing.

The boys were outside Le Baron's home when Moulton and Lewis drove up and attempted to force them into a car. They succeeded with the older boys, but young David ran screaming for help.

Neighbors attracted by the screams chased the car carrying the shouting children and overtook Moulton and Lewis at the scene of an accident which blocked the road.

The children were returned to Raese and the private detective and railroad conductor were put in jail.

Raese said his former wife, divorced in West Virginia four years ago, had "no legal right" to the children.

"I was given custody of the children in West Virginia, where they live," he said.

Raese is vice president of the Greer Steel Co.

U.S. Attorneys Told Anticrime Drive Pays Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal prosecutors from all around the country were told Monday a year-old offensive against bigtime crime has shown gratifying results. They were urged to keep up the good work.

Atty. Gen. Williams P. Rogers and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover joined in saying this to 94 U.S. attorneys gathered for their annual conference with Justice Department officials.

Both Rogers and Hoover stressed the need for unceasing cooperation with state and local law enforcement agencies in the anticrime drive that was kicked off in April, 1958.

Despite gains in the past year, they said, the crime problem still is a big one. The underworld is taking about 22 billion dollars a year from decent citizens, Hoover told the prosecutors.

Rogers reported that as a result of information pooling by police at all levels, several underworld leaders have been prosecuted successfully during the last 12 months.

The attorney general made special mention of the conviction in New York last week of Vito Genovese on charges of heading an international narcotics ring. Genovese, reputedly a kingpin in the secret society known as the Mafia, allegedly has made some 30 million dollars through racketeering. Fourteen henchmen were convicted with him.

Underscoring the role of state and local police authorities, Hoover said they traditionally have been "the nation's front line troops in the fight against crime."

N&W, Virginian Seek To Merge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Norfolk and Western Railway Co. and the Virginian Railway Co. Monday formally applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to merge into a single system under the N.& W. name.

The consolidation plan, announced in mid-February, requires ICC sanction and also the approval of stockholders. The two railroads have estimated the merger would save 12 million dollars a year in expenses.

Virginian stockholders will vote on the plan at Norfolk, Va., April 30. N. & W. stockholders will vote at Roanoke, Va., May 14.

N. & W. President S. T. Saunders and Virginian President F. D. Beale noted in a joint statement that Monday's application marks the first time in many years that two major unaffiliated railroads have requested merger authority.

The lines are two of the largest coal-carrying railroads in the nation, serving important mining areas in Virginia and West Virginia.

The N. & W., which has 2,138 miles of railroad, extends from Columbus and Cincinnati, Ohio in the west, to Norfolk, Va., on the east.

The Virginian has 608 miles of road, extending from Deep Water Bridge, W. Va., to Norfolk.

Faubus Signs Blood Bill

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus has signed into law a legislative measure to require the labeling of blood for transfusions by race of donor.

Faubus said there was "a great demand by the public" for the bill. He said opposition of some physicians and others boiled down mainly to objections to the administrative detail of labeling.

Cop "Greeter" Lands In Prison

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bill Holt likes to give the cops a friendly greeting when he drives by. So now he is serving two-and-a-half years in prison.

It wasn't the way the 24-year-old Negro blinked his lights, but what happened afterward. Patrolman Jack Levi said he decided to investigate when the car blinked its lights as he drove by.

The auto sped away at speeds up to 70 miles an hour and on arresting Holt, Levi determined he had an auto thief as well as a speeder.

The officer quoted Holt that he "likes police" and usually waves, or blinks his lights if it's at night.

Chemical Clue To Up-Down Emotions Found

BOSTON (AP)—A chemical clue to explain and perhaps control our up-and-down roller-coaster emotions was reported Monday.

The key could be a chemical, nicknamed DPN, produced in the body.

Too much DPN may make you feel "down" and sort of blah. Too little may stimulate the body, bringing one of those bright, good days.

New evidence for this theory was described to the American Chemical Society by Richard A. Salvador, Ph.D., research pharmacologist of Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis.

He and associates find that one of the B vitamins, niacin, boosts the effect of some calm-down drugs or tranquillizers in mice.

A big shot of niacin alone produces increased amounts of DPN in the liver, lasting for 10 to 12 hours, they find. When the tranquillizer is given along with the vitamin, the extra DPN lasts for about 24 hours.

The tranquillizing effect may well come from high amounts of the DPN, the research indicates.

Niacin is used in the body to make DPN, and some other chemicals. The tranquillizer can apparently block some chemical steps so that more or all the vitamin is used for DPN. Increased DPN could mean calmer "low" days.

The Creek Indians were so named from the numerous creeks running through their lands.

Oklahoma Votes Today On Legalizing Liquor

(By The Associated Press)

Oklahoma citizens will decide Tuesday whether their state will remain the last bone dry state in the union.

In Chicago voters will choose a mayor. He'll either be Democrat Richard J. Daley, the heavy favorite who first was elected in 1955, or Republican Timothy Sheehan.

There'll also be some electing in Wisconsin, most importantly for a supreme court justice in nonpartisan voting.

Michigan opened the 1959 election lists Monday by choosing members of various state boards and two supreme court justices. These boards run state colleges and universities.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, the best known Michigan figure in national politics, was among the most active campaigners even though he wasn't in any race.

Democrat Williams and the Republicans also argued about the state's financial troubles even though these did not figure directly in the situation.

Williams said "irresponsible Republican politicians" had brought Michigan to the edge of financial collapse. The Republicans accused Williams of driving the state toward bankruptcy and chasing industry away.

Chemical Clue To Up-Down Emotions Found

BOSTON (AP)—A chemical clue to explain and perhaps control our up-and-down roller-coaster emotions was reported Monday.

The key could be a chemical, nicknamed DPN, produced in the body.

Too much DPN may make you feel "down" and sort of blah. Too little may stimulate the body, bringing one of those bright, good days.

New evidence for this theory was described to the American Chemical Society by Richard A. Salvador, Ph.D., research pharmacologist of Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis.

He and associates find that one of the B vitamins, niacin, boosts the effect of some calm-down drugs or tranquillizers in mice.

A big shot of niacin alone produces increased amounts of DPN in the liver, lasting for 10 to 12 hours, they find. When the tranquillizer is given along with the vitamin, the extra DPN lasts for about 24 hours.

The tranquillizing effect may well come from high amounts of the DPN, the research indicates.

Niacin is used in the body to make DPN, and some other chemicals. The tranquillizer can apparently block some chemical steps so that more or all the vitamin is used for DPN. Increased DPN could mean calmer "low" days.

The Creek Indians were so named from the numerous creeks running through their lands.

Oklahoma Votes Today On Legalizing Liquor

(By The Associated Press)

Oklahoma citizens will decide Tuesday whether their state will remain the last bone dry state in the union.

In Chicago voters will choose a mayor. He'll either be Democrat Richard J. Daley, the heavy favorite who first was elected in 1955, or Republican Timothy Sheehan.

There'll also be some electing in Wisconsin, most importantly for a supreme court justice in nonpartisan voting.

Michigan opened the 1959 election lists Monday by choosing members of various state boards and two supreme court justices. These boards run state colleges and universities.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, the best known Michigan figure in national politics, was among the most active campaigners even though he wasn't in any race.

Democrat Williams and the Republicans also argued about the state's financial troubles even though these did not figure directly in the situation.

Williams said "irresponsible Republican politicians" had brought Michigan to the edge of financial collapse. The Republicans accused Williams of driving the state toward bankruptcy and chasing industry away.

Two Young Runaways Found Unharmed In Barn

PENNSBORO, W. Va. (UPI) — Two small boys who ran away from home were found unharmed Monday in a barn about three miles from their home in northern Ritchie County.

State Police and Ritchie County authorities started a search for Herbert Davis, 14, and Larry Hoskins, 8, Sunday night after they were reported missing from their home at Mountain, W. Va., whose name was changed a few years ago from Mole Hill.

Sheriff James Cowan and another man, members of a 100-member search party, found the boys in the barn. They were reported in good condition, although it was reported they had spent the night in the open woods before finding the barn.

A helicopter aided in the search of the three-mile area around Mountain, near the Ritchie-Tyler County border.

Two State Hospital Escapees Hunted

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two of three patients who escaped from the Springfield State Hospital at nearby Sykesville were still at large Monday.

They fled the hospital Sunday night by smashing a window.

State police at Randallstown said Bernard Ivan Newman, 25, of Baltimore, was apprehended early in the day. Still at large were Joseph Welzie Yates, 14, of Baltimore, and Robert William Nash, 15, of Silver Spring, Md.

Railroad Seeks Suit's Dismissal

BALTIMORE (AP) — Federal Judge R. Dorsey Watkins has tentatively set April 10 for argument on a new defense motion to dismiss a suit in which a Western Maryland Railroad engineman seeks to block compulsory retirement of employes at age 65.

The petition for an injunction to restrain the railroad and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen from enforcing the retirement clause in a work contract was filed by J. W. Kirby of Baltimore.

Trial of the case originally had been set for Monday.

Kirby contends the retirement provision violates the Railway Labor Act and wasn't negotiated by the union and railroad in good faith.

The railroad replied that the retirement phase is a proper one for collective bargaining under the act and that the contract, effective Jan. 31, 1958, is legal. The brotherhood contended the federal court lacked jurisdiction in the case and that Kirby didn't have sufficient grounds for his petition for an injunction.

State Traffic Toll One Ahead Of 1958

BALTIMORE (AP)—The state's traffic death toll kept just a step ahead of last year's rate when a 55-year-old woman died of injuries received in a car-bus crash Sunday night.

The victim was Mrs. Shirley Rosenfield, whose death raised the fatality mark to 132, one more than for the same period of 1958.

Police said Mrs. Rosenfield's husband Jacob, 69, was attempting to make a lefthand turn in front of a bus on Park Heights Avenue when the vehicles collided. Rosenfield was taken to a hospital with head and rib injuries.

Homemade Bomb Explosion Costs Boy Two Fingers

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 13-year-old Baltimore boy lost two fingers of his left hand when a bomb he had made exploded while he held it.

Henry C. Scudder was in satisfactory condition in Union Memorial Hospital Monday.

Police reported that the youth packed match heads into an empty cylinder, placed a nail in the head, and then hit the nail with a hammer as he held the cylinder in his left hand.

A companion, Richard Baugher, 12, suffered burns of the forehead and face.

Rec Problems To Be Aired At Conference

BALTIMORE (AP) — The use of school recreation centers will be one of the discussion topics at a recreation and parks conference next month.

Dr. Elmon L. Vernier, director of physical education for the State Department of Education, said a "folks-at-home" approach will be taken to state and community recreation problems at the annual governor's conference May 1-2.

Vernier, chairman of this year's conference, said use and development of school recreation centers will be one of four major discussion topics at the Baltimore sessions.

Parking Meter Charge Made To City

L. E. Daniels, who said he had been a member of the City Police Force for 21 years at one time, took the department to task in a letter to the Mayor and Council today for alleged injustices in the meting out of parking tickets, non-operative meters on which motorists were tagged and other matters.

Daniels' letter,, read before council, brought from Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming the retort that "this is the first I've heard of these troubles."

Fleming, referring to Daniels' letters, said the 30-minute meters are not installed to allow a person to run all over town but for "quickie" stops to pay bills and take care of minor business matters. He said whenever the meter shows red, it is a violation and "there is not much we can do."

As for parking on a red line while loading and unloading, Fleming said he has urged officers to use "common sense" in the matter of tags and has preached to his officers to be fair to themselves as well as to the people of Cumberland.

The department has a payroll of a half million dollars annually, Fleming said, adding he is sure the people get a half million dollars in services.

Referring to out-of-service and non-operating meters, Fleming said officers have been told to use common sense in this instance. He said he has daily reports on out-of-service meters and if a ticket is issued on a bad meter "this is excused."

On another matter, Guy Clark, 300 South Street, called attention of council to what he termed the "deplorable condition" of the city's railroad crossings and asked who was responsible for maintaining them. He was told by council that the crossings are a railroad responsibility.

Traffic Club Makes Plans For Event

A "Queen of Transportation" contest will be held by the Tri-State Traffic Club as a part of the varied activities scheduled by the organization here during National Transportation Week May 10-16.

Cedric Miller, chairman of the queen's committee, said any woman between the ages of 19 and 35 years may enter. They may be married or single.

It is desirable, he pointed out, that she be employed in some phase of work relating to transportation, although this is not a specific requirement.

There will be no campaigning on the part of the contestants. The only requisite in this respect is participation as guests of the traffic club for the Armed Forces Day parade Monday, May 11; the rail-industry tour and regular traffic club meeting on Wednesday afternoon and evening, May 13, and the queen's coronation dance Friday night, May 15.

Miller announced that the queen will be named on the basis of the most votes received from the public viewing these four activities. He emphasized that personality, charm and poise will be the main qualifications for her selection.

The queen will be crowned at the coronation ball on Friday, May 15, at the Clary Club.

Interested contestants should contact the chairman, 1732 Frederick Street, telephone PA 4-1828.

City Advises Cab Owners To Decide On Rates

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming told local taxicab operators yesterday they should reach a decision themselves on rates to be charged the public.

Fleming announced the decision yesterday at the meeting of the Mayor and Council after referring to the fact that he had said last week in all probability an ordinance would be introduced today to regulate rates to be charged. Some cab concerns had urged such a move.

But Fleming said the matter has been discussed with council, individuals and businessmen. While opinion varied, it is the consensus that the city has adequate service and there is "no want" in the city for cab service.

It is the opinion of council, he continued, that the cab companies get together and work out rates and extra charges.

"We are not in the cab business," he added.

Fleming suggested all operators, independent and established, get together at a meeting and "come up with some unanimous rate decision. Tell us what you want as a group and we will be happy to act," he said.

Council last week passed an ordinance governing the operation of taxicabs including provisions for establishing rates if council so desires. If it does not set forth rates by order, council under the ordinance could still act as a governing body to see that any rates did not work a hardship on the public, it was pointed out.

Attorney Edward J. Ryan appeared before council yesterday in behalf of 14 small cab companies and the Independent Cab Association to question certain parts of the ordinance. He said he realized this should have done by the operators before the ordinance was enacted but he was presenting modification suggestions for council's consideration.

The question of fares should be left to open competition, Ryan said.

He also questioned the $5 license fee to be charged to cab operators and suggested that this be reduced to $1 in view of other charges the operator must pay including $3 for a chaffeur's license and 2 for a special chauffeur's license.

He also said since the men are required to carry insurance he did not see why the new city ordinance should require them to make a statement of their financial condition.

Collect $2,226.45

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming said yesterday the Police Department made 1,032 arrest and collected $2,226.45 in fines last month. The Fire Department responded to 68 calls. Damage was minor, he added.

PE Plans Two Projects In Area

Two projects in this section are in the Potomac Edison Company's plans for new construction and rehabilitation of existing facilities this year.

Several jobs have beer started and others are scheduled to get underway soon in the $1,500,000 program.

Heading the list is the construction of a new 132,500-volt power substation at McHenry at Deep Creek Lake.

This Garrett Substation, as it will be called, will cut down voltage on the high tension line from the Albright power house to the Ridgeley substation from the 132,500 volts to 34,500 volts.

This step-down transformer will be used as the primary source of power to the Hoyes and Jennings substations.

Work has already been started at the Westernport substation to provide automatic switching and reclosing on the 34,500 volt lines between Westernport, Frostburg, Keyser and the line serving the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company's Luke Mill and the Monongahela Power Company.

PE Plans Two Projects In Area

Two projects in this section are in the Potomac Edison Company's plans for new construction and rehabilitation of existing facilities this year.

Several jobs have beer started and others are scheduled to get underway soon in the $1,500,000 program.

Heading the list is the construction of a new 132,500-volt power substation at McHenry at Deep Creek Lake.

This Garrett Substation, as it will be called, will cut down voltage on the high tension line from the Albright power house to the Ridgeley substation from the 132,500 volts to 34,500 volts.

This step-down transformer will be used as the primary source of power to the Hoyes and Jennings substations.

Work has already been started at the Westernport substation to provide automatic switching and reclosing on the 34,500 volt lines between Westernport, Frostburg, Keyser and the line serving the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company's Luke Mill and the Monongahela Power Company.

Mayor Ray L. Wilt stated that town officials are neither opposing or urging the road. They feel, however, that a new road through the town is bound to inconvenienc some of the property owners and that the engineers have probably selected the best possible route.

A letter from Maddox and Hopkins, engineers of Silver Spring, stated that the State Roads Commission is not required to lay new sidewalks along the proposed new highway unless it is to replace a sidewalk that is torn up because of the relocation of a highway. Sidewalks which are not replacements must be paid for by the property owner or the town.

A letter from Maddox and Hopkins, engineers of Silver Spring, stated that the State Roads Commission is not required to lay new sidewalks along the proposed new highway unless it is to replace a sidewalk that is torn up because of the relocation of a highway. Sidewalks which are not replacements must be paid for by the property owner or the town.

Status Of Flood Control Unit Established By City

Two Civil Service questions came before the Mayor and Council yesterday with final outcome on both hinging on future action.

In a letter to the Mayor and Council and Street Commissioner John J. Long, the Civil Service Commission said the flood control maintenance group is not a separate department from the Street Department but is a division or section of that department.

Therefore, the commission added, men assigned from the Street Department to the flood control maintenance division will retain whatever seniority they have accumulated as members of the Street Department.

The commission said it had requested City Attorney William R. Carscaden to clarify the transfer of the employes and to Indicate their status as a separate department or a division or section of the Street Department. Carscaden pointed out the maintenance group is a division or section. Therefore, the commission added, rules of Civil Service do not apply.

At the suggestion of City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum, council ordered copies of the decision sent to each employe.

In the other order affecting Civil Service, Mayor J. Edwin Keech was authorized to request the commission to provide an eligible list for switchboard operator at City Hall. At the same time, a letter advised the commission on regulations and duties of the operator.

The salary for the position will remain at $165 monthly until further notice. The operator applicant must be familiar with duties of personnel of various departments; familiar with services performed by various departments and personnel; able to operate a switchboard of the type at City Hall; neat in appearance and have a pleasing personality; a working knowledge of affairs of the city so she can assist those seeking information in connection with various departments; must be female between the ages of 20 and 35; have one year's experience in a position where she has been in contact with the general public; and have at least a high school education.

Council also asked the commission to have personal interviews with applicants in addition to written examinations.

The present City Hall switchboard operator, Mrs. Anne C. Perdew, submitted her resignation yesterday. She is to accept a position in the Allegany County tax office later this month. Council accepted the resignation "with regret."

City Council Opens Bids

The Mayor and Council received several bids yesterday.

Referred to Street Commissioner John J. Long were the bids of Orrie Sensabaugh and the Hout Construction Company for construction of a Little League ball field in Constitution Park.

Three companies submitted bids for lumber, materials and doors to replace a Municipal Airport building destroyed by fire. Referred to Mayor J. Edwin Keech and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum were the bids of South Cumberland Planing Mill Company, Taylor Lumber Company and Buchanan Lumber Company.

Four bids were received on a tractor and attachments for the Flood Control Maintenance Division. Referred to Long and the city engineer were bids of Light and Decker Company, this city; Heiskell Motor Sales, Morgan Brothers Industrial Sales and Morgan Brothers Farm Supply, all of Frostburg.

Tact is truth's best friend.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Is It Tactful Always To Agree?

Now and then you meet a woman who tries so hard to be tactful that she scarcely talks at all. That's abusing tact, not using it!

On the personality exchange, tact is a quality that is priceless. It is sought and highly prized by every person. The who, what, when, where and why of tact is something you must master if you wish to make your mark in the world!

Knowing the appropriate thing to do or say to win the good will of others—that's tact, and it's used by all who merit the appelation of charming. It's used under all circumstances. Why? Because the penalty of not using tact is too great . . . no matter how you may try to repair the damage later!

It is your tact that enables you to live and work easily with your fellow man.

If you reserve tact only for special occasions, you'll find it will grow rusty with disuse, and the art of using it will slip away from you. If you think you can just forge ahead when at home or with friends, you'll not only alienate your friends and family but be continually in hot water right up to your knees!

However, in your efforts to use tact, equal care must be taken not to abuse it, or you will lose your identity as an individual.

Do you strive to be so tactful that you don't dare express an honest and well-thought-out opinion? Do you go to pieces because you can't bear to tell a fellow worker or employee about his or her error, when it's your duty to do so? Do you let others walk over you?

If so, remember this: Tact is truth's best friend . . . not a substitute for truth. Tact is just what it takes to make the sometimes bitter taste of truth palatable. Moreover, it often stimulates the appetite for more. That's tact used at its best. When you can deal with others in difficult situations without giving offense, you have mastered one of the fine arts of living! You can be sure then that you know how to be tactful!

Local Blind Man Seeks Selling Permit

A blind man asked the Mayor and Council yesterday for permission to sell pencils on Baltimore Street.

A decision was delayed for a week on suggestion by Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming in order to obtain a legal opinion from City Attorney William R. Carscaden.

The man, John Thomas Hite, 708 North Mechanic Street, wrote council that he is 45 years old, unemployed and had been on welfare assistance for nine years. But, he said, he does not want to continue on welfare as he feels he is capable of earning his own living "if you give me a chance."

"You're the Benefactor!"
The current membership campaign of the local Chamber of Commerce went into high gear today with the mailing of the last of a series of four giant cards designed to tell prospective members something about the organization. This last card will be followed by active solicitation on the part of several teams of workers, according to George B. Newman, chairman of the Membership Committee. The post card which went out today is headed, "You're the Benefactor!" Copy on the cards develops the theme that everyone benefits through active support of the Chamber of Commerce. This copy reads as follows:
"During the past few days you have received a series of cards inviting you to join the Chamber of Commerce, a volunteer organization devoted to community progress. Soon a worker will call on you. We hope you will join our team.
"Join the Chamber of Commerce, and benefit from our cooperative effort. You will enjoy helping . . . and after all, you are the benefactor. Membership in the Chamber of Commerce is an investment on which you will receive assured dividends. Anything that helps the community helps all of us. We need your support."
"We hope very much to have a successful membership campaign." stated Mr. Newman. "The Chamber of Commerce has an excellent Program of Work directed toward new business and new industry. We have plans for the promotion of our city as a fine place to live and to do business. Realization of the various points of our program will bring material benefits to our city.
"Funds received from members of the Chamber of Commerce allow us to carry forward our program. We have come a long way, but we have not scraped the surface of our possibilities for growth and prosperity."

Status Of Flood Control Unit Established By City

Two Civil Service questions came before the Mayor and Council yesterday with final outcome on both hinging on future action.

In a letter to the Mayor and Council and Street Commissioner John J. Long, the Civil Service Commission said the flood control maintenance group is not a separate department from the Street Department but is a division or section of that department.

Therefore, the commission added, men assigned from the Street Department to the flood control maintenance division will retain whatever seniority they have accumulated as members of the Street Department.

The commission said it had requested City Attorney William R. Carscaden to clarify the transfer of the employes and to Indicate their status as a separate department or a division or section of the Street Department. Carscaden pointed out the maintenance group is a division or section. Therefore, the commission added, rules of Civil Service do not apply.

At the suggestion of City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum, council ordered copies of the decision sent to each employe.

In the other order affecting Civil Service, Mayor J. Edwin Keech was authorized to request the commission to provide an eligible list for switchboard operator at City Hall. At the same time, a letter advised the commission on regulations and duties of the operator.

The salary for the position will remain at $165 monthly until further notice. The operator applicant must be familiar with duties of personnel of various departments; familiar with services performed by various departments and personnel; able to operate a switchboard of the type at City Hall; neat in appearance and have a pleasing personality; a working knowledge of affairs of the city so she can assist those seeking information in connection with various departments; must be female between the ages of 20 and 35; have one year's experience in a position where she has been in contact with the general public; and have at least a high school education.

Council also asked the commission to have personal interviews with applicants in addition to written examinations.

The present City Hall switchboard operator, Mrs. Anne C. Perdew, submitted her resignation yesterday. She is to accept a position in the Allegany County tax office later this month. Council accepted the resignation "with regret."

City Council Opens Bids

The Mayor and Council received several bids yesterday.

Referred to Street Commissioner John J. Long were the bids of Orrie Sensabaugh and the Hout Construction Company for construction of a Little League ball field in Constitution Park.

Three companies submitted bids for lumber, materials and doors to replace a Municipal Airport building destroyed by fire. Referred to Mayor J. Edwin Keech and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum were the bids of South Cumberland Planing Mill Company, Taylor Lumber Company and Buchanan Lumber Company.

Four bids were received on a tractor and attachments for the Flood Control Maintenance Division. Referred to Long and the city engineer were bids of Light and Decker Company, this city; Heiskell Motor Sales, Morgan Brothers Industrial Sales and Morgan Brothers Farm Supply, all of Frostburg.

Tact is truth's best friend.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Is It Tactful Always To Agree?

Now and then you meet a woman who tries so hard to be tactful that she scarcely talks at all. That's abusing tact, not using it!

On the personality exchange, tact is a quality that is priceless. It is sought and highly prized by every person. The who, what, when, where and why of tact is something you must master if you wish to make your mark in the world!

Knowing the appropriate thing to do or say to win the good will of others—that's tact, and it's used by all who merit the appelation of charming. It's used under all circumstances. Why? Because the penalty of not using tact is too great . . . no matter how you may try to repair the damage later!

It is your tact that enables you to live and work easily with your fellow man.

If you reserve tact only for special occasions, you'll find it will grow rusty with disuse, and the art of using it will slip away from you. If you think you can just forge ahead when at home or with friends, you'll not only alienate your friends and family but be continually in hot water right up to your knees!

However, in your efforts to use tact, equal care must be taken not to abuse it, or you will lose your identity as an individual.

Do you strive to be so tactful that you don't dare express an honest and well-thought-out opinion? Do you go to pieces because you can't bear to tell a fellow worker or employee about his or her error, when it's your duty to do so? Do you let others walk over you?

If so, remember this: Tact is truth's best friend . . . not a substitute for truth. Tact is just what it takes to make the sometimes bitter taste of truth palatable. Moreover, it often stimulates the appetite for more. That's tact used at its best. When you can deal with others in difficult situations without giving offense, you have mastered one of the fine arts of living! You can be sure then that you know how to be tactful!

TEN SECRETS OF CHARM — You are welcome, free of charge, to the reminder card, TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. It lists ten points to remember as milestones along the road to greater charm. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, return envelope.

Local Blind Man Seeks Selling Permit

A blind man asked the Mayor and Council yesterday for permission to sell pencils on Baltimore Street.

A decision was delayed for a week on suggestion by Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming in order to obtain a legal opinion from City Attorney William R. Carscaden.

The man, John Thomas Hite, 708 North Mechanic Street, wrote council that he is 45 years old, unemployed and had been on welfare assistance for nine years. But, he said, he does not want to continue on welfare as he feels he is capable of earning his own living "if you give me a chance."

Confirm Firemen

William J. Malachowski was confirmed as a regular member of the Fire Department by the Mayor and Council yesterday.

Absolom Martin began his ferry business on the Ohio River in 1789 and gave the city of Martins Ferry, O., its name.

The world's first combined purification and softening works is located in Columbus, O. The plant was opened in 1908.

Tawes To Listen

schools, legislative leaders and Tawes' advisers in drafting the teacher pay increase program.

These included Baltimore attorneys Richard W. Case and Harry J. Green and George H. Hocker, executive secretary of Associated Breweries Inc.

In Baltimore, county councils of the State Parent-Teacher Congress held an emergency meeting Monday to protest the death of the program.

Mrs. Fred L. Bull, state legislative chairman, said PTA leaders were "outraged."

The Maryland Assn. of Public School Superintendents also criticized the General Assembly. It termed the Legislature's inaction on teachers' salary hikes "an evident betrayal of the trust and confidence reposed" in them.

"It is discouraging to observe such utter disregard for the welfare and training of the state's most indispensable resource — its children," the statement added.

Cites Agreement

The association pledged to work for "vital" educational legislation in the future and invited citizens to support their stand.

The governor, in discussing the House adjournment Monday, said legislative leaders agreed that the delegates should call it a session "as soon as they finished their business." These leaders, he said, included House Speaker Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges), Boone and Senate President Della (D-Balto 6th).

He said he did not know why Senate Majority Leader Northrop (D-Montgomery) was not present when the agreement was reached in the governor's office. Northrop grimly acknowledged he was unaware of the agreement until after the abrupt departure of the delegates.

Tawes said Della had expressed an opinion that the Senate would go along with the House plan.

Noting that many observers were surprised by the failure of the Senate to accept the still-breathing House version of the bill even after he had endorsed it as a second choice to the four-year plan, the governor said he was unable to force them to accept it.

Involves $30 Millions

"This was not like the Baltimore court reform bill," he said, referring to a measure which he had pushed to enactment even after the Baltimore City delegates had voted 27-8 to recommend that it be killed. "This was a bill involving more than 30 million dollars."

Sen. Phoebus (R—Somerset) charged in a Saturday night floor speech the early adjournment was pushed by George H. Hocker, beer industry spokesman and close personal friend and advisor of the governor, because of his opposition to the bonus bill.

The measure would have set up a referendum on the payment of up to $300 for armed forces veterans. This would have been financed by increasing the State beer tax from 3 cents a gallon to 10 cents.

Hocker declined an opportunity to comment Sunday on Phoebus' charge.

In Baltimore Monday, the Maryland Veterans of Foreign Wars issued a statement by State Commander Martin W. Sinsheimer of Cambridge, saying he was "appalled at the connivance and chicanery used by two or three leaders in the House of Delegates" to defeat the bonus bill.

Allegheny Airlines Has Good Year

Allegheny Airlines made a net profit of $330,578 during 1958, according to L. O. Barnes, president. The firm had a net loss of $153,007 from 1957 operations.

The airline, which dropped service to Cumberland recently, said there is a tremendous unexploited market between key cities of the Middle Atlantic area and has a new concept of developing commuter traffic over relatively short distances.

Car Strikes Elderly Man

An 86-year-old Frostburg area man was struck and badly injured by an automobile yesterday afternoon while crossing U.S. Route 40 about one mile west of Frostburg.

State Police identified him as James Henry McKenzie, Star Route, and said he was admitted to Miners Hospital in Frostburg shortly after the accident which occurred at 1:30 p. m.

Mr. McKenzie was hit by a car operated by Francis Henry Lurz, 2728 Ugo Avenue, Baltimore. Police said he sustained a compound fracture of the lower right leg, a fracture of the right shoulder and multiple lacerations of the cheek and forehead. He is reported in "fair" condition by hospital attendants who said last night he was "resting somewhat better."

Police said Mr. McKenzie was crossing the highway and apparently failed to see Mr. Lurz's car which was traveling east toward Frostburg. The right front of the vehicle struck the elderly man, knocking him to the ground.

Trooper W. E. Foreman investigated the accident and reported that charges are still pending.

Senior Citizens To Meet Thursday

The Senior Citizens Club will meet Thursday at 2 p.m. in the Elks Home here.

A spring program will be presented by the club which is sponsored by the City Recreation Department.

Issues Proclamation

Cumberland will observe Keep Maryland Beautiful Month during April, according to a proclamation issued yesterday by Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

Firemen Battle Woodland Blaze

Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company battled a woodland blaze which burned over approximately three acres last evening on the east slope of Martin's Mountain. After two hours they brought it under control.

The fire, apparently starting from a cigaret tossed into dried grass at the edge of U.S. Route 40 by a passing motorist, raced through the wooded area on the Job Teter farm.

The flames endangered several nearby houses and a small church located in the area, coming within 100 yards of the residence of Roy Shaw, firemen said, before they were checked.

The volunteers received the call about 4:30 p. m. and responded with two trucks and 12 firemen. They had the fire under control after two hours but remained for over three additional hours wetting down the wooded area to keep the blaze from starting anew.

Lions To See Film

A film from a pharmaceutical house will be shown during the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Lions Club Wednesday at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Elkins Man Is Nabbed

An Elkins, W. Va., man was arrested yesterday evening at the Dingle Circle after he reportedly fled from the scene of an accident near Keyser, W. Va.

Being held in Allegany County Jail on a state motor charge is Jack Harris of Elkins. The West Virginia driver will be given a hearing today in Trial Magistrates Court here. He also faces charges of leaving the scene of an accident without identifying himself in Mineral County.

West Virginia State Police said the automobile driven by Harris sideswiped another vehicle operated by Wade White of Keyser on U. S. Route 220 about one mile south of Keyser.

Considerable damage was reported to White's car in the collision. On the way to the police station in Keyser, however, Harris apparently kept on driving and traveled across the Potomac River bridge into Maryland.

Firemen Battle Woodland Blaze

Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company battled a woodland blaze which burned over approximately three acres last evening on the east slope of Martin's Mountain. After two hours they brought it under control.

The fire, apparently starting from a cigaret tossed into dried grass at the edge of U.S. Route 40 by a passing motorist, raced through the wooded area on the Job Teter farm.

The flames endangered several nearby houses and a small church located in the area, coming within 100 yards of the residence of Roy Shaw, firemen said, before they were checked.

The volunteers received the call about 4:30 p. m. and responded with two trucks and 12 firemen. They had the fire under control after two hours but remained for over three additional hours wetting down the wooded area to keep the blaze from starting anew.

Elkins Man Is Nabbed

An Elkins, W. Va., man was arrested yesterday evening at the Dingle Circle after he reportedly fled from the scene of an accident near Keyser, W. Va.

Being held in Allegany County Jail on a state motor charge is Jack Harris of Elkins. The West Virginia driver will be given a hearing today in Trial Magistrates Court here. He also faces charges of leaving the scene of an accident without identifying himself in Mineral County.

West Virginia State Police said the automobile driven by Harris sideswiped another vehicle operated by Wade White of Keyser on U. S. Route 220 about one mile south of Keyser.

Considerable damage was reported to White's car in the collision. On the way to the police station in Keyser, however, Harris apparently kept on driving and traveled across the Potomac River bridge into Maryland.

Looking Ahead To The Summit

President Eisenhower has told British Prime Minister Macmillan that Vice President Nixon would be his stand-in at any summit conference that the President might leave after having attended for a time.

This plan, as cited by Arthur Krock in The New York Times, recalls President Woodrow Wilson's four weeks' absence from the Paris Peace conference in 1919. In those days a President's signature to bills was supposed to be invalid if affixed after Congress had adjourned. And the 65th Congress would expire on March 3, 1919.

So President Wilson sailed from France on February 14 to be in Washington to sign bills. He was not back in Paris until March 13. He designated his most intimate friend and trusted adviser, Col. Edward M. House, as acting head of the U. S. peace mission.

According to Mrs. Wilson's "Memoir," her husband told her that in his absence, "House has given away everything I had won. I have to start all over again and this time it will be harder." Former President Hoover says in his recent book on Wilson that Wilson began to drop "his old pilot, Col. House . . . when the President returned to Paris."

However, those were the days before trans-Atlantic plane flights and phone calls. If Col. House could have come to Washington within 24 hours, or if he and Wilson could have talked Paris-Washington at any time, the story of the 1919 conference would have been different.

Today any stand-in for the President at a summit conference will inevitably follow his lead. Or that of Mr. Dulles.

Other People's Rights

The head of a labor union, under our laws and practices, is an exceptional person who has a legitimate right, under the National Labor Relations Act, to control the lives, social status, and liberties of other human beings. He is not a government official but he can, in a particular industry, decide on a man's right to work. He can make men rich or poor or even beggar them. He is the master of an enormous treasury, often running into hundreds of millions of dollars, and is accountable legally to no one for its management. His income taxes are not subject to the same kind of investigation as are those of other citizens because labor union funds are not subject to taxation or investogation, except if a Congressional committee makes an investigation which is usually spasmodic and limited.

The various proposals to correct this condition and to remove the elite from American life are not very serious in this direction. Senator John Kennedy's proposals for the rectification of the errors of the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations seem to be an effort to run interference for the labor leaders. Secretary of Labor Mitchell's efforts are not much better.

I note that a bill has been introduced in the Legislature of the State of North Dakota which hits one nail on the head, namely, gangster control of labor unions, which reads:

". . . No person who has been convicted of any crime involving moral turpitude or a felony, excepting traffic violations, shall serve in any official capacity or as any officer in any labor union or labor organization in this state. No such person, nor any labor union or labor organization in which he is an officer shall be qualified to act as a bargaining agent or representative for employees in this state. Such disqualification shall terminate whenever such officer is removed or resigns as an officer in such labor union or labor organization."

Such provisions in Federal or state laws would eliminate one group of difficult persons in the labor union set-up, namely, the gangster and racketeer. But it does not solve the whole problem, which is that bossing a labor union is a profitable business.

The gangster and racketeer moved into organized labor shortly after Prohibition because he recognized it as a good business. It was much like the Sicilian padrone system, the boss, in effect, renting men's time for a wage for the worker and a consideration for himself. Long before Lepke organized Murder, Inc., for instance, he had organized a goon squad in the garment industries, sometimes working for bosses, sometimes for unions, sometime for combinations of bosses and unions to keep competitors out of business. This trafficking in murder, arson, etc., was particularly notable during the deep Depression years and continued after Lepke and his partner, Gurrah, were deprived of their lives by an ungrateful state which did not appreciate their services. (Gurrah died in Sing Sing.)

The gangster muscled into the labor movement, organizing new unions, particularly in the C.I.O. which in its early stages used anyone who was willing to serve. A startling combination came into existence among Communists and the Mob, as it is often called. This group developed great power in the labor movement, particularly among the Teamsters.

Various efforts have been made by the older and more respectable labor leaders to rid themselves of gangsters and racketeer but it has not been easy. One cannot call a man a gangster, a racketeer, a member of the Mafia unless the Law does it first and in many places in this country, the Mob owns the Law. The association of Mobsters and politicians inside and outside the labor movement has been a deep peril not only to organized labor but to the United States.

It would be to the greatest advantage to organized labor if the Mob were taken out of it, but organized labor cannot clean its own house, as the expression goes, for two reasons: one, because the Mob has lots of votes; and secondly, because few men who lead unions have not at some stage laid themselves open to attack for the same things that the newer and less respectable leaders are now doing. The job must be done from the outside, but it must be done impartially. Making one man the goat, as for instance, picking Jimmy Hoffa as the one, outstanding bad boy, will not do the job.

White House Counsel Helps Throttle Boost For Unemployment Benefits

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower is still telling friends about some of the side-splitting stories with which President Sean O'Kelly regaled him in the White House. Here's one the President relates as told him by the President of Ireland:

"England's mountain climbers were getting all the national headlines, so two stalwart Irishmen decided that for the good of the name of their country they must outdo the English. So they set out in midwinter to climb the highest Alp despite warnings from the Swiss.

"The Swiss were right, the snows were too deep. And after hours of climbing the two Irishmen found themselves floundering in snow up to their armpits, unable to move, getting colder, numb and weak. They thought the end was near.

"Suddenly one Irishman pulled his arm out of the snow and pointed toward the horizon.

" 'Look!' he said.

"Across the snow toward them came a large St. Bernard dog, bell around his neck ringing, and on his chest the familiar keg of liquor. 'Hurrah!' cried the first Irishman. 'We are saved! Here comes man's best friend.'

"And the second Irishman added, 'and imagine! A dog too!' "

Inside Lobbying

Behind President Eisenhower's firm refusal to liberalize the unemployment aid program has been the quiet lobbying of big business representative Stanley Rector who operates very adroitly through the back door of the White House.

His inside contact man is none other than the President's chief counsel, Gerald Morgan, whose former law firm helped Rector fight federal unemployment insurance. Now Morgan is carrying on the same fight from the vantage point of the president's elbow.

Rector works out of a three-room suite in the Washington Hotel, just around the block from the White House. Last year he spent over $100,000 lobbying against jobless benefits.

His board of directors includes executives from U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear Tire and Rubber, Socony Mobil Oil, and Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. Over 500 companies contribute from $200 to $2,500 apiece to Rector's operation.

In 1947, Rector hired Morgan's law firm, Morgan and Calhoun, as registered lobbyists. After Morgan entered the White House, he served as adviser to the President on unemployment compensation. As recently as last month, Morgan helped persuade Ike to reject liberal recommendations from Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

What Mitchell wanted to do was extend temporary benefits for jobless workers and overhaul unemployment insurance standards. In the showdown, the President sided with Morgan.

Ike Uses Lobby Language

Earlier, lobbyist Rector argued against these proposals in a letter, dated March 9, to his backers. He contended that any reforms should be left up to the states.

"There are 46 state legislatures meeting now or in the near future. Practically every one of them has pending unemployment compensation measures."

Three days later, President Eisenhower used the same, identical argument at a press conference. He called the program a "state responsibility" and added: "We are waiting for the legislatures to come into session, which they are this year."

Rector made one interesting concession: "In view of the fast developing showdown fight on federal benefit standards, a three-to-six months extension might well, in the end, prove helpful."

Ike also agreed to this same concession.

"I haven't got such a rigid position about this that I wouldn't listen to something," he told the press. At the same time, he notified Republican Congressional leaders that he would accept a three-to-six months extension.

It had all the earmarks of a triple play — Rector to Morgan to Eisenhower.

Note — The President repeated his views later to eight governors who belong to the Governors' Executive Committee. The only missing member was New Jersey's Gov. Robert Meyner, who happened to be in the South Pacific on temporary naval duty and who also happens to favor strong federal unemployment benefits. Meyner asked the White House to fly him to the conference, pointing out that the President as Commander-in-Chief could relieve him from his naval assignment. Ike flatly refused.

Why Decorate Dictators?

Now that Venezuela's exiled dictator Jimenez has been ordered out of the United States, Sen. Hubert Humphrey is quietly inquiring why President Eisenhower awarded Jimenez a gold medal for advancing "the general welfare of the Venezuelan people" while he was still dictator.

The Minnesota Democrat also wants to know why Fletcher Warren, now ambassador to Turkey, was so cozy with Jimenez' hated secret police chief, Pedro Estrada, when Warren was Ambassador to Venezuela. He actually congratulated Estrada for a ruthless purge in November, 1957.

Humphrey has obtained a copy of Warren's letter to Estrada, which declares: "Willa and I are surprised at the attempted coup but note that it was put down successfully and quickly. I wish I could come in and discuss it with you. According to the Paris papers, you must have been very much on the job as usual."

As a key member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Humphrey wants an explanation for the Eisenhower administration's past policy of decking Latin-American dictators with medals, sending them arms with which to keep their people in subjection, and pouring out tax dollars for them to feather their nests.

Walter Robertson Termed Great Public Servant

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Sometimes it takes the news of an illness or a departure from public office to bring about a true evaluation of the services of a man to his country. The announced resignation of Walter S. Robertson from his post as assistant Secretary of State for Asian affairs focuses attention on the valiant and successful fight of a sick man to keep America from blundering into recognition of the Red China regime.

Mr. Robertson, who leaves the Department of State in a few weeks, says frankly he never would give up his work if he did not feel assured that the United States will not yield to the tyrants in Peiping. Few people outside the government are aware of the indefatigable battle Mr. Robertson has waged against all manner of intrigue that has been going on inside and outside the government to win for Red China a place in the United Nations and diplomatic recognition by the United States government.

Mr. Robertson served under the Truman Administration, but has played an even bigger role under the Eisenhower Administration in steering foreign policy as it relates to Asia. It was most unfortunate to read the other day a comment by former President Truman accusing the Eisenhower Administration of "surrendering" because an armistice was signed in Korea. All one has to do is to read the book by Admiral C. Turner Joy, who presided for the United States at the Panmunjom negotiations, to find out that, before the Eisenhower Administration came into power, the American representatives had been instructed to accept the principal portions of the final agreement. They did so, and only a dispute about exchange of prisoners remained when Mr. Eisenhower became President in 1953. So the real question was whether to repudiate or to honor the agreement made by the Truman Administration. President Eisenhower chose to honor the signature of the United States on the sections already agreed upon by the previous administration.

As a matter of fact, it is only in what happened prior to 1950, when State Department officials were being accused by Congressional committees of catering to Communists in the Far East, that there is any basis for controversy. In a speech delivered three weeks ago at Ottawa, Canada, Mr. Robertson said:

"Since 1950, the difference in basic China policy between former President Truman and President Eisenhower is the difference between tweedle-dum and tweedle-dee.

"In early 1950, following the Communist take-over of the mainland in December 1949, at about the time of British recognition, President Truman vetoed the recommendation made to him that we recognize Red China. The Republican attack on the Democrats in the 1952 election campaign was not on basic China policy as it then was, but rather on what was alleged to have been the vacillations and blunders which had helped create the Frankenstein monster of Red China and enhance its menace to the free world.

"In 1956, an election year, a Democratic-sponsored resolution, reaffirming support of the Republic of China and opposing the seating of Red China in the United Nations, passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 391 to 0 and by 86 to 0 in the Senate. Not a single Congressman or Senator of either party was willing to vote against this resolution. This is a phenomenon unprecedented in American political history. When the parties later assembled for their national conventions, they adopted almost identical planks in support of this policy. In the recent Taiwan (Formosa) crisis, Mr. Truman was among the first to come out in strong support of President Eisenhower's position. To repeat, the differences of opinion about China policy do not represent differences between political parties, but rather differences between individuals, irrespective of party lines."

Mr. Robertson has made numerous speeches about the whole China problem in the last few years, and has been perhaps the country's most outstanding champion of the American policy in the Far East. He says opposition to the Red China regime is not based on "disapproval of an ideology or an economic system, much as we abhor both." He asserts that American policy is based "on the collective security of the free world." He sees any possible acceptance of Red China's regime as meaning the liquidation of American alliances in the Philippines and Southeast Asia, danger to the Korean Republic, and the collapse of our military allies in the Western Pacific who possess considerable manpower which if not available would have to be substituted for by millions of American soldiers.

Mr. Robertson points out that very few countries have recognized Red China since the Communist aggression in Korea in June, 1950. He adds:

"Instead of being isolated, we stand with the overwhelming majority of the countries of the free world in this position. It is essential that this majority continue to stand together."

Walter Robertson's espousal of the cause of a free China will long be remembered. And it is a safe bet that he will continue to give whatever energy he has left to the cause for which he has struggled this last decade, despite frequent intervals of ill health. He is truly one of the great public servants of our times.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Legislators continue to be plagued by stories of nepotism being dug out of Congressional records by enterprising reporters. The scope of these stories has become alarming to political leaders on Capitol Hill, and is especially disturbing to the new group of predominantly Democratic Congressmen and Senators who began their legislative service this year.

Disclosures of widespread abuses of the federal payrolls have caused most legislators to be more deeply distrustful of reporters than at any time in recent memory. And, after fullsome disclosures of the presence of wives, sons, daughters and other relatives on Congressmen's payrolls, the spotlight is swinging over to the United States Senate.

Unlike the House, Senate payroll data is kept secret, but the pressure of public opinion may yet force full disclosures here, too.

The other day two young Senators, who fortunately have no relatives on their office staffs, brought the matter up for discussion at the Senate Republican Policy Committee meeting.

Their argument was that the public had a right to know, furthermore suspicions were smearing the innocent as well as the guilty. Behind their move was a flow of mail being received by constituents of most Senators, demanding to know if their relatives were on the government payroll, how much they were being paid, and what work they did for their money.

The Policy Committee discussed the matter calmly, but instead of shunting the matter aside, decided to wait for two weeks, and then take another look. The hope, of course, is that in two weeks time the matter will have quieted down sufficiently to permit it to be ignored all together.

A Need For Caution

By Leslie Gould

As is the way with stock markets, shares that go up fast can come down just as fast, and sometimes faster.

For weeks a small group of so-called "glamor" stocks have featured an otherwise stable market. Gains were sensational, with highs several times last year's low being made up to two weeks ago.

Then there was a change. While the general market held just under its all-time highs, the "glamor" stocks were deglamorized in this two-week period. Losses have been almost as sensational as the gains a few weeks back.

Trading has been so wild and disorderly in some of these shares that the American Stock Exchange was forced to suspend trading almost every day and sometimes two or three times a day.

Thursday's market was an example of this hectic, disorderly trading.

General Development shares, which moved from a low of $8.12½ last year to $77.50 only two weeks ago, touched $45.12½ and closed at $47.25, down $6.87½ on the day.

Trading in the shares was suspended by the American Stock Exchange at 10:47 a. m. and was not resumed until 3:08 p. m. The issue was suspended nearly 4½ of the 5½ hours of Exchange trading.

Universal Controls had similar heavy going on the American Stock Exchange. The opening was delayed until 10:45, when 8,300 shares were transferred at $62.25, off $5.50 from the previous close. It fell to $58.50, off $9.25, and trading was halted at 12.22. Trading came back some to close at $59.50, off $8.25 on the day. The stock sold recently as high as $102. Last year's low was $22.12½.

Chromalloy, also on the American Stock Exchange and pushed by a stock exchange firm, sold down to $31.25, compared to the recent high of $51.87½. The stock closed the day at $34.12½, off $4.25. The low last year was $8.50.

Fairchild Camera is another. It went from a low of $19.50 last year to a recent high of $95.87½. Yesterday it broke to $71.50 and closed at $74.25, off $9.50 on the day.

On the stock exchange, Philadelphia & Reading duplicated some of the smaller board's dealings. This stock had gone from $27.50 last year to a recent high of $131.50. Thursday it got down to $97 and finished the day a minus $12.50 at $99.50.

Both Exchanges have become so concerned about the wild trading that both have issued warnings to member firms. One stock exchange firm jacked up its minimum margins on 29 stocks on the smaller board, saying:

"We view with great concern the fantastically wide fluctuations in certain stocks listed on the American Stock Exchange. . . daily price changes have often amounted to 25 per cent or more of some stocks' market prices."

The performance of some of these fast movers emphasizes the need for investors investigating before they invest and in times like these to be extremely cautious.

Dizzy Attacks Could Have Various Origins

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

True dizziness (vertigo) is a most disagreeable sensation. When the eyes are closed, the individual feels as though he is whirling about in space; when the eyes are open, the world is turning about him. It is unlike ordinary dizziness or fainting, which usually is described as lightheadedness, giddiness, spots before the eyes, or unsteadiness within the head.

Vertigo stems from a disturbance of the centers of equilibrium in the ears or brain. Temporary changes can be produced, for example, by rolling downhill or turning around and around while in a standing position. Overindulgence in alcohol creates the same sensation.

True dizziness develops suddenly and often disappears just as abruptly. It may be so intense the individual falls to the ground, sidewalk, or street. The condition can be associated with intense nausea, vomiting, pallor, and sweating.

Disorders of the labyrinth of the ear are the most common causes of this type of dizziness. Various tests are available to determine the origin of the disturbance. Meniere's syndrome is one of the better known forms of labyrinthitis. The attacks come and go, often without warning. The victim suddenly reels and often is pitched to the ground. The bouts of dizziness generally last a few minutes but sometimes continue for hours or days. Roaring or ringing occurs in the involved ear and some sufferers become hard of hearing.

The most popular remedies include nicotinic acid, histamine, vitamin B12, Dramamine, or Marezine. Occasionally a restricted salt diet helps. A surgical treatment is available and may be recommended when other methods fail and the condition becomes incapacitating.

Should dizziness persist, causes other than those mentioned should be considered. Brain tumor and circulatory disturbances are among the more serious in this group.

TOMORROW: Arteriosclerosis and diabetes.

FAT AROUND THE HEART

Mrs. R. writes: What are the symptoms of excess fat around the heart?

REPLY

The same as they are for ordinary obesity. When a person gains weight, fat is deposited in all areas of the body, including the heart. Fat must be nourished, and as a result, many miles of new capilaries are laid down through which the blood flows. This creates an extra burden on the heart and it is this handicap, rather than the small amount of fat deposited around the heart muscle, that burdens the old ticker.

TB HOSPITALS

E. D. writes: Do most states have adequate facilities to take care of patients with tuberculosis?

REPLY

Yes. It is conceivable that our tuberculosis hospitals will admit fewer and fewer patients in the future because of the progress made in treating the disease.

AMEBIC INFECTION

D. F. writes: I have amebiasis, as shown by blood tests, but never had any dysentery. Is this unusual?

REPLY

Only half the victims of amebiasis develop dysentery. Stool examinations are more reliable than blood tests in diagnosis.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

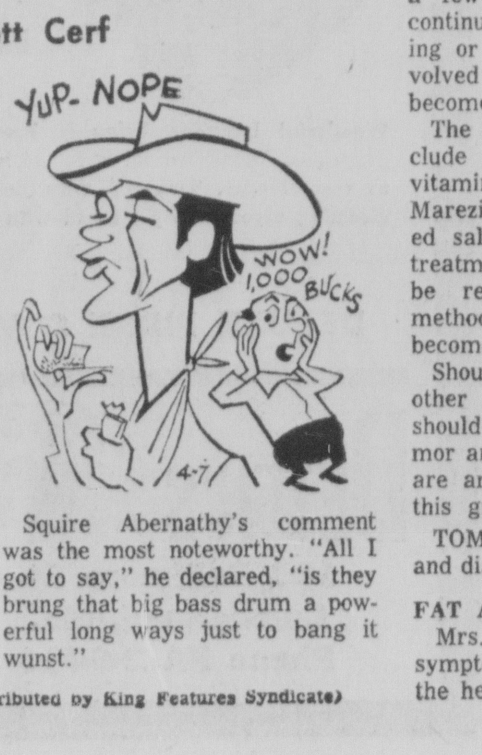
It was said of the late Joe Frisco, beloved but irresponsible night club entertainer, that he put at least 30 boys through college—all bookmakers' sons.

"Only t-t-time I think I g-g-got underpaid," he stuttered once, "is when I hear what they g-g-give Gary Cooper. A g-g-grand a day for just saying 'Yup' and 'Nope!' Think of what he'd m-m-make if he'd only say 'L-l-lemme think it over!' "



A fine symphony orchestra, subsidized for a transcontinental tour, played in an Arkansas town, thereby giving the natives a big-time cultural experience. Next day the town elders gathered 'round a cracker barrel in their favorite grocery to talk over the concert. Squire Abernathy's comment was the most noteworthy. "All I got to say," he declared, "is they brung that big bass drum a powerful long ways just to bang it wunst."

According to Mrs. Wilson's "Memoir," her husband told her that in his absence, "House has given away everything I had won. I have to start all over again and this time it will be harder." Former President Hoover says in his recent book on Wilson that Wilson began to drop "his old pilot, Col. House . . . when the President returned to Paris."

However, those were the days before trans-Atlantic plane flights and phone calls. If Col. House could have come to Washington within 24 hours, or if he and Wilson could have talked Paris-Washington at any time, the story of the 1919 conference would have been different.

Today any stand-in for the President at a summit conference will inevitably follow his lead. Or that of Mr. Dulles.

These Days

Other People's Rights

The head of a labor union, under our laws and practices, is an exceptional person who has a legitimate right, under the National Labor Relations Act, to control the lives, social status, and liberties of other human beings. He is not a government official but he can, in a particular industry, decide on a man's right to work. He can make men rich or poor or even beggar them. He is the master of an enormous treasury, often running into hundreds of millions of dollars, and is accountable legally to no one for its management. His income taxes are not subject to the same kind of investigation as are those of other citizens because labor union funds are not subject to taxation or investogation, except if a Congressional committee makes an investigation which is usually spasmodic and limited.

The various proposals to correct this condition and to remove the elite from American life are not very serious in this direction. Senator John Kennedy's proposals for the rectification of the errors of the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations seem to be an effort to run interference for the labor leaders. Secretary of Labor Mitchell's efforts are not much better.

I note that a bill has been introduced in the Legislature of the State of North Dakota which hits one nail on the head, namely, gangster control of labor unions, which reads:

". . . No person who has been convicted of any crime involving moral turpitude or a felony, excepting traffic violations, shall serve in any official capacity or as any officer in any labor union or labor organization in this state. No such person, nor any labor union or labor organization in which he is an officer shall be qualified to act as a bargaining agent or representative for employees in this state. Such disqualification shall terminate whenever such officer is removed or resigns as an officer in such labor union or labor organization."

Such provisions in Federal or state laws would eliminate one group of difficult persons in the labor union set-up, namely, the gangster and racketeer. But it does not solve the whole problem, which is that bossing a labor union is a profitable business.

The gangster and racketeer moved into organized labor shortly after Prohibition because he recognized it as a good business. It was much like the Sicilian padrone system, the boss, in effect, renting men's time for a wage for the worker and a consideration for himself. Long before Lepke organized Murder, Inc., for instance, he had organized a goon squad in the garment industries, sometimes working for bosses, sometimes for unions, sometime for combinations of bosses and unions to keep competitors out of business. This trafficking in murder, arson, etc., was particularly notable during the deep Depression years and continued after Lepke and his partner, Gurrah, were deprived of their lives by an ungrateful state which did not appreciate their services. (Gurrah died in Sing Sing.)

The gangster muscled into the labor movement, organizing new unions, particularly in the C.I.O. which in its early stages used anyone who was willing to serve. A startling combination came into existence among Communists and the Mob, as it is often called. This group developed great power in the labor movement, particularly among the Teamsters.

Various efforts have been made by the older and more respectable labor leaders to rid themselves of gangsters and racketeer but it has not been easy. One cannot call a man a gangster, a racketeer, a member of the Mafia unless the Law does it first and in many places in this country, the Mob owns the Law. The association of Mobsters and politicians inside and outside the labor movement has been a deep peril not only to organized labor but to the United States.

It would be to the greatest advantage to organized labor if the Mob were taken out of it, but organized labor cannot clean its own house, as the expression goes, for two reasons: one, because the Mob has lots of votes; and secondly, because few men who lead unions have not at some stage laid themselves open to attack for the same things that the newer and less respectable leaders are now doing. The job must be done from the outside, but it must be done impartially. Making one man the goat, as for instance, picking Jimmy Hoffa as the one, outstanding bad boy, will not do the job.

Walter Robertson Termed Great Public Servant

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Sometimes it takes the news of an illness or a departure from public office to bring about a true evaluation of the services of a man to his country. The announced resignation of Walter S. Robertson from his post as assistant Secretary of State for Asian affairs focuses attention on the valiant and successful fight of a sick man to keep America from blundering into recognition of the Red China regime.

Mr. Robertson, who leaves the Department of State in a few weeks, says frankly he never would give up his work if he did not feel assured that the United States will not yield to the tyrants in Peiping. Few people outside the government are aware of the indefatigable battle Mr. Robertson has waged against all manner of intrigue that has been going on inside and outside the government to win for Red China a place in the United Nations and diplomatic recognition by the United States government.

Mr. Robertson served under the Truman Administration, but has played an even bigger role under the Eisenhower Administration in steering foreign policy as it relates to Asia. It was most unfortunate to read the other day a comment by former President Truman accusing the Eisenhower Administration of "surrendering" because an armistice was signed in Korea. All one has to do is to read the book by Admiral C. Turner Joy, who presided for the United States at the Panmunjom negotiations, to find out that, before the Eisenhower Administration came into power, the American representatives had been instructed to accept the principal portions of the final agreement. They did so, and only a dispute about exchange of prisoners remained when Mr. Eisenhower became President in 1953. So the real question was whether to repudiate or to honor the agreement made by the Truman Administration. President Eisenhower chose to honor the signature of the United States on the sections already agreed upon by the previous administration.

As a matter of fact, it is only in what happened prior to 1950, when State Department officials were being accused by Congressional committees of catering to Communists in the Far East, that there is any basis for controversy. In a speech delivered three weeks ago at Ottawa, Canada, Mr. Robertson said:

"Since 1950, the difference in basic China policy between former President Truman and President Eisenhower is the difference between tweedle-dum and tweedle-dee.

"In early 1950, following the Communist take-over of the mainland in December 1949, at about the time of British recognition, President Truman vetoed the recommendation made to him that we recognize Red China. The Republican attack on the Democrats in the 1952 election campaign was not on basic China policy as it then was, but rather on what was alleged to have been the vacillations and blunders which had helped create the Frankenstein monster of Red China and enhance its menace to the free world.

"In 1956, an election year, a Democratic-sponsored resolution, reaffirming support of the Republic of China and opposing the seating of Red China in the United Nations, passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 391 to 0 and by 86 to 0 in the Senate. Not a single Congressman or Senator of either party was willing to vote against this resolution. This is a phenomenon unprecedented in American political history. When the parties later assembled for their national conventions, they adopted almost identical planks in support of this policy. In the recent Taiwan (Formosa) crisis, Mr. Truman was among the first to come out in strong support of President Eisenhower's position. To repeat, the differences of opinion about China policy do not represent differences between political parties, but rather differences between individuals, irrespective of party lines."

Mr. Robertson has made numerous speeches about the whole China problem in the last few years, and has been perhaps the country's most outstanding champion of the American policy in the Far East. He says opposition to the Red China regime is not based on "disapproval of an ideology or an economic system, much as we abhor both." He asserts that American policy is based "on the collective security of the free world." He sees any possible acceptance of Red China's regime as meaning the liquidation of American alliances in the Philippines and Southeast Asia, danger to the Korean Republic, and the collapse of our military allies in the Western Pacific who possess considerable manpower which if not available would have to be substituted for by millions of American soldiers.

Mr. Robertson points out that very few countries have recognized Red China since the Communist aggression in Korea in June, 1950. He adds:

"Instead of being isolated, we stand with the overwhelming majority of the countries of the free world in this position. It is essential that this majority continue to stand together."

Walter Robertson's espousal of the cause of a free China will long be remembered. And it is a safe bet that he will continue to give whatever energy he has left to the cause for which he has struggled this last decade, despite frequent intervals of ill health. He is truly one of the great public servants of our times.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Legislators continue to be plagued by stories of nepotism being dug out of Congressional records by enterprising reporters. The scope of these stories has become alarming to political leaders on Capitol Hill, and is especially disturbing to the new group of predominantly Democratic Congressmen and Senators who began their legislative service this year.

Disclosures of widespread abuses of the federal payrolls have caused most legislators to be more deeply distrustful of reporters than at any time in recent memory. And, after fullsome disclosures of the presence of wives, sons, daughters and other relatives on Congressmen's payrolls, the spotlight is swinging over to the United States Senate.

Unlike the House, Senate payroll data is kept secret, but the pressure of public opinion may yet force full disclosures here, too.

The other day two young Senators, who fortunately have no relatives on their office staffs, brought the matter up for discussion at the Senate Republican Policy Committee meeting.

Their argument was that the public had a right to know, furthermore suspicions were smearing the innocent as well as the guilty. Behind their move was a flow of mail being received by constituents of most Senators, demanding to know if their relatives were on the government payroll, how much they were being paid, and what work they did for their money.

The Policy Committee discussed the matter calmly, but instead of shunting the matter aside, decided to wait for two weeks, and then take another look. The hope, of course, is that in two weeks time the matter will have quieted down sufficiently to permit it to be ignored all together.

Dizzy Attacks Could Have Various Origins

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

True dizziness (vertigo) is a most disagreeable sensation. When the eyes are closed, the individual feels as though he is whirling about in space; when the eyes are open, the world is turning about him. It is unlike ordinary dizziness or fainting, which usually is described as lightheadedness, giddiness, spots before the eyes, or unsteadiness within the head.

Vertigo stems from a disturbance of the centers of equilibrium in the ears or brain. Temporary changes can be produced, for example, by rolling downhill or turning around and around while in a standing position. Overindulgence in alcohol creates the same sensation.

True dizziness develops suddenly and often disappears just as abruptly. It may be so intense the individual falls to the ground, sidewalk, or street. The condition can be associated with intense nausea, vomiting, pallor, and sweating.

Disorders of the labyrinth of the ear are the most common causes of this type of dizziness. Various tests are available to determine the origin of the disturbance. Meniere's syndrome is one of the better known forms of labyrinthitis. The attacks come and go, often without warning. The victim suddenly reels and often is pitched to the ground. The bouts of dizziness generally last a few minutes but sometimes continue for hours or days. Roaring or ringing occurs in the involved ear and some sufferers become hard of hearing.

The most popular remedies include nicotinic acid, histamine, vitamin B12, Dramamine, or Marezine. Occasionally a restricted salt diet helps. A surgical treatment is available and may be recommended wher other methods fail and the condition becomes incapacitating.

Should dizziness persist, causes other than those mentioned should be considered. Brain tumor and circulatory disturbances are among the more serious in this group.

TOMORROW: Arteriosclerosis and diabetes.

FAT AROUND THE HEART

Mrs. R. writes: What are the symptoms of excess fat around the heart?

REPLY

The same as they are for ordinary obesity. When a person gains weight, fat is deposited in all areas of the body, including the heart. Fat must be nourished, and as a result, many miles of new capilaries are laid down through which the blood flows. This creates an extra burden on the heart and it is this handicap, rather than the small amount of fat deposited around the heart muscle, that burdens the old ticker.

TB HOSPITALS

E. D. writes: Do most states have adequate facilities to take care of patients with tuberculosis?

REPLY

Yes. It is conceivable that our tuberculosis hospitals will admit fewer and fewer patients in the future because of the progress made in treating the disease.

AMEBIC INFECTION

D. F. writes: I have amebiasis, as shown by blood tests, but never had any dysentery. Is this unusual?

REPLY

Only half the victims of amebiasis develop dysentery. Stool examinations are more reliable than blood tests in diagnosis.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

It was said of the late Joe Frisco, beloved but irresponsible night club entertainer, that he put at least 30 boys through college—all bookmakers' sons.

"Only t-t-time I think I g-g-got underpaid," he stuttered once, "is when I hear what they g-g-give Gary Cooper. A g-g-grand a day for just saying 'Yup' and 'Nope!' Think of what he'd m-m-make if he'd only say 'L-l-lemme think it over!' "

A fine symphony orchestra, subsidized for a transcontinental tour, played in an Arkansas town, thereby giving the natives a big-time cultural experience. Next day the town elders gathered 'round a cracker barrel in their favorite grocery to talk over the concert.

Squire Abernathy's comment was the most noteworthy. "All I got to say," he declared, "is they brung that big bass drum a powerful long ways just to bang it wunst."

White House Counsel Helps Throttle Boost For Unemployment Benefits

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower is still telling friends about some of the side-splitting stories with which President Sean O'Kelly regaled him in the White House. Here's one the President relates as told him by the President of Ireland:

"England's mountain climbers were getting all the national headlines, so two stalwart Irishmen decided that for the good of the name of their country they must outdo the English. So they set out in midwinter to climb the highest Alp despite warnings from the Swiss.

"The Swiss were right, the snows were too deep. And after hours of climbing the two Irishmen found themselves floundering in snow up to their armpits, unable to move, getting colder, numb and weak. They thought the end was near.

"Suddenly one Irishman pulled his arm out of the snow and pointed toward the horizon.

" 'Look!' he said.

"Across the snow toward them came a large St. Bernard dog, bell around his neck ringing, and on his chest the familiar keg of liquor. 'Hurrah!' cried the first Irishman. 'We are saved! Here comes man's best friend.'

"And the second Irishman added, 'and imagine! A dog too!' "

Inside Lobbying

Behind President Eisenhower's firm refusal to liberalize the unemployment aid program has been the quiet lobbying of big business representative Stanley Rector who operates very adroitly through the back door of the White House.

His inside contact man is none other than the President's chief counsel, Gerald Morgan, whose former law firm helped Rector fight federal unemployment insurance. Now Morgan is carrying on the same fight from the vantage point of the president's elbow.

Rector works out of a three-room suite in the Washington Hotel, just around the block from the White House. Last year he spent over $100,000 lobbying against jobless benefits.

His board of directors includes executives from U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear Tire and Rubber, Socony Mobil Oil, and Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. Over 500 companies contribute from $200 to $2,500 apiece to Rector's operation.

In 1947, Rector hired Morgan's law firm, Morgan and Calhoun, as registered lobbyists. After Morgan entered the White House, he served as adviser to the President on unemployment compensation. As recently as last month, Morgan helped persuade Ike to reject liberal recommendations from Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

What Mitchell wanted to do was extend temporary benefits for jobless workers and overhaul unemployment insurance standards. In the showdown, the President sided with Morgan.

Ike Uses Lobby Language

Earlier, lobbyist Rector argued against these proposals in a letter, dated March 9, to his backers. He contended that any reforms should be left up to the states.

"There are 46 state legislatures meeting now or in the near future. Practically every one of them has pending unemployment compensation measures."

Three days later, President Eisenhower used the same, identical argument at a press conference. He called the program a "state responsibility" and added: "We are waiting for the legislatures to come into session, which they are this year."

Rector made one interesting concession: "In view of the fast developing showdown fight on federal benefit standards, a three-to-six months extension might well, in the end, prove helpful."

Ike also agreed to this same concession.

"I haven't got such a rigid position about this that I wouldn't listen to something," he told the press. At the same time, he notified Republican Congressional leaders that he would accept a three-to-six months extension.

It had all the earmarks of a triple play — Rector to Morgan to Eisenhower.

Note — The President repeated his views later to eight governors who belong to the Governors' Executive Committee. The only missing member was New Jersey's Gov. Robert Meyner, who happened to be in the South Pacific on temporary naval duty and who also happens to favor strong federal unemployment benefits. Meyner asked the White House to fly him to the conference, pointing out that the President as Commander-in-Chief could relieve him from his naval assignment. Ike flatly refused.

Why Decorate Dictators?

Now that Venezuela's exiled dictator Jimenez has been ordered out of the United States, Sen. Hubert Humphrey is quietly inquiring why President Eisenhower awarded Jimenez a gold medal for advancing "the general welfare of the Venezuelan people" while he was still dictator.

The Minnesota Democrat also wants to know why Fletcher Warren, now ambassador to Turkey, was so cozy with Jimenez' hated secret police chief, Pedro Estrada, when Warren was Ambassador to Venezuela. He actually congratulated Estrada for a ruthless purge in November, 1957.

Humphrey has obtained a copy of Warren's letter to Estrada, which declares: "Willa and I are surprised at the attempted coup but note that it was put down successfully and quickly. I wish I could come in and discuss it with you. According to the Paris papers, you must have been very much on the job as usual."

As a key member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Humphrey wants an explanation for the Eisenhower administration's past policy of decking Latin-American dictators with medals, sending them arms with which to keep their people in subjection, and pouring out tax dollars for them to feather their nests.

A Need For Caution

By Leslie Gould

As is the way with stock markets, shares that go up fast can come down just as fast, and sometimes faster.

For weeks a small group of so-called "glamor" stocks have featured an otherwise stable market. Gains were sensational, with highs several times last year's low being made up to two weeks ago.

Then there was a change. While the general market held just under its all-time highs, the "glamor" stocks were deglamorized in this two-week period. Losses have been almost as sensational as the gains a few weeks back.

Trading has been so wild and disorderly in some of these shares that the American Stock Exchange was forced to suspend trading almost every day and sometimes two or three times a day.

Thursday's market was an example of this hectic, disorderly trading.

General Development shares, which moved from a low of $8.12½ last year to $77.50 only two weeks ago, touched $45.12½ and closed at $47.25, down $6.87½ on the day.

Trading in the shares was suspended by the American Stock Exchange at 10:47 a. m. and was not resumed until 3:08 p. m. The issue was suspended nearly 4½ of the 5½ hours of Exchange trading.

Universal Controls had similar heavy going on the American Stock Exchange. The opening was delayed until 10:45, when 8,300 shares were transferred at $62.25, off $5.50 from the previous close. It fell to $58.50, off $9.25, and trading was halted at 12.22. Trading came back some to close at $59.50, off $8.25 on the day. The stock sold recently as high as $102. Last year's low was $22.12½.

Chromalloy, also on the American Stock Exchange and pushed by a stock exchange firm, sold down to $31.25, compared to the recent high of $51.87½. The stock closed the day at $34.12½, off $4.25. The low last year was $8.50.

Fairchild Camera is another. It went from a low of $19.50 last year to a recent high of $95.87½. Yesterday it broke to $71.50 and closed at $74.25, off $9.50 on the day.

On the stock exchange, Philadelphia & Reading duplicated some of the smaller board's dealings. This stock had gone from $27.50 last year to a recent high of $131.50. Thursday it got down to $97 and finished the day a minus $12.50 at $99.50.

Both Exchanges have become so concerned about the wild trading that both have issued warnings to member firms. One stock exchange firm jacked up its minimum margins on 29 stocks on the smaller board, saying:

"We view with great concern the fantastically wide fluctuations in certain stocks listed on the American Stock Exchange. . . daily price changes have often amounted to 25 per cent or more of some stocks' market prices."

The performance of some of these fast movers emphasizes the need for investors investigating before they invest and in times like these to be extremely cautious.

Eleven Polish railroad workers were charged with stealing three miles of their company's trackage. Appears these fellows not only followed the straight and narrow—but took part of it home with 'em.

A Hoosier girl baked the best pie in a nation-wide contest. "Oh," says Zadok Dumkopf, "to be back home again in Indiana!"

Buffalo, N. Y., mailmen have been ordered not to make menacing gestures to dogs on their routes. Just as though anything could be more menacing than a full set of canine teeth, bared back to the gums!

Sale of baby foods totaled more than $300 million worth in 1958 — a record. Who says there's anything wrong with our kids' appetites?

RACE FANS have been wondering why more of the Indianapolis racers were not entered at the recently-completed event at Daytona Beach. Similar question undoubtedly will be raised regarding the upcoming Trenton, N. J., race. Inside reason is that owners don't feel the lower prize money offered by these races warrants the gamble of damaging their huge investments before the big moneyed 500-miler at Indianapolis.

ALONG the same line it was overheard that all a driver has to do at Daytona is to steer his car, while at Indianapolis you have to drive it. Guess those steep banks at the sunshine track sure make it easier.

It won't be long now before Russia will enter sport cars in the world Grand Prix circuit. They have been making tremendous gains in this field, as well as in all other sports. This photo shows two of them at a recent race in Leningrad.

DRIVERS with the United States Auto club divided $1,027,499 in prize money during the '58 season, with Indy winner Jimmy Bryan at the head of the list with $121,928. Eleven made more than $20,000 each.

DURING a recent poll of sports editors it was revealed that 25 per cent of sport page readers follow news of automobile racing.

BUICK will pace the field for the 43rd 500 mile race at Indianapolis. This year's start will go back to the "old style," with all 33 cars in formation at the starting line on the main straightaway.

AFTER the recent Sebring sports car races, the Florida governor said, "Great sportsmanship was demonstrated among the various drivers . . . no question about it, sports car racing fosters good relations among the countries of the world."

Jockey Given Suspension In Maryland Until May 15

Monteiro Receives Severe Penalty For 'Unsatisfactory Ride'

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Jockey Arthur Monteiro was ordered suspended Monday from riding on Maryland tracks until May 15 for what stewards called an "unsatisfactory ride" at Laurel last Saturday.

The suspension was one of the most severe handed down in Maryland in recent years — and conceivably could be made worse. The stewards ordered the case turned over to the Maryland Racing Commission for possible further action.

Monteiro was grounded for the balance of the Laurel meeting, which ends May 2, and 10 additional racing days — which would include May 14.

The suspension was the maximum which the stewards are authorized to impose under Maryland racing laws, but the commission is not limited on any action it might take.

"The ride was unsatisfactory in a flagrant fashion," steward J. Fred Colwill said. "As far as we are concerned, the conclusions we made while observing the race were 100 per cent confirmed by watching movies of the race today."

Monteiro rode Faros to a fourth place finish in the fourth race Saturday. The 4-year-old owned by Mrs. Albert J. Lacoste finished four lengths behind the winner, Singing Bush.

Other stewards serving with Colwill Saturday were E. T. McLean and William Harron, representing the State Racing Commission.

Frank Lary gave up a run in the first inning, then blanked the Cards during the next four to get the victory. The Cardinals picked up their other score on a home run by Chuck Essegian off Hank Aguirre in the sixth.

The victory was Detroit's 13th of the exhibition campaign, against 10 losses. The Cardinals, finishing last in the Florida exhibition circuit, ended with a 9-17 record.

Russell's Rebounding Puts Celtics In Front

Boston And Lakers To Play Third Game Tonight In St. Paul

By JIM KLOBUCHAR

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Long Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics is averaging a piddling seven points a game but he's killing the Minneapolis Lakers off the boards in pro basketball's world series.

With 58 rebounds in two games the Celts' defensive wonderman cast a tall shadow over dimming Laker hopes in the National Basketball Assn. playoffs resuming Tuesday night in St. Paul.

"I don't care that I haven't scored many points in the series," said Russell. "We're winning, aren't we? I'm supposed to get that ball. That's what I'm trying to do."

In the Celtics' two weekend victories in Boston it was Frank Ramsey, Tom Heinsohn, Bob Cousy, and Bill Scharman who packed the scoring artillery.

But it was Russell, with 30 rebounds in one game and 28 in another, who carried the ammunition by setting off the Celtics' break neck sweep down the court.

"We tried as much as possible to keep him away from the boards," said Laker Coach Johnny Kundla, "but there really isn't much you can do with the guy."

Russell's timing and long-armed reach seems so effortless the big fellow makes rebounding look as easy at times as plucking apples off a tree.

END SIGNS WITH BEARS

CHICAGO (UPI)— The Chicago Bears announced Monday Willard Dewveall, former Southern Methodist end who was the No. 2 draft choice last year, has signed a 1959 contract. Dewveall, 6' 4" and 230 pounds, played Canadian football part of last season with Winnipeg.

RACE FANS have been wondering why more of the Indianapolis racers were not entered at the recently-completed event at Daytona Beach. Similar question undoubtedly will be raised regarding the upcoming Trenton, N. J., race. Inside reason is that owners don't feel the lower prize money offered by these races warrants the gamble of damaging their huge investments before the big moneyed 500-miler at Indianapolis.

ALONG the same line it was overheard that all a driver has to do at Daytona is to steer his car, while at Indianapolis you have to drive it. Guess those steep banks at the sunshine track sure make it easier.

It won't be long now before Russia will enter sport cars in the world Grand Prix circuit. They have been making tremendous gains in this field, as well as in all other sports. This photo shows two of them at a recent race in Leningrad.

DRIVERS with the United States Auto club divided $1,027,499 in prize money during the '58 season, with Indy winner Jimmy Bryan at the head of the list with $121,928. Eleven made more than $20,000 each.

DURING a recent poll of sports editors it was revealed that 25 per cent of sport page readers follow news of automobile racing.

BUICK will pace the field for the 43rd 500 mile race at Indianapolis. This year's start will go back to the "old style," with all 33 cars in formation at the starting line on the main straightaway.

AFTER the recent Sebring sports car races, the Florida governor said, "Great sportsmanship was demonstrated among the various drivers . . . no question about it, sports car racing fosters good relations among the countries of the world."

Jockey Given Suspension In Maryland Until May 15

Monteiro Receives Severe Penalty For 'Unsatisfactory Ride'

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Jockey Arthur Monteiro was ordered suspended Monday from riding on Maryland tracks until May 15 for what stewards called an "unsatisfactory ride" at Laurel last Saturday.

The suspension was one of the most severe handed down in Maryland in recent years — and conceivably could be made worse. The stewards ordered the case turned over to the Maryland Racing Commission for possible further action.

Monteiro was grounded for the balance of the Laurel meeting, which ends May 2, and 10 additional racing days — which would include May 14.

The suspension was the maximum which the stewards are authorized to impose under Maryland racing laws, but the commission is not limited on any action it might take.

"The ride was unsatisfactory in a flagrant fashion," steward J. Fred Colwill said. "As far as we are concerned, the conclusions we made while observing the race were 100 per cent confirmed by watching movies of the race today."

Monteiro rode Faros to a fourth place finish in the fourth race Saturday. The 4-year-old owned by Mrs. Albert J. Lacoste finished four lengths behind the winner, Singing Bush.

Other stewards serving with Colwill Saturday were E. T. McLean and William Harron, representing the State Racing Commission.

Russell's Rebounding Puts Celtics In Front

Boston And Lakers To Play Third Game Tonight In St. Paul

By JIM KLOBUCHAR

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Long Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics is averaging a piddling seven points a game but he's killing the Minneapolis Lakers off the boards in pro basketball's world series.

With 58 rebounds in two games the Celts' defensive wonderman cast a tall shadow over dimming Laker hopes in the National Basketball Assn. playoffs resuming Tuesday night in St. Paul.

"I don't care that I haven't scored many points in the series," said Russell. "We're winning, aren't we? I'm supposed to get that ball. That's what I'm trying to do."

In the Celtics' two weekend victories in Boston it was Frank Ramsey, Tom Heinsohn, Bob Cousy, and Bill Scharman who packed the scoring artillery.

But it was Russell, with 30 rebounds in one game and 28 in another, who carried the ammunition by setting off the Celtics' break neck sweep down the court.

"We tried as much as possible to keep him away from the boards," said Laker Coach Johnny Kundla, "but there really isn't much you can do with the guy."

Russell's timing and long-armed reach seems so effortless the big fellow makes rebounding look as easy at times as plucking apples off a tree.

Patterson-London Fight Shifted From Nevada To Indiana

Indianapolis Site Instead Of Las Vegas

Promoters Say Shift Made To Escape Hint Of Gambler Backing

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Floyd Patterson's manager said Monday Patterson would defend his heavyweight championship against Brian London May 1 in Indianapolis instead of at Las Vegas, Nev., regardless of the outcome of a television contract.

Cus D'Amato said the television dispute was between the National Broadcasting Co. and Cecil Rhodes Jr., Cranford, N.J. industrialist-promoter, but added:

"Regardless of what happens, the fight will be held in Indianapolis."

Rhodes said the title bout was moved from Las Vegas to Indianapolis to escape rumors of gamblers' backing.

"There wasn't — legally or illegally," Rhodes added. "But I don't want that kind of implication."

In Las Vegas, Jack Doyle, secretary of the Nevada Athletic Commission, said he was "baffled and surprised" by the switch.

Doyle said Rhodes "told me the fight was all set last Thursday and promised to be out here soon to work out final details."

Expected To Agree

Rhodes said he expects NBC and Gillette Co., sponsors, to agree to switch in the telecast.

However, Tom Gallery, sports director of NBC, in New York said he had a signed contract for a Patterson-London title fight in Las Vegas and had not agreed to any move to Indianapolis.

"We have nothing against Indianapolis," Gallery said. "But a contract is a contract. We have a contract signed by Cus D'Amato, Patterson and Cecil Rhodes calling for a fight in Las Vegas May 1. I have been on the phone with them all day but we have not reached any agreement. That's where it stands."

Gallery said the sponsors had gone to a lot of expense getting ready, calling meetings and setting up advertising. "It's a lot different blacking out Las Vegas and blacking out a city like Indianapolis," he added. The telecast would be blacked out in a 75-mile radius from the scene of the fight.

Rhodes left Indianapolis late Monday and was not available for comment on the television angle.

First For Indiana

Arch Hindman, executive secretary of the National Boxing Assn., said this will be the first world championship bout ever fought in Indiana.

The fight is to be in the Coliseum on the Indiana State Fairgrounds. The Coliseum management has promised 13,500 seats for the bout, Hindman said.

Braves In Market For Pinch Hitter

General Manager John McHale said Monday that the Braves hoped to pick up the man they want when major league clubs cut their rosters to meet the May 10 deadline of 25 players.

"We need somebody to pinch hit," McHale said, "and if possible somebody who can hit the long ball."

The assignment of rookie Art Spangler to the Louisville farm club last Saturday left only two right-handed hitters, Jim Pisoni and Andy Pafko, available for reserve outfield duty.

The Braves broke camp at Bradenton Monday. They will close their exhibition schedule here against the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Intentionally Wins Jamaica Feature Race

JAMAICA, N. Y., April 6 (AP) — Brookfield Farms' Intentionally, rated a keen contender for 3-year-old honors off his 1958 form, made his seasonal debut a sparkling one today at Jamaica Race Track by capturing the Hempstead Plain Purse, a six furlong allowance test, with ease.

The son of Intent-My Recipe stepped the six furlongs in the excellent time of 1:10 4/5 to win by six and a half lengths from Georgiana Foster's Outgiving, who took the place by a length and a quarter over Ethel D. Jacobs' That Lucky Day. Then there was a gap of six lengths to the only other starter, Fred A. Simmons' Snommis.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker, who rode Intentionally, took the colt to the front at the start and opened up a winning lead at once, The Shoe was looking back from the eighth pole home.

John C. Bruno's Moony was a late scratch today because of superficial cuts and bruises suffered when he broke loose at Belmont Park Sunday morning. However, Trainer G. P. (Maje) Odom hopes to have the colt ready for the Gotham Stakes, Saturday.

Solid favorite with the crowd of 23,285, Intentionally returned mutuels of $2.30 and $2.10. Outgiving was $2.60 to place

LAUREL, Md., April 6 (AP) — Upsets occurred in eight of the nine races run at Laurel Race Course today, with Battle Hill posting a $32.20 mutuel in the featured $5,000 Burtonsville Purse.

Outfighting Tuscanaway for a head decision in the six-furlong feature, the 4-year-old War Relic filly was timed over the fast but dead track in 1:12 1/5.

Our Holiday accounted for third money, a length and a quarter behind the leaders. Sand Boy, 2-1 favorite with the crowd of 10,707 fans, wound up fourth after setting a brisk early pace.

Battle Hill is owned by Anthony P. Bovello and trained by the latter's son, Jack. She was gaining her first victory of the 1959 season today and was ridden by Frank Lovato.

Validity Of New Racing Commission Bill Challenged

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A parliamentary slip-up was cited Monday as the basis for a challenge to the validity of legislation revamping the Maryland Racing Commission.

Sen. William S. James (D-Harford) said he had asked the attorney general for an opinion confirming that the reorganization bill was not constitutionally enacted.

A check of official Senate records showed that the measure was given semifinal and final approval in the same legislative day before the Legislature adjourned Saturday. The constitution provides that this be done on separate days unless Senate rules are suspended.

The records show no suspension of the rules before the vote on final approval was taken.

Ted Williams May Witness Friday Game

Slugger Will Wear Protective Collar

BOSTON (UPI) — Doctors said Monday that Ted Williams would be released from a hospital "in a few days" — probably in time to attend, but not to play in, Friday's Boston Red Sox opening game at New York.

Williams was admitted to the New England Baptist Hospital a week ago for treatment of a pinched muscle in the neck.

Even should he be released before Friday, it was not expected that the 40-year-old slugger could get himself into condition in time to play left field in the Yankee opener. Williams said himself before being admitted to the hospital that he would need as much convalescent time as the time he spent in the hospital.

Hospital Administrator Dr. James E. Fish said Ted was making "satisfactory progress" but would have to continue to wear a protective cervical collar for "a further period of convalescence" after being released.

He did not elaborate on the expected discharge date.

Intentionally Wins Jamaica Feature Race

JAMAICA, N. Y., April 6 (AP) — Brookfield Farms' Intentionally, rated a keen contender for 3-year-old honors off his 1958 form, made his seasonal debut a sparkling one today at Jamaica Race Track by capturing the Hempstead Plain Purse, a six furlong allowance test, with ease.

The son of Intent-My Recipe stepped the six furlongs in the excellent time of 1:10 4/5 to win by six and a half lengths from Georgiana Foster's Outgiving, who took the place by a length and a quarter over Ethel D. Jacobs' That Lucky Day. Then there was a gap of six lengths to the only other starter, Fred A. Simmons' Snommis.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker, who rode Intentionally, took the colt to the front at the start and opened up a winning lead at once, The Shoe was looking back from the eighth pole home.

John C. Bruno's Moony was a late scratch today because of superficial cuts and bruises suffered when he broke loose at Belmont Park Sunday morning. However, Trainer G. P. (Maje) Odom hopes to have the colt ready for the Gotham Stakes, Saturday.

Solid favorite with the crowd of 23,285, Intentionally returned mutuels of $2.30 and $2.10. Outgiving was $2.60 to place

Don Taussig's Homer Wins For Giants, 8-6

TOPEKA, Kans. (UPI) — Don Taussig's two-run homer in the top of the 11th inning gave the San Francisco Giants their sixth straight exhibition victory over the Cleveland Indians, 8-6, before 3,012 fans here Monday.

Taussig's home run off Hal Woodeschick was the Giants' fifth of the game and 56th of the spring training season. They lead all major league clubs in this power department.

Eddie Bressoud socked two of the earlier four-basers, the first off Jim Perry in the second inning, the other off Gary Bell in the sixth. Perry also gave up a two-run homer to Danny O'Connell.

The Giants now have eight victories in 10 games with Cleveland this spring with two remaining to be played.

Battle Hill, 15-1 Shot, Is Laurel Victor

Geechee Lou Pays $53 In 7th Race

LAUREL, Md., April 6 (AP) — Upsets occurred in eight of the nine races run at Laurel Race Course today, with Battle Hill posting a $32.20 mutuel in the featured $5,000 Burtonsville Purse.

Outfighting Tuscanaway for a head decision in the six-furlong feature, the 4-year-old War Relic filly was timed over the fast but dead track in 1:12 1/5.

Our Holiday accounted for third money, a length and a quarter behind the leaders. Sand Boy, 2-1 favorite with the crowd of 10,707 fans, wound up fourth after setting a brisk early pace.

Battle Hill is owned by Anthony P. Bovello and trained by the latter's son, Jack. She was gaining her first victory of the 1959 season today and was ridden by Frank Lovato.

Carrying just 105 pounds, Battle Hill was reserved off the brisk early pace (a half-mile in 46 4/5) and then lodged her bid on the extreme outside through the stretch.

Gregory Peters' Geechee Lou paid $53 for $2 in the $4,500 Pentagon Purse, the day's secondary feature.

Scoring by a half-length over Gygis, the even-money favorite, Geechee Lou gave her rider, apprentice Jack Bradley, his first triumph since the Charles Town (W. Va.) meeting.

The 3-year-old daughter of Noble Hero was making only the second start of her career.

For the second time in as many programs, the daily double exceeded $500.

Montego Bay ($18.40) and Special Chick ($30.40) won the first and second races and tickets coupling them (Nos. 7 and 11) were worth $510.20 for $2.

Alan Plihal, 19-year-old sophomore from Guatemala, is a member of Columbia's fencing team. He's a six-footer and performs with the epee.

GETS BADGER POST — Only 31, John Erickson, former Beloit cage star, has been named head basketball coach at Wisconsin, succeeding the veteran Bud Foster. Erickson, who has been assistant to Foster, came to Wisconsin after coaching three years at Lake Forest.

Validity Of New Racing Commission Bill Challenged

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A parliamentary slip-up was cited Monday as the basis for a challenge to the validity of legislation revamping the Maryland Racing Commission.

Sen. William S. James (D-Harford) said he had asked the attorney general for an opinion confirming that the reorganization bill was not constitutionally enacted.

A check of official Senate records showed that the measure was given semifinal and final approval in the same legislative day before the Legislature adjourned Saturday. The constitution provides that this be done on separate days unless Senate rules are suspended.

The records show no suspension of the rules before the vote on final approval was taken.

Ted Williams May Witness Friday Game

Slugger Will Wear Protective Collar

BOSTON (UPI) — Doctors said Monday that Ted Williams would be released from a hospital "in a few days" — probably in time to attend, but not to play in, Friday's Boston Red Sox opening game at New York.

Williams was admitted to the New England Baptist Hospital a week ago for treatment of a pinched muscle in the neck.

Even should he be released before Friday, it was not expected that the 40-year-old slugger could get himself into condition in time to play left field in the Yankee opener. Williams said himself before being admitted to the hospital that he would need as much convalescent time as the time he spent in the hospital.

Hospital Administrator Dr. James E. Fish said Ted was making "satisfactory progress" but would have to continue to wear a protective cervical collar for "a further period of convalescence" after being released.

He did not elaborate on the expected discharge date.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — There's a rugged summer ahead for Sophia Loren. Before she even starts "Bay of Naples" with Clark Gable in August she goes to Vienna to co-star with John Gavin in "Olympia," Ferenc Molnar's play.

Carlo Ponti and Marcel Girosi have acquired the rights to "Olympia," by the famous Hungarian playwright and it goes before the cameras in June. Sophia will play the princess who has an interlude one summer with an American, played by John Gavin, who has been borrowed from Universal.

On the subject of Ferenc Molnar, I remember when I visited Budapest in 1932 before the Iron Curtain days, and attended a rehearsal of a new Molnar play. I struggled valiantly to interview him with my very bad German and his equally bad English. I think he was bored with the whole thing and I can't say that I blame him.

Boston censors are in for double trouble according to plans Viveca Lindfors outlines for her next starring venture on the stage.

Viveca and her writer-husband, George Tabori, and several associates have formed a company through which they will present "Bacchae" by Euripides which is one of the Greek dramatist's most candid plays, and "Harlequin Refined by Love," another adult dramatic venture by the late French dramatist Pierre Maribeaux.

According to Viveca, she and Tabori will make a motion picture of the Greek tragedy "Bacchae" after they take it to New York from its run in Boston.

Robert Montgomery Jr., and his pretty wife expect their second baby in mid-July. As they are already the parents of Robert Montgomery III, the father-to-be says the new arrival had better be a girl, "because we're running out of numbers for male Montgomerys."

Montgomery Jr., is doing well in his career at 20th and has a good role in "A Private's Affair." The studio must believe he has a lot of the charm of his famous father because they've offered him a contract if he promises to turn down a TV series called "The Little American." It's a safe bet that Bob will choose the movies and stay on the 20th lot.

I can tell Ralph Wheelright and Lester Salkow, who are writing the story of Charles E. Chapin, the famous New York Evening World City editor, for Jimmy Cagney, many things about Chapin. He murdered his wife and was sent to Sing Sing. He had such a bad disposition that once when he was sick Irvin S. Cobb said, "I hope its nothing trivial."

In his youth Chapin had been a friend of my family, so when I went to New York I carried a letter of introduction from my mother. I hadn't been on the Morning Telegram very long when the news came that he had murdered his wife.

Chapin was sent to Sing Sing, where he ran a prison newspaper, but his disposition was so bad that the prisoners didn't want to work for him, so he started cultivating the gardens and it was he who was responsible for the beautiful flowers in the prison garden.

You can start calling James Garner (whose new picture is "Cash MacCall") "Cash" Garner on the terms of the new deal he has with Warners.

The fancy contract guarantees Jim a million and a half dollars over a period of several years—and what's more he'll be allowed to pick up more moola for one outside movie each year! That's nice oats-gathering for Mr. Maverick.

Joe Pevney has been signed to direct Jim in "Cash McCall"—a complete switch from the Westerns that brought him fame. In this, Garner plays a modern pirate of the big business world.

Everyone in the "Anatomy of a Murder" cast knew that Jimmy Stewart would be very popular in the 18,000 inhabited town of Ashpeming, but the overwhelming welcome of Eve Arden, who has a string of autograph seekers following her day and night, was surprising. This all came about because of "Our Miss Brooks."

A telephone call from Ishpeming also brings word that Kathryn Grant has joined the company and her sister is with her. Charles Beaumont, author of "The Intruder", is working with Otto Preminger on "Bonnie Lake is Missing". Otto works by day on "Anatomy" and by night on the script of "Bonnie Lake."

"The Lady from Winnetka" is certainly a misleading title. That's the TV show that Joanne Dru and Jacques Bergerac are going to make for David Niven's Four-Star Theatre.

I say "misleading" because it's going to be filmed in Capri, and as all the world knows, Winnetka is a suburb of Chicago, and is the birthplace of one Rock Hudson.

The first water-driven electric power plant in the United States was built and operated by Paul N. Nunn.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — There's a rugged summer ahead for Sophia Loren. Before she even starts "Bay of Naples" with Clark Gable in August she goes to Vienna to co-star with John Gavin in "Olympia," Ferenc Molnar's play.

Carlo Ponti and Marcel Girosi have acquired the rights to "Olympia," by the famous Hungarian playwright and it goes before the cameras in June. Sophia will play the princess who has an interlude one summer with an American, played by John Gavin, who has been borrowed from Universal.

On the subject of Ferenc Molnar, I remember when I visited Budapest in 1932 before the Iron Curtain days, and attended a rehearsal of a new Molnar play. I struggled valiantly to interview him with my very bad German and his equally bad English. I think he was bored with the whole thing and I can't say that I blame him.

Boston censors are in for double trouble according to plans Viveca Lindfors outlines for her next starring venture on the stage.

Viveca and her writer-husband, George Tabori, and several associates have formed a company through which they will present "Bacchae" by Euripides which is one of the Greek dramatist's most candid plays, and "Harlequin Refined by Love," another adult dramatic venture by the late French dramatist Pierre Maribeaux.

According to Viveca, she and Tabori will make a motion picture of the Greek tragedy "Bacchae" after they take it to New York from its run in Boston.

Robert Montgomery Jr., and his pretty wife expect their second baby in mid-July. As they are already the parents of Robert Montgomery III, the father-to-be says the new arrival had better be a girl, "because we're running out of numbers for male Montgomerys."

Montgomery Jr., is doing well in his career at 20th and has a good role in "A Private's Affair." The studio must believe he has a lot of the charm of his famous father because they've offered him a contract if he promises to turn down a TV series called "The Little American." It's a safe bet that Bob will choose the movies and stay on the 20th lot.

I can tell Ralph Wheelright and Lester Salkow, who are writing the story of Charles E. Chapin, the famous New York Evening World City editor, for Jimmy Cagney, many things about Chapin. He murdered his wife and was sent to Sing Sing. He had such a bad disposition that once when he was sick Irvin S. Cobb said, "I hope its nothing trivial."

In his youth Chapin had been a friend of my family, so when I went to New York I carried a letter of introduction from my mother. I hadn't been on the Morning Telegram very long when the news came that he had murdered his wife.

Chapin was sent to Sing Sing, where he ran a prison newspaper, but his disposition was so bad that the prisoners didn't want to work for him, so he started cultivating the gardens and it was he who was responsible for the beautiful flowers in the prison garden.

You can start calling James Garner (whose new picture is "Cash MacCall") "Cash" Garner on the terms of the new deal he has with Warners.

The fancy contract guarantees Jim a million and a half dollars over a period of several years—and what's more he'll be allowed to pick up more moola for one outside movie each year! That's nice oats-gathering for Mr. Maverick.

Joe Pevney has been signed to direct Jim in "Cash McCall"—a complete switch from the Westerns that brought him fame. In this, Garner plays a modern pirate of the big business world.

Everyone in the "Anatomy of a Murder" cast knew that Jimmy Stewart would be very popular in the 18,000 inhabited town of Ashpeming, but the overwhelming welcome of Eve Arden, who has a string of autograph seekers following her day and night, was surprising. This all came about because of "Our Miss Brooks."

A telephone call from Ishpeming also brings word that Kathryn Grant has joined the company and her sister is with her. Charles Beaumont, author of "The Intruder", is working with Otto Preminger on "Bonnie Lake is Missing". Otto works by day on "Anatomy" and by night on the script of "Bonnie Lake."

"The Lady from Winnetka" is certainly a misleading title. That's the TV show that Joanne Dru and Jacques Bergerac are going to make for David Niven's Four-Star Theatre.

I say "misleading" because it's going to be filmed in Capri, and as all the world knows, Winnetka is a suburb of Chicago, and is the birthplace of one Rock Hudson.

The first water-driven electric power plant in the United States was built and operated by Paul N. Nunn.

WE wish to thank all of our friends and neighbors for their many expressions of kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of our Mother, Mrs. Motie B. Lannon.
THE CHILDREN AND SISTER

WE desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all of our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband and father, John Bradley. We especially wish to thank Rev. Fussell, those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral and the pallbearers. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance, we are indeed grateful.

Card of Thanks

WE wish to thank all of our friends and neighbors for their many expressions of kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of our Mother, Mrs. Motie B. Lannon.
THE CHILDREN AND SISTER

WE desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all of our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband and father, John Bradley. We especially wish to thank Rev. Fussell, those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral and the pallbearers. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance, we are indeed grateful.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♦	Pass	Pass
1 ♠	3 ♣	Pass	5 ♣
Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠.

It is not often that a player, passed out at one, has a chance to contract for slam, but South did it today, and on sound reasoning.

South opened modestly with one diamond. To be sure, had one of his two suits been a major, an opening demand bid would have been chosen. But South decided to take his chances that someone at the table would keep the bidding alive. We would not have been inclined to tempt fate with a holding of this great power.

North had little choice but to pass and East followed the practice of many players in refusing to permit the opposition to play the hand at an uncontested one bid. He called one spade and, while not held subject to criticism for so doing, there is some question whether he ought not to have smelled "the rat." His holding in diamonds makes it highly unlikely that West held any sort of trap for the opening bidder, and, since he was apparently unable to make an overcall, it was not all remote that one of the adversaries had misjudged his hand.

South, grateful for another chance to bid, made an interesting choice. Normal procedure is to double, but he did not wish to cope with a probable heart response from a partner who had a distinct lack of high cards. He therefore made a jump bid in clubs. North now rose to the occasion. If South was willing to jump the bid after being advised that North was in a completely impoverished state, then he considered that his holding was sufficient to contract for game.

South lost no time in going to slam, and with the trumps breaking two-one, he discarded two spades from dummy on his high diamonds and succeeded in taking all 13 tricks.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♦	Pass	Pass
1 ♠	3 ♣	Pass	5 ♣
Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠.

It is not often that a player, passed out at one, has a chance to contract for slam, but South did it today, and on sound reasoning.

South opened modestly with one diamond. To be sure, had one of his two suits been a major, an opening demand bid would have been chosen. But South decided to take his chances that someone at the table would keep the bidding alive. We would not have been inclined to tempt fate with a holding of this great power.

North had little choice but to pass and East followed the practice of many players in refusing to permit the opposition to play the hand at an uncontested one bid. He called one spade and, while not held subject to criticism for so doing, there is some question whether he ought not to have smelled "the rat." His holding in diamonds makes it highly unlikely that West held any sort of trap for the opening bidder, and, since he was apparently unable to make an overcall, it was not all remote that one of the adversaries had misjudged his hand.

South, grateful for another chance to bid, made an interesting choice. Normal procedure is to double, but he did not wish to cope with a probable heart response from a partner who had a distinct lack of high cards. He therefore made a jump bid in clubs. North now rose to the occasion. If South was willing to jump the bid after being advised that North was in a completely impoverished state, then he considered that his holding was sufficient to contract for game.

South lost no time in going to slam, and with the trumps breaking two-one, he discarded two spades from dummy on his high diamonds and succeeded in taking all 13 tricks.

Profit-Taking Interrupts Another Surge In Market

NEW YORK (UPI)—Profit-taking halted another surge in the stock market Monday after brisk morning trading carried prices to near their all-time highs.

Motors, drugs, aircrafts and some of the electronics were standout performers, even after the realizing nipped some of the gains.

General Motors rose more than a point and Ford tacked on a major fraction in response to a report that auto sales last month were the best since December, 1957, and expectations of a strong spring market.

Drugs continued to react to predictions of important earnings gains and new products ahead.

There were sharp run-ups in Vick —up 18—American Home Products—up 5½—and Bristol Myers—up 9½.

The market got a major lift in the morning from a White House report of a "gratifying" decline in unemployment in March. Buying also was helped by good earnings reports and a number of favorable dividend actions.

Volume tapered off from Friday's pace. Sales totaled 3,510,000 shares, down from 3,680,000.

Gains in the rails, seen as a particularly bullish factor by most market experts, mirror expected increases in carloadings as the economic recovery continues.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) —Most grains closed stronger Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat was up 2½ to off ⅝; corn up ¾ to 1⅞; oats unchanged to up 1; new oats up ⅝ to ¾; rye up 1⅝ to off ⅝; soybeans up ¾ to 1¼.

On an upturn of more than 2 cents per bushel, new crop wheat futures sold at new highs for the season. May wheat positions lagged, however, partly due to a drop of 2 cents from last week in the Commodity Credit Corporation's offering price for export red wheat in Atlantic positions.

The advance in new wheat positions was obtained under short covering, stop - loss buying and crop complaints from soft winter wheat areas and dry weather in Texas and western Oklahoma.

Corn advanced sharply from early low points under export and commission house buying. Exporters were reported accepting 1,490,000 bushels under subsidy bids.

A moderate demand appeared in new crop oats contracts, with the May remaining steady. Reports of reduced acreage resulted in higher prices for deferred contracts. Offerings were light.

The soybean market was mostly quiet but firm, with scattered buying early. Meal futures were higher. Oils closed easier.

The U.S. visible supply of wheat decreased 2,908,000 bushels last week, leaving 355,618,000 in stock; corn increased 2,338,000, leaving 90,926,000; oats decreased 689,000, leaving 16,766,000; rye increased 7,, leaving 2,571,00; barley decreased 1,239,000, leaving 19,463,000, and soybeans increased 123,000, leaving 23,367.

Grains at outside markets were generally stronger. The range:

Door Bars Way

LONDON (UPI)—Stage escape artist Alan Alan got out of everything at a performance for convicts Sunday—and then found he could not get through the prison door.

Alan escaped from handcuffs, ropes and chains on stage before an attentive audience at Wormwood Scrubs Prison.

As he was leaving the building after the show, he found his way barred by a jammed door. Alan stood aside while a hefty guard shoved it open for him.

Charges Interference

NIIGATA, Japan (UPI)—Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi Sunday charged Communist China with "interference" in Japanese domestic affairs because it demanded in a joint communique with a Japanese Socialist delegation recently that Japan scrap its security pact with the United States.

Kishi, here on a stumping tour in aid of the government's Liberal Democratic Party candidate for governor, made the charge during a news conference.

Profit-Taking Interrupts Another Surge In Market

NEW YORK (UPI)—Profit-taking halted another surge in the stock market Monday after brisk morning trading carried prices to near their all-time highs.

Motors, drugs, aircrafts and some of the electronics were standout performers, even after the realizing nipped some of the gains.

General Motors rose more than a point and Ford tacked on a major fraction in response to a report that auto sales last month were the best since December, 1957, and expectations of a strong spring market.

Drugs continued to react to predictions of important earnings gains and new products ahead.

There were sharp run-ups in Vick—up 18—American Home Products—up 5½—and Bristol Myers—up 9½.

The market got a major lift in the morning from a White House report of a "gratifying" decline in unemployment in March. Buying also was helped by good earnings reports and a number of favorable dividend actions.

Volume tapered off from Friday's pace. Sales totaled 3,510,000 shares, down from 3,680,000.

Gains in the rails, seen as a particularly bullish factor by most market experts, mirror expected increases in carloadings as the economic recovery continues.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) —Most grains closed stronger Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat was up 2½ to off ⅝; corn up ¾ to 1⅛; oats unchanged to up 1; new oats up ⅝ to ¾; rye up 1⅝ to off ⅝; soybeans up ¾ to 1¼.

On an upturn of more than 2 cents per bushel, new crop wheat futures sold at new highs for the season. May wheat positions lagged, however, partly due to a drop of 2 cents from last week in the Commodity Credit Corporation's offering price for export red wheat in Atlantic positions.

The advance in new wheat positions was obtained under short covering, stop - loss buying and crop complaints from soft winter wheat areas and dry weather in Texas and western Oklahoma.

Corn advanced sharply from early low points under export and commission house buying. Exporters were reported accepting 1,490,000 bushels under subsidy bids.

A moderate demand appeared in new crop oats contracts, with the May remaining steady. Reports of reduced acreage resulted in higher prices for deferred contracts. Offerings were light.

The soybean market was mostly quiet but firm, with scattered buying early. Meal futures were higher. Oils closed easier.

The U.S. visible supply of wheat decreased 2,908,000 bushels last week, leaving 355,618,000 in stock; corn increased 2,338,000, leaving 90,925,000; oats decreased 689,000, leaving 16,766,000; rye increased 7,, leaving 2,571,00; barley decreased 1,239,000, leaving 19,463,000, and soybeans increased 123,000, leaving 23,367.

Grains at outside markets were generally stronger. The range:

As he was leaving the building after the show, he found his way barred by a jammed door. Alan stood aside while a hefty guard shoved it open for him.

Charges Interference

NIIGATA, Japan (UPI)—Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi Sunday charged Communist China with "interference" in Japanese domestic affairs because it demanded in a joint communique with a Japanese Socialist delegation recently that Japan scrap its security pact with the United States.

Kishi, here on a stumping tour in aid of the government's Liberal Democratic Party candidate for governor, made the charge during a news conference.

Tawes To Listen To Pleas For Special Session

Tells Teachers He's Willing To Consider

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes agreed Monday to meet with teacher representatives so they could present in detail their request for a special session of the Maryland Legislature.

He repeated his earlier statement that he has "no plans for calling a special session right now" but said he was willing to listen to spokesmen for teachers seeking a pay raise and "take the matter under advisement."

Tawes spoke as criticism of Saturday's sudden adjournment of the House of Delegates continued to swirl about him. The unexpected departure of the delegates came two days before the scheduled end of the 90-day session, midnight Monday.

Backers of teachers pay and veterans bonus legislation said this resulted in the death of these measures.

Reject Package

The House adjournment came after the delegates had turned down Tawes' four-year program for increasing minimum teacher salary levels from $3,200-$5,000 a year to $4,000-$5,800.

Instead, the delegates approved and sent to the Senate a measure containing only the first phase of the four-year plan.

They then gave semi-final approval to the bonus, which had already cleared the Senate. Under normal procedure the final vote would have been taken Monday and a 62-vote majority would have been sufficient for enactment.

To suspend the normal procedure and take the final bonus vote Saturday, however, 82 votes were necessary.

An attempt to swing this produced only 62. Moments later Majority Leader Boone (D - Balto County) made his surprise motion to wind up the session and this was approved by voice vote.

The senators, most of whom were still at dinner recess and unaware that the House had adjourned, were left with two major alternatives on the teacher pay issue. Because the House was gone, there was no avenue of compromise.

Had Two Choices

They could accept the one-year House plan and give the teachers a piece of the governor's plan. Or they could meaninglessly approve the entire four-year plan, and, lacking House concurrence or compromise, give the teachers no increase.

They chose the latter.

Milson C. Raver, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers Assn., asked the governor by telegram "to call a special session of the General Assembly so that they might complete the enactment of your program for the improvement of teachers' salaries . . . which was killed by the premature adjournment . . ."

The governor said his reply expressed a willingness to discuss the request in greater detail "at the earliest convenience of all interested parties." He said he did not know when this might be.

PTA "Outraged"

Besides Raver, the governor said other participants in the discussion would include Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of

Grand Jurors Alter Plans As Term Opens

Inspect Buildings In First Action

In a reversal of the usual procedure, April grand jurors of Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday visited the county buildings and today will question some 16 witnesses.

The grand jury, which was charged yesterday morning by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris, is expected to wind up deliberations today. Yesterday morning the 19 men and four women jurors questioned five witnesses and then took a tour of the buildings and worked on their report.

Judge Harris told the jurors that "you should be free from prejudices — a grand jury whose members have preconceived notions or complexes or a mass of ideas highly charged with emotions, can become a public nuisance."

Barton Foreman

Harry J. Barton, of Pinto, a dairy farmer and general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, is foreman of the grand jury. There are no major crimes awaiting the jurors deliberation, according to State's Attorney James S. Getty.

Judge Harris also suggested that the grand jury call before it J. William Hunt, who was selected as chairman of a committee to consider the construction of some worthwhile memorial to George Washington on the Court House lawn, to determine what progress has been made.

The committee was selected as the result of Judge Harris' recommendation during the January grand jury term. At that time, the jurist cited the close association of Washington in Cumberland when it was a fort and also the place where the first President assumed command of the British troops following the death of Gen. Braddock.

Duties Listed

The charge to the grand jurors also contained the following:

"Upon you, as grand jurors, devolves the important duty of inquiring into the peace of this county, and the proper performance of that duty has much to do with the peace, good order, and security of the citizens of this county.

"I might tell you that a grand jury has been defined as 'a body of men and women selected and summoned according to law to serve before a competent court and by such court impaneled, sworn, and charged to inquire in regard to crimes committed within its jurisdiction, and to present all offenders against the law in the mode and manner defined by it. A grand jury is an informing and accusing body, rather than a judicial tribunal.'

"The Court of Appeals of Maryland speaking of the grand jury has said: 'To them is committed the preservation of the peace of the county, the care of bringing to light for examination, trial, and punishment, all violence, outrage, indecency, and terror; everything that may occasion danger, disturbance, or dismay to the citizens. They are watchmen stationed by the laws to survey the conduct of their fellow citizens, and inquire where and by whom public authority has been violated, or the laws infringed."

Youths Held For Theft Of Auto Mirrors, Lights

Four Cumberland youths who police say admitted a series of thefts of accessories from parked automobiles will be tried this afternoon in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of petit larceny.

Arrested about 10:15 p. m. Sunday by Officers Clarence Valentine, Harold Gibson and William Norris, the four youths cleared a number of complaints which police have received since March 14. The officers recovered part of the accessories in the trunk of an automobile in which the youths were riding when picked up on Baltimore Street.

Being held in City Jail pending their hearing today at 2 p. m. are Lester A. Blackburn, 20, and Larry Wolfe, 19, both of Piedmont Avenue, extended, and Roger Hartman, 19, and Homer DeVault, 18, who reside at 310 Waverly Terrace.

Police said the four are implicated in the thefts of seven or eight rear view mirrors and two tail lights taken from automobiles parked on Cumberland streets during the past three weeks.

Among the complaints apparently cleared up are Harry Davis, 24 North Waverly Terrace, who reported two tail lights taken from his car; J. P. Keegan, 411 Furnace Street, a $5 mirror; Francis A. Kenney, 802 Trost Avenue, a $5 mirror; William Craze, 612 Holland Street, a $10 mirror; Theodore Clark, 520 Columbia Avenue, a $5 mirror, all reported missing on March 14.

Others include John Andrews, 310 Franklin Street, a $7.45 mirror; J. C. Yutzy, 319 Pulaski Street, a $5 mirror; and Harry Tracey, 1305 Halland Street, a side view mirror valued at $5.65. These were reported stolen from parked vehicles over the past weekend.

The arresting officers said seven automobile mirrors were recovered from the car ~~on which~~ the stolen tail lights also had been affixed.

Police, investigating a minor accident Sunday, spotted the four youths acting suspiciously in their car, noting the automobile's license number. The four boys were picked up downtown a few minutes later and yesterday admitted to detectives their part in the thefts, police stated.

Strikebound Paper Mill Is Closed

Temporary Order Gets Extension

MECHANICVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co. said tonight it has closed its strikebound mill here "since it is impractical to operate in a climate of lawlessness."

The announcement followed by a few hours a State Supreme Court order extending indefinitely a temporary injunction that has prohibited picketing at the plant since March 27. Decision was reserved on a company request for a permanent injunction.

About 940 members of the United Papermakers and Paperworkers Union struck Jan. 20 in a dispute over several clauses of a proposed new contract. Pickets and non-strikers clashed March 20 and 26, during a week when salaried employes were operating the paper-making machines. The limited production was halted March 27.

May Start Up

Plant Manager George N. Hoover, who announced the closing, said in a statement: "With an injunction that insures law and order, we may start up again when we are persuaded by our employes that they want to work."

A company spokesman said about 240 salaries workers have been continued on the payroll during the strike.

Asked if Hoover's announcement meant these employes would be laid off, a company spokesman said that was not known yet. He said they presumably would be available for transfer to other Westvaco plants.

The spokesman said the complete shutdown was effective at 5 p. m. and only watchmen remained on duty at the plant which the company says is valued at 10 million dollars.

Fires 22 Strikers

A special panel of the State Mediation Board tried unsuccessfully last week to settle the strike.

Last Friday the company fired 22 strikers it said had participated in violence, suspended four others and issued warnings to 11. The union immediately announced it would not end the strike until these men were reinstated.

Hoover said tonight the company's contract offer to the union had been withdrawn but "the company stands ready to negotiate a new contract with the union at any time."

The company and union had agreed on wages.

Pension Study Suggested By Delegate Conlon

States Two Courses Of Possible Action

Del. Thomas F. Conlon Jr., yesterday told teachers that many citizens feel that so long as the State of Maryland will not fully correct the teacher annuity deficiency problem "we are faced with two courses of action."

He listed the plans, which would work together, as:

1. "Use all . . . persuasive power to get the State to re-examine the whole problem of teacher annuity and cost of living disparity, including a study of the variable annuity principle of the New York State College Retirement Fund."

2. "Realizing that the first course may be futile and lengthy of accomplishment, face up to the fact that we need a third type of pension system for teachers.

Suggests Study

This will include getting started at once on a study of how to best operate the system in closer cooperation with existing state and federal pension pensions, and in a manner fair to all concerned."

He said that if the subject is approached objectively, with good advice from professional pension people, and a policy adopted on what can and should be done for retired teachers on the county level, a worthwhile goal can be reached.

The above suggestions were included in a letter to teachers.

He assured teachers he voted for Senate Bill 58 because it tackled the problem "though it contained serious imperfections which I'm sure can be corrected by calm and businesslike study in months to come, before the problems it creates can raise any doubt in the public mind as to future disparity."

Del. Conlon said last night he will suggest that a study group be appointed by the County Commissioners to study the entire problem.

Wants Expert Advice

He suggested that the study group includes pension experts and businessmen who could sit down with the County Commissioners and Board of Education and work out a satisfactory pension program.

Two bills were enacted during the recent Assembly. One by Sen. See would provide $480 a month supplementary pension for teachers who retire after this July and Del. Conlon's House bill which would add $25 to the monthly pensions of retired teachers.

Two Patuxent Inmates To Get Hearings Here

A local man and a Frostburg man who received prison sentences in Allegany County Circuit Court will be brought here Friday to determine if they are defective delinquents.

One of the men is Wilfred C. Simmons, who was sentenced last year to five years in the House of Correction for slashing and torturing a 51-year-old local woman.

The other man, Albert Cole, 39, was sentenced to three years in the Maryland Penitentiary in the assault of a Frostburg woman on May 24, 1957 near Miners Hospital.

Both men have been confined at the Patuxent Institution and will appear here Friday afternoon before Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Circuit Court.

On March 19, 1958, Simmons was given the five-year sentence by Judge Harris, who stipulated that testimony in the case, a psychiatrist's report and pictures of the woman be sent to the superintendent of the prison who was to determine if the defendant should be sent to the institution for treatment.

Victim of the slashing and torturing was Mrs. Helen Steiner, of Baltimore Avenue, who was assaulted in the basement of the residence of Simmons' aunt on Marion Street.

Cole was given a three-year term by Judge Harris at a hearing on September 30, 1957. At the trial in 1957 it was brought out that Cole had spent 17 years of his life in prison.

Cole's court-appointed attorney at his trial, Estel C. Kelley, asked the court if Cole could be given an examination at the penitentiary to determine if treatment at the Patuxent Institution would be helpful in his case.

Man Sentenced, Fined In Assault

Wesley J. Kipe, 40, of RFD 4, Oldtown Road, was sentenced to 30 days in the County Jail and fined $100 following a hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on an assault charge.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick found Kipe guilty of assaulting Eugene Rankin, 28, of 1015 Virginia Avenue. Magistrate Dick also ordered Kipe to jail for 30 days in default of the fine.

Rankin was assaulted by Kipe in front of the County Building on Union Street where he was going to get a warrant sworn out against Kipe for disturbing the peace, according to testimony.

Tawes To Listen To Pleas For Special Session

Tells Teachers He's Willing To Consider

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes agreed Monday to meet with teacher representatives so they could present in detail their request for a special session of the Maryland Legislature.

He repeated his earlier statement that he has "no plans for calling a special session right now" but said he was willing to listen to spokesmen for teachers seeking a pay raise and "take the matter under advisement."

Tawes spoke as criticism of Saturday's sudden adjournment of the House of Delegates continued to swirl about him. The unexpected departure of the delegates came two days before the scheduled end of the 90-day session, midnight Monday.

Backers of teachers pay and veterans bonus legislation said this resulted in the death of these measures.

Reject Package

The House adjournment came after the delegates had turned down Tawes' four-year program for increasing minimum teacher salary levels from $3,200-$5,000 a year to $4,000-$5,800.

Instead, the delegates approved and sent to the Senate a measure containing only the first phase of the four-year plan.

They then gave semi-final approval to the bonus, which had already cleared the Senate. Under normal procedure the final vote would have been taken Monday and a 62-vote majority would have been sufficient for enactment.

To suspend the normal procedure and take the final bonus vote Saturday, however, 82 votes were necessary.

An attempt to swing this produced only 62. Moments later Majority Leader Boone (D - Balto County) made his surprise motion to wind up the session and this was approved by voice vote.

The senators, most of whom were still at dinner recess and unaware that the House had adjourned, were left with two major alternatives on the teacher pay issue. Because the House was gone, there was no avenue of compromise.

Had Two Choices

They could accept the one-year House plan and give the teachers a piece of the governor's plan. Or they could meaninglessly approve the entire four-year plan, and, lacking House concurrence or compromise, give the teachers no increase.

They chose the latter.

Milson C. Raver, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers Assn., asked the governor by telegram "to call a special session of the General Assembly so that they might complete the enactment of your program for the improvement of teachers' salaries . . . which was killed by the premature adjournment . . ."

The governor said his reply expressed a willingness to discuss the request in greater detail "at the earliest convenience of all interested parties." He said he did not know when this might be.

PTA "Outraged"

Besides Raver, the governor said other participants in the discussion would include Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of

Grand Jurors Alter Plans As Term Opens

Inspect Buildings In First Action

In a reversal of the usual procedure, April grand jurors of Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday visited the county buildings and today will question some 16 witnesses.

The grand jury, which was charged yesterday morning by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris, is expected to wind up deliberations today. Yesterday morning the 19 men and four women jurors questioned five witnesses and then took a tour of the buildings and worked on their report.

Judge Harris told the jurors that "you should be free from prejudices — a grand jury whose members have preconceived notions or complexes or a mass of ideas highly charged with emotions, can become a public nuisance."

Barton Foreman

Harry J. Barton, of Pinto, a dairy farmer and general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, is foreman of the grand jury. There are no major crimes awaiting the jurors deliberation, according to State's Attorney James S. Getty.

Judge Harris also suggested that the grand jury call before it J. William Hunt, who was selected as chairman of a committee to consider the construction of some worthwhile memorial to George Washington on the Court House lawn, to determine what progress has been made.

The committee was selected as the result of Judge Harris' recommendation during the January grand jury term. At that time, the jurist cited the close association of Washington in Cumberland when it was a fort and also the place where the first President assumed command of the British troops following the death of Gen. Braddock.

Duties Listed

The charge to the grand jurors also contained the following:

"Upon you, as grand jurors, devolves the important duty of inquiring into the peace of this county, and the proper performance of that duty has much to do with the peace, good order, and security of the citizens of this county.

"I might tell you that a grand jury has been defined as 'a body of men and women selected and summoned according to law to serve before a competent court and by such court impaneled, sworn, and charged to inquire in regard to crimes committed within its jurisdiction, and to present all offenders against the law in the mode and manner defined by it. A grand jury is an informing and accusing body, rather than a judicial tribunal.'

"The Court of Appeals of Maryland speaking of the grand jury has said: 'To them is committed the preservation of the peace of the county, the care of bringing to light for examination, trial, and punishment, all violence, outrage, indecency, and terror; everything that may occasion danger, disturbance, or dismay to the citizens. They are watchmen stationed by the laws to survey the conduct of their fellow citizens, and inquire where and by whom public authority has been violated, or the laws infringed."

Youths Held For Theft Of Auto Mirrors, Lights

Four Cumberland youths who police say admitted a series of thefts of accessories from parked automobiles will be tried this afternoon in Trial Magistrates Court on charges of petit larceny.

Arrested about 10:15 p. m. Sunday by Officers Clarence Valentine, Harold Gibson and William Norris, the four youths cleared a number of complaints which police have received since March 14. The officers recovered part of the accessories in the trunk of an automobile in which the youths were riding when picked up on Baltimore Street.

Being held in City Jail pending their hearing today at 2 p. m. are Lester A. Blackburn, 20, and Larry Wolfe, 19, both of Piedmont Avenue, extended, and Roger Hartman, 19, and Homer DeVault, 18, who reside at 310 Waverly Terrace.

Police said the four are implicated in the thefts of seven or eight rear view mirrors and two tail lights taken from automobiles parked on Cumberland streets during the past three weeks.

Among the complaints apparently cleared up are Harry Davis, 24 North Waverly Terrace, who reported two tail lights taken from his car; J. P. Keegan, 411 Furnace Street, a $5 mirror; Francis A. Kenney, 802 Trost Avenue, a $5 mirror; William Craze, 612 Holland Street, a $10 mirror; Theodore Clark, 520 Columbia Avenue, a $5 mirror, all reported missing on March 14.

Others include John Andrews, 310 Franklin Street, a $7.45 mirror; J. C. Yutzy, 319 Pulaski Street, a $5 mirror; and Harry Tracey, 1305 Halland Street, a side view mirror valued at $5.65. These were reported stolen from parked vehicles over the past weekend.

The arresting officers said seven automobile mirrors were recovered from the car on which the stolen tail lights also had been affixed.

Police, investigating a minor accident Sunday, spotted the four youths acting suspiciously in their car, noting the automobile's license number. The four boys were picked up downtown a few minutes later and yesterday admitted to detectives their part in the thefts, police stated.

Strikebound Paper Mill Is Closed

Temporary Order Gets Extension

MECHANICVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co. said tonight it has closed its strikebound mill here "since it is impractical to operate in a climate of lawlessness."

The announcement followed by a few hours a State Supreme Court order extending indefinitely a temporary injunction that has prohibited picketing at the plant since March 27. Decision was reserved on a company request for a permanent injunction.

About 940 members of the United Papermakers and Paperworkers Union struck Jan. 20 in a dispute over several clauses of a proposed new contract. Pickets and non-strikers clashed March 20 and 26, during a week when salaried employes were operating the paper-making machines. The limited production was halted March 27.

May Start Up

Plant Manager George N. Hoover, who announced the closing, said in a statement: "With an injunction that insures law and order, we may start up again when we are persuaded by our employes that they want to work."

A company spokesman said about 240 salaries workers have been continued on the payroll during the strike.

Asked if Hoover's announcement meant these employes would be laid off, a company spokesman said that was not known yet. He said they presumably would be available for transfer to other Westvaco plants.

The spokesman said the complete shutdown was effective at 5 p. m. and only watchmen remained on duty at the plant which the company says is valued at 10 million dollars.

Fires 22 Strikers

A special panel of the State Mediation Board tried unsuccessfully last week to settle the strike.

Last Friday the company fired 22 strikers it said had participated in violence, suspended four others and issued warnings to 11. The union immediately announced it would not end the strike until these men were reinstated.

Hoover said tonight the company's contract offer to the union had been withdrawn but "the company stands ready to negotiate a new contract with the union at any time."

The company and union had agreed on wages.

Pension Study Suggested By Delegate Conlon

States Two Courses Of Possible Action

Del. Thomas F. Conlon Jr., yesterday told teachers that many citizens feel that so long as the State of Maryland will not fully correct the teacher annuity deficiency problem "we are faced with two courses of action."

He listed the plans, which would work together, as:

1. "Use all . . . persuasive power to get the State to re-examine the whole problem of teacher annuity and cost of living disparity, including a study of the variable annuity principle of the New York State College Retirement Fund."

2. "Realizing that the first course may be futile and lengthy of accomplishment, face up to the fact that we need a third type of pension system for teachers.

Suggests Study

This will include getting started at once on a study of how to best operate the system in closer cooperation with existing state and federal pension pensions, and in a manner fair to all concerned."

He said that if the subject is approached objectively, with good advice from professional pension people, and a policy adopted on what can and should be done for retired teachers on the county level, a worthwhile goal can be reached.

The above suggestions were included in a letter to teachers.

He assured teachers he voted for Senate Bill 58 because it tackled the problem "though it contained serious imperfections which I'm sure can be corrected by calm and businesslike study in months to come, before the problems it creates can raise any doubt in the public mind as to future disparity."

Del. Conlon said last night he will suggest that a study group be appointed by the County Commissioners to study the entire problem.

Wants Expert Advice

He suggested that the study group includes pension experts and businessmen who could sit down with the County Commissioners and Board of Education and work out a satisfactory pension program.

Two bills were enacted during the recent Assembly. One by Sen. See would provide $480 a month supplementary pension for teachers who retire after this July and Del. Conlon's House bill which would add $25 to the monthly pensions of retired teachers.

Two Patuxent Inmates To Get Hearings Here

A local man and a Frostburg man who received prison sentences in Allegany County Circuit Court will be brought here Friday to determine if they are defective delinquents.

One of the men is Wilfred C. Simmons, who was sentenced last year to five years in the House of Correction for slashing and torturing a 51-year-old local woman.

The other man, Albert Cole, 39, was sentenced to three years in the Maryland Penitentiary in the assault of a Frostburg woman on May 24, 1957 near Miners Hospital.

Both men have been confined at the Patuxent Institution and will appear here Friday afternoon before Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Circuit Court.

On March 19, 1958, Simmons was given the five-year sentence by Judge Harris, who stipulated that testimony in the case, a psychiatrist's report and pictures of the woman be sent to the superintendent of the prison who was to determine if the defendant should be sent to the institution for treatment.

Victim of the slashing and torturing was Mrs. Helen Steiner, of Baltimore Avenue, who was assaulted in the basement of the residence of Simmons' aunt on Marion Street.

Cole was given a three-year term by Judge Harris at a hearing on September 30, 1957. At the trial in 1957 it was brought out that Cole had spent 17 years of his life in prison.

Cole's court-appointed attorney at his trial, Estel C. Kelley, asked the court if Cole could be given an examination at the penitentiary to determine if treatment at the Patuxent Institution would be helpful in his case.

Man Sentenced, Fined In Assault

Wesley J. Kipe, 40, of RFD 4, Oldtown Road, was sentenced to 30 days in the County Jail and fined $100 following a hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on an assault charge.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick found Kipe guilty of assaulting Eugene Rankin, 28, of 1015 Virginia Avenue. Magistrate Dick also ordered Kipe to jail for 30 days in default of the fine.

Rankin was assaulted by Kipe in front of the County Building on Union Street where he was going to get a warrant sworn out against Kipe for disturbing the peace, according to testimony.

Today's Understanding Might Have Averted U.S.-Japan War

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Could the leaders of the United States and Japan have avoided war in 1941 if they had understood fundamental pressures in the lives of the two nations as well as they do today?

President Eisenhower made an appeal Saturday for the development of men with such understanding generally. As an example of the type of understanding needed, he cited the economic relationship between Japan and Southeast Asia.

First, he described the need of South Viet Nam for economic development. He said such development, enabling the new country to stabilize the lives of its own people as well as its defense against the Communists to the north, as important to the national security of the United States.

Then he said that a healthy Japan also is vital from this standpoint and cited Viet Nam's possession of raw materials which could be used in promoting Japan's need for sale of manufactured goods.

He tied it all to the general welfare of the free world.

Twenty years ago Japan had the same idea when it sought to establish what it called a Southeast Asia Co-Prosperity Sphere. The trouble was that Japan's leaders of the time, militarists, saw only one way of accomplishment.

The United States and other countries with vested interests in the area, such as Britain and France, instead of suggesting an endless chain of economic arrangements, saw only one way of preventing Japanese military expansion. They applied economic boycott instead of economic cooperation.

Japan, having acquired Manchuria, Korea, and other Far Eastern possessions over previous years when the United States was unable to awaken the European powers to the need of resistance, moved into what was then French Indochina.

When Tokyo showed signs of extending this movement into all Southeast Asia, the Western countries, led by the United States, got their backs up. Japan, hoping Germany and Italy would keep the world preoccupied in Europe, joined the Axis.

War came between nations which had formerly cooperated.

The Japanese jingoists had taken advantage of a fundamental economic situation, just as Adolf Hitler had taken advantage of a Germany bereft of its economic place in the sun by the Treaty of Versailles.

Now the wheel has made full turn, and the United States is advocating that Southeast Asia be made, with economic help from the West, a good customer for Japan as well as the rest of the world.

In Europe, in America, in the Commonwealth which used to be called British, the idea of establishing mutual economic cooperation instead of promoting as many economic monopolies as possible has been spreading.

Specialized Workers Take Part In Cancer Check

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. (UPI)—More than 70,000 specialized workers, including cooks, are being checked over to see if their jobs make them particularly susceptible to lung cancer.

In addition to cooks, the other workers are steam-fitters and all others who work with asbestos, welders, painters, lead, zinc and copper miners, workers in the engine rooms of ships, and operators of overhead conveyers of molten metals.

The science of epidemiology has a good basis for the suspicion that they are, and the present check-over is designed to confirm the suspicion. It was revealed to science writers attending a seminar on cancer research sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Lester Breslow, epidemiologist of the California State Department of Health, said he had questioned more than 70,000 workers in those fields by mail about their health status, especially in relation to cancer, and was now tabulating the answers statistically.

Significance Explained

The study is scientifically significant because whereas epidemiology believes it has proved that cigaret smoking is a major cause of lung cancer, cigaret smoking is not enough to account for the marked increase in the incidence of that disease over the past 40-odd years.

This caused scientific investigators to seek out occupational hazards which might account for "the substantial minority" of lung cancer cases caused by something else," Breslow continued. So lung cancer patients in 13 California hospitals were tabulated by life-long occupations. These were compared to the occupations of an equal number of patients hospitalized for diseases other than cancer. Among the lung cancer cases were 14 welders, but only two welders were among the controls. The other proportions were: cooks 35 and 21; molten metals conveyors five and one; steam-fitters 10 and 1; painters 22 and 12; lead zinc and copper miners nine and three; marine engine room workers 12 and 6.

Emphasize Agreement

Breslow and other epidemiologists on the panel of experts which briefed the science writers emphasized their unanimous agreement that cigaret smoking was a prime cause of lung cancer, but, in their opinion, certain occupational hazards could have a "booster" effect in smokers and affect non-smokers.

They also emphasized that only a relatively small number of the workers in these occupations would be affected as, they added, is the case among cigaret smokers.

Congress Mustered 1st Quorum 170 Years Ago

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — This probably is the most anniversary-conscious town in the world.

Scarcely a day passes that we aren't remembering somebody's birthday, the founding of some college, the happy fact that this is New York Egg Month. ("The laying hen," Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R) of Rochester, N.H., has told the Senate, "has become an efficient factory.")

Yet here we are, on what should be one of the most memorable days, and all we get is silence, double dipped.

For 170 years ago Tuesday Congress finally mustered its first quorum, and settled down for an eventful, delightful history.

Congress isn't in session — its Easter recess lasts until Wednesday—but even if it were here, the day probably would go unnoticed. We celebrate March 4, 1789, as the birth of Congress, even though there's not much reason for it.

Only eight of 26 senators and but 13 of 65 representatives even bothered to show up. It took five weeks of dreary waiting before enough statesman could be rounded up for a quorum.

Curiously, Congress had detractors before it could so much as whip up a filibuster.

Old Sam Adams dryly observed:

"Few men are contended with less power than they have a right to exercise. The ambition of the human heart grasps at more."

James Madison, who was to be one of the Congress' finest members, took a dim view of his colleagues.

Few congressmen, he said, could be counted on to do their share "in the drudgery of business."

Well, Congress met, and soon was hot at it. . . disputes over tariffs . . . jealousies between sections . . . threats to pull out of the Union.

The French minister looked over this strange, new government and sent home a report that sounds as timely now as it did 170 years ago.

"One of the great vices in the exercise of power by Congress," he said, "comes from the local spirit disclosed by the majority of the members and which they must follow if they would conserve their popularity in the district which appointed them."

Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen (R) of Pekin, Ill., has been dredging the history of that first Congress. He's impressed with how business has increased.

Only 268 bills were introduced then. The last Congress had 20,706.

The first Congress passed 118 laws; the 85th figured we needed 1,720 new ones.

George Washington and his helpers sent only 72 communications to Congress. Eisenhower & Company sent 2,268.

Incidentally, Adams presided over the early Senate — and reached this conclusion:

"I am wearied to death of the life I lead. The business of Congress is tedious beyond expression . . . business is drawn and spun out to an immeasurable length."

It still is.

Middle East Economy To Be Presented In Talk

A banquet and program only will be sponsored by the Frostburg-Georges Creek Branch AAUW, International Relations group, and the International Relations Club of Frostburg State Teachers College, April 18.

For several years a community banquet featuring a speaker on an international topic, has been presented by the AAUW International Relations Study Group or the International Relations Club of the college.

Sometimes it has been a two-day or one-day conference staged by the college club, sometimes a banquet conference only, sponsored by one or the other group. For variety the two groups decided to plan it together, and as usual open it to other organizations and all interested men and women in the community, Cumberland, LaVale, Georges Creek and the college.

The Middle East, especially economic policy in the Middle East, has been chosen as a crucial topic to explore this year. Variety in the kind of speakers as well as topics has been continually sought by both groups, having recently sponsored speakers from the United States State Department, National Education Association, Washington, and New England division of the Foreign Policy Association.

This year the plannnig group decided to ask someone from the Middle East to explain how he sees this problem of economic policy in his own area. The college delegation that represented Lebanon at the February model United Nations meeting in Montreal had a chance to explore and use the Arab aspect and interests in that area, particularly since items on the model United Nations agenda were resolutions dealing with the Middle East, as the regular proceedings supplemented by the usual lobbying participants behind the scenes and several top flight speeches and panels, by Arab, Israeli, Canadian and United Nations non-student specialists, Dr. Hazel G. Ramsay, advisor of the college group and chairman of the AAUW group, said last night.

This banquet program is scheduled to explore an Israeli angle of this controversial topic. Anyone unable to attend the banquet may come at 7:45 for the program. The banquet will be at 7 in Frost Hall dining room at the college.

Anyone wanting a ticket should secure it within the next three days. They may be obtained through any member of either sponsoring group. Special tickets also are available to resident college students. Tickets may be obtained from Dr. Ramsay or Dr. Howard Lewis Briggs, co-advisors of the college International Relations Club; or the joint committee of arrangements, which includes Miss Gertrude Williams, Miss Esther Katchline, assisted by Miss Bernice Winner, representing the AAUW; William Talbott, junior college, pre-ministerial group, Baltimore, and general chairman to the program planning and arrangement committee; Miss Joanne Newton, Mrs. Orville Swartley, Miss Carolina Agnolutto, of Hillside; Miss Dorothy Strawsburg, Westminster; Miss Patricia Wenner, Brunswick; or Mrs. Robert Herboldsheimer, Cumberland, vice president of the college club, and one of the members of the college delegation to the model UN assembly in Montreal, where the original contact was begun for the program next Saturday.

Hampshire Co. Jurors Indict Several Youths

One Young Man Sentenced To Pen

ROMNEY — The Hampshire County grand jury convened and returned several indictments Monday.

James Orr, 20, of the Three Churches area, was indicted on two charges of grand larceny and four separate counts of petty larceny.

Orr pleaded guilty to the six charges and was sentenced by Judge H. Gus Muntzing from one to ten years in the West Virginia Penitentiary.

The young man was recently released from the Boys Camp at Davis where he served one year for a series of breaking and enterings of cabins in the South Branch area.

A juvenile, Roger Barnes, 18, also of the Three Churches area, was indicted on the same six counts as Orr.

Judge Muntzing asked the grand jurors to consider Barnes as an adult and not to indict him as a juvenile.

Barnes entered pleas of guilty to the six charges and Judge Muntzing ordered him released until July when he will pass sentence.

Hetzel E. Lewis, 36, of Levels, W. Va., was indicted on two counts of forgery, one count involving a bad check of $300 and another bad check of $25.

He pleaded guilty to both charges and was sentenced from two to 10 years in the West Virginia Penitentiary on each charge. Judge Muntzing noted that the sentences are to be served concurrently.

Emory Davis, 46, of Hoy, W. Va., was indicted on three separate morals counts involving minor girls. Judge Muntzing ordered the case continued until Thursday.

Four juveniles of the Augusta, W. Va., area were placed on parole until July on charges resulting from destruction of an abandoned house.

State Trapper Talks To Club At Frostburg

Outlines Duties To Rotarians

FROSTBURG — James Beal, Finzel, state trapper for the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, was speaker at last nights meeting of the Frostburg Rotary Club held in the Sunday School room of the Zion United Church of Christ. Howard F. Ward was program chairman for the evening and introduced the speaker.

The program was in the form of a question and answer session between Beal and Ward with the questions concerning duties of a state trapper.

In the course of the questioning Beal stated that he has spent most of his life in the woods and with wild life. His job as trapper serves a fourfold purpose: Conservation—in that wild life is given a chance to survive by reducing the predator, or keeping him under control; Economical — in that turkey and chicken raisers lose hundreds of fowl in areas where predators are in abundance. When the predator is controlled farmers losses go down. Health—in that rabid animals are kept under control thus keeping rabies from spreading or human life being endangered. Finally, Game Control—in that Nature's balance has been upset by man and as a result man must maintain an artificial balance by destroying the predatory animals who multiply much faster than game animals.

Beal also demonstrated how trapping "sets" were made and materials used.

Earle Bisher the "On To Bedford" chairman announced that reservations should be made immediately for the 735th District Conference of Rotary International which will be held April 26 and 27 at Bedford Springs Hotel. Appearing on the program will be Theodore Distler, executive secretary of the Association of American Colleges, Washington. His subject will be "Let's Talk Things Over." Dearnley who is representing the International President, Cliff Randall will participate in the first plenary session, Monday at 10:45 a. m.

Leonard Reed, president of the Foundation for Economic Education, Irvington-on-Hudson, New York is scheduled for Monday evening. Bisher Stated that all Rotarians are urged to be present with their Rotary Anns as a program has been arranged for the ladies.

Safe Cracked In Store At Petersburg

Police Report $600 Stolen

PETERSBURG—Another safecracking was pulled off in the area, and authorities are still without a solid lead.

West Virginia State Police here reported that a safe in the Southern States Store in Petersburg was "tapped" sometime Friday night.

Authorities in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania have been faced with several safecrackings in the past several months. More than $1,000 was taken from the Pepsi Cola plant on Chase Street, Cumberland, and a small amount was taken from a safe in Ridgeley High School.

Other "safe jobs" have been reported in Hyndman, Pa., Oakland, Kingwood and the Romney area.

Cpl. C. H. Phillips and Trooper John Leeson of Petersburg are investigating the case here.

Cpl. Phillips said whoever cracked the Petersburg safe must have spent some time in the building. They entered by a back door and took more than $600 in cash from the safe.

Police said before entering the building the intruders broke into the South Side Garage across the street from the Southern States Store and stole two tanks of oxygen and a torch.

The thieves cut a hole in the center of the safe and used a wire to "fish" out the money. Although $600 was "fished" out, a large amount of money was overlooked by the thieves.

Cpl. Phillips said the thieves used a regular welding head on the torch instead of a cutting head, and must have spent considerable time in cutting through the two inches of steel. The safe was still warm when the case was discovered Saturday morning.

42 Building Permits Issued During March

Building activity in Allegany County snapped out of the winter doldrums with a bounce in March as 42 building permits for construction estimated by the builders to cost a total of $242,750 were issued by the county assessing department

In January there had been only five permits for $18,100 and in February five for $45,500.

However, last month's pace could not match March 1958 in the total cost of construction which reached $303,475. That was for 41 permits, one fewer than this March.

Of the 42 permits obtained last month, 25 were for new dwellings, eight for garages, four for additions to dwellings, one for a dwelling and garage, one addition to a garage, one shed, one TV translator and one church recreation room.

The 20 March permits authorized work in 20 of the county's 35 election districts. All are outside the corporate limits of the seven incorporated cities and towns of Allegany County.

Election District 29 at LaVale was the March leader with nine permits. Next came Districts 11, Frostburg surburban, and 20, Ellerslie-Corriganville. Three permits were obtained for construction in District 7, embracing the Cresaptown-Rawlings sector.

Six districts were coupled together with two permits each. They were Districts 8, Westernport surburban; 16, North Branch; 22 and 23, both East Side suburban; 26, Frostburg suburban, and 31, McCoole. Single permits were obtained in Districts 3, Flintstone; 6, West Side suburban; 9, Barton; 12, Frostburg suburban; 17, Vale Summit; 18, Midland; 19, Shaft; 21, Gross; 24, Eckhart, and 27, Gilmore.

Meetings Scheduled By City Officials

The Mayor and Council will meet tomorrow at 11 a. m. to discuss a proposed agenda for a future meeting with the State Roads Commission. Mayor Keech said no date has been set for the meeting with the SRC.

At 2 p. m. tomorrow, the survey team of the National Board of Fire Underwriters has asked for a meeting with council to discuss the fire protection check it is conducting here.

Grand Jury Urges

that law enforcement throughout the county is adequate.

Observing that April has been set aside for the "Keep Maryland Clean" program, the grand jury recommends that a stricter enforcement be made regarding throwing litter along the highways and dumping of garbage and refuse, including bottles and cans, throughout the county.

In accordance with another recommendation of the January grand jury that a memorial to George Washington be erected on the Court House property, the grand jury invited J. William Hunt, chairman of the executive committee of the memorial project, to appear and relate progress made. Mr. Hunt exhibited two sketches drawn by George Conlon depicting General Washington. Mr. Hunt told the grand jurors that the committee is exploring the financing and completion of this project.

The April grand jury advocates that the next grand jury, in October, again request a report on the status of this proposal.

Last paragraph of the report expresses appreciation to State's Attorney James S. Getty, County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya, Mr. Barton, as grand jury foreman, and Mrs. Leo Shipley, the grand jury secretary, who actually typed the report.

There were three other recommendations concerning the Court House property. One is that abrasive strips be placed on each step of the stairway from the second to the third floor and that wax be removed from the stairs to make them less hazardous. The second recommendation is that the connecting passage between the secretary's office and the county farm agent's office on the third floor be repaired by lengthening the ramp between the two offices.

The grand jury also urges installation of fluorescent lighting fixtures on the second floor hallway at the Court House to provide adequate lighting in the area.

The grand jury commended Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grim, for the excellent condition of the County Home and County Infirmary, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Messmer for the excellent condition and maintenance of Sylvan Retreat.

The report notes that the books of the county treasurer have been examined and were found to be in satisfactory condition, although the examination is admittedly superficial and does not permit complete examination of the bookkeeping practices used.

Dinner Club Planning Two More Programs

Speakers for two April programs of the Cumberland National Dinner Club have been announced by Douglas Smith, president of the group.

Harry I. Stegmaier, local attorney, will talk on "Western Maryland History in Review," at the April 14 dinner meeting at Central YMCA, and Philip Cummings, international traveler, will address the club on "Glamour Spots of the World" on Thursday, April 30.

"It is hoped that we can plan one more program before the end of May," Mr. Smith stated. "This will conclude the 12th season of the Cumberland National Dinner Club and will depend on the response to the two April programs."

Among the speakers who have already addressed the Dinner clubbers this season are Fred Roner, international pickpocket; Lucie Palmer, deep sea diver; Tom Sims, cartoonist; and Bob Ringer, humorist.

Reservations for the next two events are available at Central YMCA and can be obtained by contacting the club's secretary-treasurer, B. U. Smith.

LaSalle Seeks Top Orators

The top orator of the freshman and sophomore classes this year at LaSalle High School will be selected on Thursday afternoon during an assembly program which will begin at 1:45.

Brother G. Paulian FSC, principal, said yesterday that the junior and senior finalists will be chosen at an assembly program being planned for Thursday, April 16.

He pointed out that each class selects its top three orators who speak in the finals. One member will be chosen and will receive a medal for his endeavors at the commencement exercises at the end of the school years.

Last year's winners were James Robinette, freshman; Raymond Mewshaw, sophomore; Frank Zorick, junior, and Joseph McDade, senior.

AHS Student Council Bylaws Are Approved

By-laws for the student council of Allegany High School recently drafted by a junior class steering committee have been ratified by the student body at the school.

Under the new organization members of grades 9, 10 and 11 will register both this week and next week to be eligible to vote in the school's primary election the latter part of April and the general election to be held in May.

Officers of the student council and of the sophomore, junior and senior classes for next year will be elected.

Following registration of the students, candidates for the various council and class offices will declare their candidacy. Students running for president and vice president of the council and each class must state their platforms on petitions signed by 30 registered students and four teachers. All candidates are required to submit petitions properly endorsed.

The new organization of the bylaws is a result of interest expressed by the junior class at the first meeting of the class in its sophomore year.

Miss Orpha-Bonita Pritchard is adviser to the junior class and has acted as adviser to the student council's steering committee. She will serve as adviser to the student council also.

Two Major League Opening Games Scheduled Tomorrow

Redlegs Host Bucs, Orioles Face Senators

Ramos To Oppose Harshman; Purkey, Kline Selected

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The big leagues are switching the script for this year's openers. The clubs will be in the same cities but the players will be in new towns.

Only about 50 per cent of last year's starters will be manning the same battle stations when the baseball season gets under way with two special openers Thursday and a seven-game schedule on Friday.

Many Are Traded

That doesn't mean that half the players have decided to stay home and play the market. Most of them merely shifted uniforms during the off season trading spree.

The closest thing to standpat lineups will be offered by the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox, who did no swapping.

Once again the Yankees and Milwaukee Braves are favored. Casey Stengel will tie John McGraw's feat of winning 10 pennants if he gets New York home first again.

The Braves are expected to have trouble, with San Francisco and Pittsburgh as the most respected threats.

Here is the two - day opening schedule that is expected to attract about 267,000 fans, par for the course.

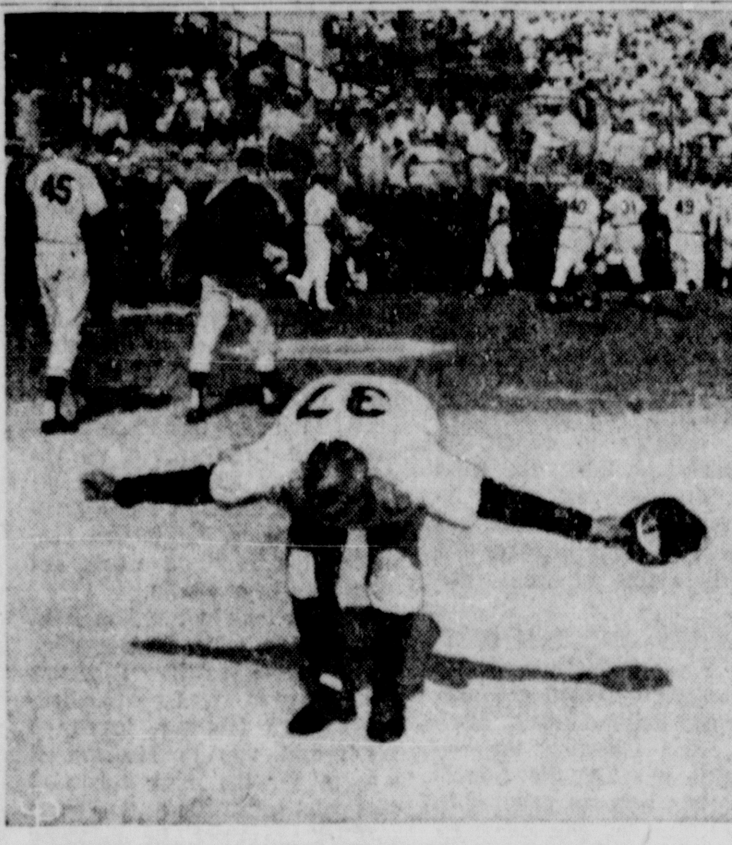
Thursday — American League: Baltimore at Washington. National League: Pittsburgh at Cincinnati

Friday—American League: Boston at New York, Chicago at Detroit, Cleveland at Kansas City. National League: Cincinnati at Philadelphia (night), San Francisco at St. Louis (night), Los Angeles at Chicago, Milwaukee at Pittsburgh.

Ramos Faces Harshman

President Eisenhower's golfing vacation leaves Vice President Nixon with the job of getting the season started at Washington. Pedro Ramos, the rubber armed Cuban, is expected to be the Senators' pitcher against Baltimore's Jack Harshman.

In the National League, the revamped Reds plan to send Bob Purkey against the Pirates Ronnie Kline.



SO LONG AND FAREWELL—That old showman of baseball, Casey Stengel, bows before the crowd in Al Lang Field, St. Petersburg, Fla., as the Yankees depart from the field after their last training camp game of the 1959 season.

Lions Drop Baseball — Deaf Mute New Ump

A Left-Hand Rifle — Golf Balls In News

By C. V. BURNS

WEST VIRINGIA School for the Deaf of Romney is not fielding a baseball team this season, according to Eldon Shipman, principal.

The response to track and field has been so great there were not enough players available for baseball.

This is the first time in many years that the Lions, a member of the Potomac Valley Conference, will not be represented on the diamond.

William Swaim, who has served as assistant basketball and football coach, is directing the West Virginia School's thinclads who already have engaged in two meets and have seven more on their schedule.

The Lions oppose the Maryland School for the Deaf of Frederick in a dual meet Saturday at 1:30 in Romney.

SOMETHING NEW has been added by the Tri-State Umpires Association for the 1959 season. Charley Schultz, well known local deaf mute, who has been a popular figure in local baseball and softball circles in recent years, has become a member of the association and will make his debut as an arbiter.

Schultz is believed to be the first mute ever to become an umpire in Cumberland.

Among the other newcomers slated to receive their baptism of fire this season are John "Joker" Boyle, sparring partner of Howard "Farmer" Northcraft in the Times-News stereotyping department, and Dorcil Kline, Frostburg State College athlete, and one of Earl Nonnenmann's clerks at the Sports Shoppe.

THE FIRST left-hand rifle ever offered southpaw hunters has been introduced by the Savage Arms Corporation.

A combination varmint and big game rifle, it is made in .243, .270, 308 and .30/06 calibers.

Like the mythical left-handed monkey wrench, left-handed hunting rifles never before have been made by any major arms producer. Some custom gunsmiths, however, have catered to the market by converting standard rifles to left-hand operation. Because the conversion is a difficult one, custom jobs are very costly and require the additional expense of restocking.

COACH Bill Maletzky's South High thinclads of Hagerstown, who are scheduled to engage Fort Hill and Martinsburg in a triangular meet here Friday, lost their opener to Frederick High School the past weekend by the score of 68-55.

DELVIN G. MILLER, of Meadow Lands, Pa., who is well known here and in nearby Pennsylvania, ranked fifth nationally among the leading money winning harness drivers in 1958, according to the Trotting and Pacing Guide.

Del earned purses totaling $352,194.

The leader was Bill Haughton, Glen Head, N. Y., with $816,659.

Miller was fourth in 1957 with $391,185.

Miller won seven stake races ranging from $11,450 to $28,700 during the year. Adios Day, owned by Hugh Grant, Bradford, Pa., won four of the events and led the 2-year-old pacers for 1958 with $104,842.

Del scored with Dottie's Pick at Arcadia, Calif., Meadow Maid, his own 2-year-old pacer at Lexington, Ky., and Thorpe Hanover at Springfield, Ill.

Meadow Maid's earnings hit $27,226, Thorpe Hanover, owned by Grant, $70,038, and Dottie's Pick, Canadian-owned, $35,066.

MARK DOWN these dates for 1959:

May 16-17: Annual Sports Car Races at Cumberland Municipal Airport.

June 25-26: Women's Annual Invitational 36-hole Golf Tournament for Old Export Bowl at Cumberland Country Club.

August 17-22: The Cumberland Fair.

Sept. 14-26: Cumberland Fair Association's 12-day racing meet.

SHEPHERD College got off to a good start the past weekend by beating Ashland (Ohio) College's tossers by the score of 12-6 behind the southpaw twirling of Bill Isherwood.

THE DISTANCE DOT, a new golf ball produced by Spalding, is supposed to travel 10 to 15 yards further on the fly than any golf ball yet made, while conforming to U.S.G.A. specifications.

Twenty-five dozen of the new Dots are being offered to the 25 sports writers or broadcasters who can closest predict the aggregate distance that six Spalding consultants — Gene Littler, Jay Hebert, Paul Harney, Don January, Al Balding and Don Fairfield—will drive the new Distance Dot at Houston, Texas, April 14, two days before the Houston Open.

Each will be permitted one fairway drive from the tee. Distance will be estimated at the end of the roll.

Those who enter the guessing contest are to estimate the total yardage of the six drives.

A SCHEME to accumulate golf balls instead of money is the latest thing in "chain letters."

The recipient is advised to mail one golf ball to the top name on a list and to distribute ten copies of the letter to as many more "honest golfers" — and "within a week, you will receive 100 new golf balls."

You might also receive a sentence of five years in jail and/or a fine of $1,000.

The golf-ball chain letter is a fraudulent method of stimulating golf-ball sales, according to Post Office Department opinion, and it allegedly violates Chapter 63, Section 1341 of U. S. Code 18.

LEO SKIDMORE, of Franklin, Pendleton County, W. Va., who pitched for the Cumberland Colts back in the 1920s, was a teammate of the newly elected Hall of Famer Zach Wheat at Minneapolis in 1928.

Skidmore had a 3-0 pitching record with Mike Kelly's Millers of the American Association that season.

Zach earned a place in the Hall of Fame for his achievements with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

THE FROSTBURG Boys Club, composed of Winfield, Bahen, Whitmore, Mann, Kamauff, Parker and Flynn, was knocked out of the Altoona YMCA Junior Golf Medal Tournament the other night by Clarke's Heating quint, 55-39.

Shufflers To Meet

A special meeting of players of the 17 teams in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League will be held Friday at 8 p. m. at the home of Tonkaway Tribe, Improved Order of Redmen.

Cleveland Edges San Francisco, 3-2

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Pitcher Jim Bolger singled in the winning run to climax a Cleveland Indians ninth inning rally that stopped the San Francisco Giants, 3-2, in an exhibition game Tuesday.

Bolger's single drove in catcher Dick Brown, who had tied the game with a two-run double to provide a rousing finish for the only major league game to be played here this year.

A crowd of 3,683 watched the Giants score in the fourth on a run-producing single by Orlando Cepeda and in the seventh on a home run by Bob Schmidt.

However, the revamped Indians jumped on bonus baby Mine McCormick for three runs in the top of the ninth. Brown's '40-foot drive off the right field fence scored Billy Martin and Woody Held to set up Bolger's heroics.

Cleveland 000 000 003—3 8 1

Celtics Cop 3rd

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) —The Boston Celtics moved to within one victory of their second pro-basketball championship in three years by whipping the Minneapolis Lakers 123-110 in the third game of the best of seven NBA championship series here Tuesday night.

Navy Tossers Win

ANNAPOLIS, (AP) — Jerry Hill, a junior righthander, missed a shutout by one putout Tuesday as he pitched Navy to a 4-1 baseball victory over Bucknell.

Hill allowed only five hits and three walks while striking out nine. Bucknell's lone run came with two out in the ninth inning on a walk and singles by Steve Flamhaft and Jack Hackett.

Tigers Farm Pair

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) —The Detroit Tigers farmed out pitcher Don Lee and outfielder-first baseman Earl Hersh Tuesday to get down to the 28-player limit for the opening of the 1959 season.

Lee, a 25-year-old right-hander who had a 14-7 record for Charleston of the American Association last season, and Hersh, drafted from the Milwaukee Braves' farm system after batting .237 with 98 RBI's at Wichita, were sent to Tigertown to await reassignment.

Hockey League Referee Quits

Storey Under Fire In Saturday Game

BOSTON (UPI) — Veteran National Hockey League Referee Roy (Red) Storey resigned Tuesday, apparently under fire for his handling of Saturday night's Stanley Cup playoff game between Montreal and Chicago.

Storey announced the resignation, effective immediately, to Boston sportswriters. He had been due to work Tuesday night's seventh and deciding Stanley Cup game between the Bruins and the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Referee-in-chief Carl Voss, also here, said Storey offered no explanation for the resignation but added that "the whole thing arose from the game Saturday."

Storey was attacked on the ice by a Chicago fan after making a disputed call. A near - riot followed.

Montreal won the game 5-4, and the semifinal series, four games to two.

"I don't feel I'm mentally fit to work tonight's game between Boston and Toronto," Storey was quoted as telling sportswriters here. "It wouldn't be honest to either Bruins Coach Milt Schmidt or Maple Leafs Coach Punch Imlach. So I'm going home to my family in Montreal."

Black Hawk Coach Rudy Pilous charged Storey failed to call two penalties against Montreal late in the final period.

Patterson-London Title Fight Set For Indianapolis

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite rumors that another switch was under way, promoter Cecil Rhodes Jr. Tuesday night declared that Indianapolis will be the site of Floyd Patterson's May 1 defense of his world heavyweight boxing title against Brian London.

Rhodes said there are some differences over costs to the television network (NBC) which will beam the bout, but "that will be straightened out."

The bout was moved from Las Vegas in what Rhodes, a young steel executive making his debut as a promoter, termed a shift to escape rumors that gamblers were backing the fight.

Late Tuesday there was a report that the fight would be moved to Louisville and staged on the eve of the Kentucky Derby, May 2.

Rhodes denied another switch after a day-long conference with network officials.

Cubs Beat Bosox In Eleventh, 8-7

VICTORIA, Tex. (UPI) — After Dick Gernert's homer in the 11th inning apparently had won for the Boston Red Sox, the Chicago Cubs stormed back in their half of the inning for two runs and an 8 to 7 victory Tuesday.

Pinch-hitter Al Dark whacked Leo Kiely's second pitch over the left field wall to tie the score. Then Bobby Thomson walked, took second on a single by Tony Taylor and moved around on long fly balls off the bats of Lee Walls and Johnny Goryl.

The Cubs smacked five homers. Earl Averill hit two and Walt Moryn and Dale Long one apiece but four Cubs errors forced the game into extra innings.

Boston 102 200 100 01—7 13 0

Drabowsky, Martin (10) and Neeman; Bowsfield, Kiely (8) and Daley. W-Martin. L-Kiely.

Home runs—Chicago, Averill 2, Moryn, Long, Dark. Boston, Buddin, Gernert.

Billy Klaus Suffers Back Injury In Fall

BALTIMORE (AP- — Infielder Billy Klaus, one of the newcomers expected to open the season for the Baltimore Orioles Thursday, has injured his back in a fall.

Klaus said he slipped on the bathroom floor in a Baltimore hotel Monday night and struck his back against a wash basin.

After he reported he had trouble stooping Tuesday, Klaus was sent to Union Memorial Hospital for x-rays and treatment.

Holmes To Succeed George Stirnweiss

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy Holmes, one-time manager of the Boston Braves, was named director of the New York Journal-American sandlot baseball program Tuesday. He succeeds the late George Stirnweiss, who was killed in a train wreck last September.

Capon Bridge Plays At Berkeley Springs

Capon Bridge High School and Berkeley Springs High School are scheduled to meet in a Potomac Valley Conference baseball game today at Berkeley Springs.

It will be the first game of the season for both schools.

The Purple Heart defeated Fisher & Robinette by three points and Peck's Cafe of Frostburg won by 19 points over the Cumberland Eagles as the final playoffs got under way last night in the American and National Divisions of the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League.

In the National match at the Purple Heart Club, the host team won by the score of 69-66 in the first three games of the six-game series which ends Thursday night at Fisher & Robinette. Bill Laurent paced the victors with 26 points and Fritz Palmer led F. & R. with 21 tallies.

Peck's beat the Eagles, 85-66, in the first three games of their six-game American loop series at Frostburg. The series winds up Thursday at the Eagles Home. Art Hanna of Peck's and Markwood of the Eagles led the scorers with 22 points each.

In the National League series for third place, Sweitzer's Restaurant won the first three games by the margin of 22 points, 74-52. They'll play again Thursday at Sweitzer's Restaurant. Shuey, Rendar and Coakley led Sweitzer's with 15 points each while Fogle topped Hann's with 18.

The first three games of the six-game set between the Cumberland K. of C. and Southern Bar for third place in the American loop is set for tonight at the latter place.

Tomorrow is the last day for members of the league to purchase tickets for their wives or girl friends for the banquet. Tickets may be obtained at Peck's Cafe or the Moose Home or from Art Gellner or Paul Stitcher.

West Virginia Beats Falcons

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —Unbeaten West Virginia University ran its baseball winning streak to seven Tuesday with a comeback 9-7 victory over Fairmont State College.

The Bi-State Sprockets Motorcycle Club in conjunction with the Western Pennsylvania Harley Davidson Motorcycle Dealers Association will sponsor motorcycle races at the Potomac Valley Speedway, Fort Ashby, and a motorcycle hill climbing program on the Kline Farm near the Cumberland Municipal Airport in July, it was announced last night by Jim Raupach, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

A program of nine lightweight races is billed for the Fort Ashby one-third mile oval on the night of Saturday, July 11, at 8 o'clock.

The hill climb, featuring two Class A and two Class B events, is billed for the afternoon of Sunday, July 12.

Simmons To Undergo Operation On Arm

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Southpaw Curt Simmons of the Philadelphia Phillies will be operated on Friday for the removal of a bone chip from the elbow of his pitching arm, the club said Tuesday.

The operation leaves the Phils without a first line left-handed pitcher. It was estimated that even with a successful operation and a good recovery Simmons would be lost for at least half the year.

Pen-Mar To Meet

A meeting of officers and managers of teams in the Pen-Mar Little League will be held Thursda at 7:30 p. m., at the Wilson Hardware Company building, North Mechanic Street. A schedule will be drafted for the 1959 season.

Four Suspended

AKRON, O. (UPI)—Ascot Park stewards Tuesday notified the state Racing Commission of the suspension of trainer E. G. Gallrein, his horses and grooms Ernest Contress, Vant Logan and Clifford Mills because a test on Josie, which won the second race opening day, showed presence of a drug like procaine.

The second race finish was changed and purses in two other races redistributed since Gallrein-trained horses earned money.

TWO TRIPLES SCORED

LINCOLN, R.I. (UPI) — Phil Grimm and Vinnie Spinale each scored a triple Tuesday at Lincoln Downs. Grimm booted home Wanted ($4.00) in the third, Top Dresser ($5.20) in the fifth and Miss Royal ($3.60) in the featured seventh. State Racing Bill Valid

Attorney General Rules On Measure

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The unorthodox procedure used to enact a bill revamping the Maryland Racing Commission was not enough to invalidate the measure, the attorney general said Tuesday.

Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert said the controversial measure, backed by Gov. Tawes but opposed by 11 of the state's 12 horse racing tracks, received the required three readings on separate days in both houses of the Legislature.

Dr. Carl N. Everstine, director of the Department of Legislative Reference and an authority on legislative procedure, agreed with this interpretation.

The State Constitution requires the three readings in the House of Delegates and in the Senate on separate days. This requirement may be waived by two-thirds of the membership so that two or even three readings may take place on the same day, as often happens in the waning days of the Legislature.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — "The comedy element that made 'No Time for Sergeants' such a hit," Mervyn Leroy said, "is what prompted me to buy 'Wake Me When It's Over' from the galley proof."

Mervyn told me this at the Adler party and added that the book will be brought out by Putnam and is by Howard Singer.

I asked him whether he was going to make it for 20th Century-Fox — he goes there for three pictures June 1. He said he would make it for his own company, but whether it goes to 20th or to Warners, with whom he still has additional commitments, hasn't been decided. There's no casting yet.

At the Academy Awards Monday night Maurice Chevalier, who received a special award, was with Sophia Loren and her husband, Carlo Ponti.

The news then came out that he will play opposite Sophia and John Gavin in "Olympia," the Ferenc Molnar play which will be produced by the Ponti-Girosi Co. June 1. That's an international cast—Sophia, Chevalier and Gavin—Italian, French and American.

I am glad that Maurice received a special award—he deserves it!

One appointment Ingrid Bergman will keep in New York is with Sol Siegel, who flew East right after the Academy Awards to talk with her and with Joe Vogel, head of MGM.

At the time he announced he was going to produce "Thank a Fool," he said he wanted Ingrid and now Sol will talk with her and cinch the deal. I don't know why she wouldn't make it—Sol makes very good pictures.

Debbie Reynolds, her mother, and the children paid me a visit. Todd looks exactly like Eddie Fisher. He is a smiling, happy baby and Carrie Frances is a darling and looks like her lovely mother.

Debbie told me she went to the caves in Granada where the Gypsies tell fortunes. One of them told Glenn Ford he would be delayed in sailing—and he was. They told Debbie she would have an accident and that night, she fainted. One thing they told her which, of course, didn't come true was to beware—in Granada she was going to have a baby! "I kept telling them 'No, I'm not married'," laughed Debbie—but the gypsies insisted!

Debbie brought home some paintings but had very little time for shopping for anything else except the children. She told me she definitely is going to accept "The Pleasure of his Company" for Perlberg-Seaton.

Kathryn Grant had just arrived in Michigan when she telephoned me. She said she was afraid the news of her expected baby would get out and because she had denied my original story printed Jan. 20, and she wanted me to know first. "After all," she said, "you had the first story about Harry, Jr."

I asked if Bing was pleased and she said he was very happy. "I want more than one child," she told me. "I will not give up my career, only until after the baby is born, then I expect to make other pictures. I like acting and Bing wants me to continue."

Princess Pacelli, niece of the late Pope Pius XII, who does such an outstanding job for Boys Town of Italy, was guest of honor at a tea given for her by Mrs. Bob Hope. The princess's daughter is traveling with her. She feels Boys Town is a potent weapon against Communism because the homeless boys are trained in the right way of thinking and are given love and care.

Irene Dunne dashed in and out—she had to rehearse for the Academy Awards. Mrs. Sven Lokrantz, Nancy Sinatra, Mrs. Henry Salvatori, Mrs. Josie Wayne, Mrs. Norris Poulson, Mrs. George Skouras and Mrs. John Sharp were among those who greeted the princess. Mrs. Sharp told me she had just heard from Maureen O'Sullivan who asked her to find a house for them, the Farrows are moving back in July.

Answer Alarm

Central Fire Company answered an alarm at 5:28 p. m. Monday, going to 728 North Mechanic Street, where a stove pipe reportedly came loose and the house filled with smoke. Firemen reported no damage.

The bidding:

Opening lead: King of ♣.

A cooperative bit of defense was executed at only one table to defeat a routine game contract featured today from a recent national tournament. There were no reasonable variations in the bidding and the final contract of four hearts was reached at every table.

West opened the king of clubs and declared saw no risk in ducking one round. The suit was continued and taken by the ace. Declarer proceeded to mop up the red suits by playing three rounds of hearts and three rounds of diamonds. A low club put West in and the compulsory lead of a spade established the king of spades for South's 10th trick.

It seemed to most of the contestants that this was a very average result. Yet a marked deviation from the normal took place at one table where the contract was defeated. On the opening club lead East signaled with the ten of clubs. It is conventionally accepted that in signaling from a sequence one parts with the highest card he can afford. So that when a player signals with a jack he presumably lacks the queen and so on down the line. East's play of the ten, of course, announced possession of the nine. After holding the first trick, West continued with the queen and declarer won, but on the second round of trumps West foreseeing the danger of being locked in, unloaded the jack of clubs and declarer could not avoid the loss of three more tricks.

On the lead of the second trump, declarer realized that he had lost his chance to win the hand. He had hoped that hearts would be 2-2.

Had he been able to divine in some mysterious way that West held a singleton trump he would play only one round and after cashing three diamonds would get out with a club. Failure to do so however, can not properly be chargeable as an error.

LaVale Civic Group Elects Directors

Members of the LaVale Civic Improvement Association Monday elected four new directors and returned to office three incumbent directors.

The three new directors are Mrs. David Whitworth, J. Brooke Fradiska, Henry F. Wintermyer and E. F. Mullan Jr. Re-elected directors are Lloyd Buchanan, Dudley M. Browne, and Albert Tosh.

The seven directors renamed Buchanan as chairman, elected Frank S. Tepper as vice chairman and Mrs. Richard Johnson as secretary-treasurer.

L. Hayes Chambers spoke on plans for a membership drive in the near future. Various committee reports were given.

Request Orderly

Earl D. Grim, superintendent of the County Home and Infirmary, wrote the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to name a temporary orderly for the infirmary to handle the work of an orderly who is not working due to illness.

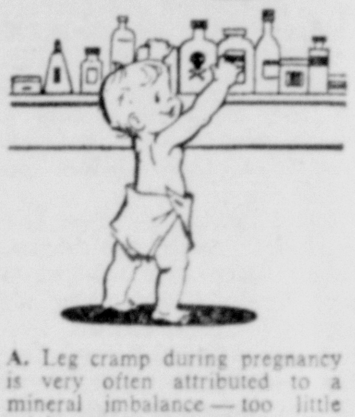
WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

Better Health Through Knowledge

- Turpentine & Toddlers
- Mother's Leg Cramps



Q. As kids, we were given a few drops of turpentine on sugar for coughs. What do you think of this?

A. Years ago this may have been okay but we have better things today. This raises another point. Don't keep turpentine or any would-be harmful material within reach of children. Toddlers are likely to try anything as the following true story from the New York Poison Center shows. Three children were playing in the basement and found a can of turpentine. They put some in glasses. The two older children only pretended to drink it, but the 3-year-old swallowed some. Fortunately, a quick trip to the hospital for emergency treatment prevented permanent injury. The only safe rule is to keep beyond reach anything that youngsters might conceivably eat, nibble, chew or swallow.

Q. I have had three children and during each pregnancy I had severe leg cramps. What causes these pains and how can they be prevented?

A. Leg cramp during pregnancy is very often attributed to a mineral imbalance — too little calcium and too much phosphorus. However, Philadelphia doctors recently cast doubt on this theory. Some expectant mothers under their care developed leg cramp regardless of how much calcium or how little phosphorus they received. According to these physicians, all expectant mothers, cramps or no cramps, should eat foods that supply essential vitamins and minerals in daily amounts recommended by the National Research Council or the Canadian Council on Nutrition. Vitamin-mineral capsules or tablets are used if deemed necessary by the attending physician.

Answers do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician. Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

Knew Where To Look

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police said the knife-wielding bandit who robbed a cut-rate store of $1,174 knew just what he was looking for.

Clerk Louis Braxton said she was alone in the store last night when the short Negro, about 25, walked in and pulled a large pen knife from his pocket. He went to a small cabinet under the cash register and took out some paper money, then emptied the register.

Grand Jury Urges New County Jail

Present Building Unfit For Humans, Report Contends

The April grand jury in Allegany County Circuit Court matched the speed of its January counterpart yesterday by returning on its second day of session a five-page report which recommended that the county commissioners adopt a long-range plan for the construction of a new county jail.

The grand jury is of the opinion that the present facilities in the County Jail are "not suitable or acceptable for human incarceration."

The grand jurors felt that repair to the present structure is a continuing financial burden which can only be eliminated by the construction of a modern and up-to-date unit.

Then, the report requests the county commissioners to take the necessary action to determine the cost and method of financing such a program and report progress to the October grand jury.

Sheriff Commended

Four other specific recommendations in the report concern the jail or the sheriff's office. One commends Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein for the excellent manner in which he is conducting the jail under the "severe handicap of outmoded and inadequate quarters and equipment."

Harry J. Barton, Pinto dairyman, was foreman of the grand jury of 19 men and only four women. The clerks were Walter C. Close and Lynn C. Lashley.

The April grand jury examined 23 witnesses but returned only one indictment.

This report concurs in the recommendation of the January grand jury that the solitary confinement quarters in the County Jail be converted into a "drunk tank" and further recommends that a study be made to determine the project cost.

Another recommendation is that consideration be given to employing one clerk in the sheriff's office to handle all clerical duties and records essential to the efficient operation of the department. The April grand jury also concurs with its January predecessor regarding the installation of radio equipment in vehicles assigned to the sheriff's office.

Office Integration

Another major recommendation is that the county commissioners consider a long range program for the integration of all county offices including the Health Department, Welfare Board and other county agencies including housing facilities, storage and convenience to the public.

"This body is of the opinion that many services are presently being administered without any definite plan and that greater efficiency of operation and better service can be accomplished by a program designed to streamline and coordinate the various agencies of the county," the report adds.

The report observes that in accordance with previous grand jury recommendations, the sheriff's office, the liquor board and the police departments of the various municipalities have maintained and submitted for examination by the grand jury written reports of investigations made. The grand jury is of the opinion

One Indicted By Grand Jury

Andrew Louis Robinson, 48, of 118 South Lee Street, was the only person indicted by the April grand jury in Allegany County Circuit Court, which wound up its activities on its second day yesterday afternoon.

Robinson was named in a three-count burglary indictment which charged that he broke into Geatz's Restaurant, 206 Paca Street, on January 15, and stole $129.56 worth of whisky and a $50 16-gauge shotgun.

At the time of his arrest by city police on January 26, Robinson confided that he has spent 31 of his 48 years in confinement in various penal institutions in Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Robinson was accused of having stolen 11 fifths, 10 quarts and 16 half pints of whisky along with the shotgun from the Geatz establishment. He told police that he hid the whisky under the Washington Street bridge and sold the gun for $5.

The local man has remained in the County Jail since January 27.

Land Purchased For New Army Reserve Center

Sen. Beall Says Work Will Begin Shortly

United States Senator J. Glenn Beall announced yesterday that the federal government has purchased a tract of land on which to establish a U. S. Army Reserve Center for Cumberland.

The site of the new center, Senator Beall said, is at Amcelle and fronts 400 feet on the east side of McMullen Highway.

The center will be built on the 6.11-acre site near the Cresaptown branch of the Second National Bank. The land was secured from the Celanese Corporation of America and adjoins its Amcelle plant.

Senator Beall said work on the center is expected to begin shortly.

The Armed Services Committee of the House of Representatives last month approved a $288,000 appropriation for the Army Reserve training center.

Informed sources said plans call for the construction of a one-unit training center designed for 200 men. This would meet the current needs of the Cumberland area Army Reserve units.

Construction costs have been estimated at about $250,000. The design is reported to be more in the line of a training center than an armory and the building is expected to consist chiefly of classrooms.

31 Register For Voting

During March this year, 31 new elegible voters of Allegany County, 21 Democrats and 10 Republicans, registered at the office of the Board of Election Supervisors in the basement of the Court House.

Irvin J. Neat, chief clerk, said the overall county registration figure as of April 1 was 37,442 including 21,158 Republicans, 16,014 Democrats, 258 who declined to give their party affiliation, 10 Socialists and two other parties.

During the month of March, 24, names of deceased voters were stricken from the registration books. There were 12 Democrats and a similar number of Republicans who died during that period.

Three Republicans requested their names be removed from the registration books. Mr. Neat pointed out that five Republicans changed their party affiliation to Democrat while three Democrats switched to Republicans.

Sixteen persons transferred from one district or precinct to another, said Mr. Neat.

The election board office at the Court House is open for registration from 9 a. m. until noon and from 1 until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a. m until noon on Saturdays.

C&O Canal Mosquito Menace May Be Abated

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday something may be worked out between the City of Cumberland and the National Park Service this spring on the mosquito problem in C&O Canal structures here.

While on an inspection tour yesterday, Mayor Keech and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum conferred with Edwin M. Dale, superintendent of the C & O Canal National Historical Parkway project.

Mosquito control in the canal, Mayor Keech told Mr. Dale, is a serious problem to residents of Roberts, Potomac, Mary, Humbird, Elder and Offutt streets, some of whom live within 75 feet of the abandoned canal.

Further Study Planned

The National Parks official told Mayor Keech he will be here early in May and will then discuss the problem further with the city.

The decision, it was pointed out, will be whether mosquito control in the canal is to be handled by the Park Service, the City of Cumberland or as a joint venture.

Mr. Dale was most cooperative, Mayor Keech said in promising that something will be worked out before the mosquito season begins.

Much of the canal inside the city limits is choked with grass. Some sections are dry, but in others from an inch to several feet of stagnant water remains, forming breeding grounds for mosquitos.

Serious Problem

The mosquito problem in the canal bed has been serious for a number of years. It was alleviated slightly during the flood control work when the old canal basin, opposite the Community Ball Park, was filled in.

The city officials spotted the Park Service official who was with a party making a detailed study of the canal. They decided it was an opportune time to bring up the mosquito problem.

Later, the city officials drove to the Cumberland Municipal Airport, to inspect work on a new maintenance building. The work has progressed but is held up now pending the arrival of trusses for the roof.

1959 Assembly Set Record For Motor Laws

Point System And Drunkometer Pass

By MARTY SUTPHIN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The 1959 General Assembly passed more laws affecting and protecting Maryland motorists than any other Legislature in recent years.

That's the opinion of Del. Edgar P. Silver (D-Balto 5th), chairman of a legislative committee on motor vehicle laws.

Four of the committee's 10 proposals were enacted into law. Included in these are far-reaching acts setting up a point system for license revocation and legalizing chamical tests for intoxication.

Both of these bills had strong backing from Gov. Tawes. Silver gave the governor much credit Tuesday for their enactment, but he was quick to point out that a lot of public education and four years of legislative prodding also helped pave the way.

Psychological Benefits

Silver said the "psychological effect" of the point system and drunk test laws alone should help reduce "one of the highest accident death tolls in the East."

He said the motor vehicle legislation was "among the most important enacted."

The point system law, which won't go into effect until Dec. 31, 1960, levies points for certain violations and provides that pleasure drivers accumulating 12 or more points in a two-year period may lose their licenses. The delay in putting it into effect is to give the Motor Vehicles Department enough time to set up machinery for administering the new law.

The other major safety law, going into effect June 1, provides that police may use chemical tests with a driver's consent to detect drunken driving. The tests would be evidence in court and lessen the chance of a guilty driver going free.

Some Failed

A third bill pushed by the governor would have made the eyesight test stricter for license applicants. This one passed the House but died in the Senate.

Other Silver committee recommendations which bore fruit called for more State Police and a requirement that pedestrians obey all traffic control signals. Forty additional police were provided for in the new budget, and a pedestrian regulation bill was enacted three weeks after its introduction.

One committee suggestion which didn't reach bill form would have given magistrates the power to suspend licenses.

But the lawmakers officially urged the governor to call a conference of magistrates, and there are signs Tawes will urge the assembled judges to crack down harder on violators.

What's next?

Silver said he expects to spend a lot of time this summer checking the operation of point system laws in the District of Columbia and New Jersey.

Silver indicated emphasis next session may be on required driver training in all high schools.

They'll Be Back

Other committee recommendations which failed this year will probably be back. They include bills to replace "gross negligence" with "negligent homicide" in the auto manslaughter law, to require annual inspection of cars and to provide for public hearings before increasing auto insurance rates.

Other traffic safety bills, not among Silver's major recommendations, were enacted into law this session.

They require halted motor vehicles to have lights visible from 300 feet in front and behind, allow the State Roads Commission to set minimum speed limits and increase the penalty for failure to obey the school bus stop law.

Another motor vehicle law revision, not directly affecting traffic safety, relaxes the state's financial responsibility law. It provides that drivers affected must comply for only three years, instead of for life.

Textile Union Approves New Amcelle Pact

4th Vacation Week In 8½-Cent Package

Over half of the workers at the Amcelle plant will get a fourth week of vacation under a two-year contract ratified last night by Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO.

John G. Thomas, president of the Celanese local, said about 1,300 of the some 2,000 hourly-paid workers at the plant will be eligible for the fourth week of vacation provided after 25 years of service.

The fringe issue was included in an 8½-cent contract package which includes a five-cent across-the-board wage increase.

Get 5 Cent Boost

The wage boost will bring average wages at the Amcelle plant to about $2.04 an hour, the union said.

Workers will also get an extra paid holiday, Veterans Day, in the new contract for a total of seven paid holidays.

The pact also includes changes in the seniority clause which will help employes with long service to retain their recall rights to the plant.

Mr. Thomas said the two-year contract can be reopened for wage negotiations at the end of the first year.

The contract package was approved last night at an overflow meeting in the union hall, Mr. Thomas said. Final action will be taken at a ratification meeting scheduled today at 10:30 a. m. in the union hall.

Ralph Cline, Washington, TWUA representative, headed the union negotiating team which included top officers and all department chairmen.

Is Parent Plant

The Amcelle plant is the parent plant of the Celanese Corporation of America.

The corporation began operations at the Amcelle plant here on Christmas in 1924 and has been a major producer of acetate yarn for more than a quarter of a century.

It has also served as a training center for the firm and has furnished many of the top staffers and skilled workers at Celanese plants throughout the world.

The estimated cost of four of the brick dwellings was $20,000 each, seven bore an $18,500 price tag and the other is estimated to cost $17,000.

Five of the new homes will be built on Park Drive, three on Lindaway, two on Roverway, one on Beverlyway and one at the intersection of Richardway and Lindaway. The $20,000 houses are approximately 32 by 62 feet in size, while most of the less expensive buildings are 32 by 48 feet in size.

Three Guilty In Theft Of Auto Parts

Youths Fined $25; Terms Suspended

Three local youths were fined and given suspended jail terms at a hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on petty larceny charges in a series of thefts of accessories from parked automobiles.

The youths, Lester A. Blackburn, 20, and Larry R. Wolfe, 19, both of Piedmont Avenue extended, and Roger A. Hartman, 19, of 310 North Waverly Terrace, were found guilty at a hearing conducted by Magistrate Morris Baron.

Magistrate Baron gave each youth a 30-day sentence in the County Jail and fined each one $25. The jail terms were suspended, but Magistrate Baron placed the youths on probation for one year.

The youths were arrested Sunday by Officers Clarence Valentine, Harold Gibson and William Norris, who also recovered part of the accessories in the trunk of the car in which the youths were riding when picked up on Baltimore Street.

The case cleared up a number of complaints City Police had received during the last month in which mirrors and tail lights were reported stolen from parked cars.

The Blackburn youth also was found guilty of a motor vehicle violation and was given 15 days in jail in default of a $10 fine. Blackburn is from Junction, W. Va., but has been residing here with the Wolfe youth. Magistrate Baron fined Blackburn for operating a vehicle with an out-of-state registration after establishing a permanent residence in Maryland.

LaVale was called out at 6:45 p. m. to check a fire on Gramlich Road.

The company answered the 6 p. m. alarm with one truck and 14 men. Firemen said Mr. Donahue was burning trash and the blaze got out of control.

Police Search For Escapee

A 32-year-old Cumberland man who was captured March 10 here after attempting to batter down the door of a Frederick Street residence, has once again fled from Springfield State Hospital, police reported last night.

John Joseph Moravia, Route 1, escaped from the hospital some time Saturday evening. He is reported to be wearing a brown shirt and grey trousers. He has brown hair and brown eyes.

He also fled from the hospital last February 22 and was caught by city police early Tuesday morning, March 10. Police said the man attempted to break down the door of the residence of Ronald L. Sheally, 819 Frederick Street, identified as a brother-in-law of the missing man.

Police captured Moravia near Bedford Street after a chase through alleyways and back yards at the time.

City To Confer With SRC On Lighting Costs

Annual Expense May Approach $100,000

Officials of the City of Cumberland yesterday made plans to confer with State Roads Commission officials after hearing an estimate it might cost as much as $100,000 a year to light the Cumberland Thruway.

The cost estimate was given yesterday afternoon as representatives of the Mayor and Council met with its Thruway Lighting Advisory Committee and Potomac Edison Company officials.

A city spokesman said he knows of no other instance where a municipality pays for lighting a state facility.

The contract with the SRC, he explained, merely says the city is responsible for lighting. Details are not specified.

Will Study Data

The advisory committee composed of William E. Toms, Frank E. Hines and Jack G. Lucas, experts from local industrial plants, reported it will study figures given by the PE officials and report back to the Mayor and Council.

The PE delegation included Garland L. Johnston, district manager, Oscar H. Lashley Jr. and L. C. Cessna.

Among the details to be considered by the technical committee are whether the Thruway is to be lighted by mercury vapor, fluorescent or incandescent lamps, and whether steel, aluminum or wooden poles are to be used.

The committee asked the PE to furnish additional breakdowns on costs so it could estimate the ~~cost~~ if the city purchased and installed fixtures as opposed to annual charges made by the utility for erection, maintenance and current for the lighting.

It was stated that under the proposed standard rate charged by the utility for steel poles and mercury lights of 20,000 lumens, the annual cost of lighting the Thruway might amount to as much as $100,000 a year.

This is approximately $37,000 more than the cost estimate reached in previous discussions.

Need Final Plans

Officials pointed out it is difficult to determine the cost of lighting the Thruway, as no final plans are available for the entire project.

The previous figure of $63,000 was based on the fact that plans are final for the section from Lindnerville to Maryland Avenue. Lighting plans have been prepared by the Potomac Edison Company for this section.

The annual cost of lighting this section, which comprises about a third of the east-west segment, was estimated at about $21,000 a year on a rental basis, using steel poles and mercury lights.

The possibility of using aluminum poles was discussed along with the advisability of the city's paying the original installation costs and then paying the PE for current used, plus any maintenance which could not be performed by city workers.

It was brought out that the city, within a 20-year period, would be paying about three times the $200,000 cost of the installation under the rental proposal.

The industrial lighting experts have been asked to help the city find the most efficient and economical means of lighting the Thruway.

Under all estimates studied so far, it will cost several times as much to light the Thruway as all the rest of the city.

The current budget includes $39,000 for lighting all streets in the city with incandescent lamps.

Mrs. David Watson was chairman of arrangements for the dinner which was prepared and served by the home room mothers. Entertainment was arranged by Joseph Siebert, president.

The entertainment featured Mrs. Margery Chambers, music teacher of Allegany High School and the "Musettes," a vocal group including Donna Stewart, Rita Miller, Marjorie Nicklin, Sallie Runion, Dortha Hardman and Peggy Paddiford, accompanied at the piano by Ginger Davis, all Allegany students.

Sewer Job Begins

The Hout Construction Company yesterday began work on the Baker Street-Hill Top Drive sewer project. The $8,970 contract is designed to boost inadequate storm water facilities.
